time, repairs and gives away used cars. He'd heard about Lee's difficult situation from her nephew Frank McClary, the mayor of Andrews, South Carolina. On Christmas morning, Middleton showed up unannounced at Lee's home with a gift: a white 1993 Oldsmobile.

"I had no idea what was going on," said Lee. "He handed me the keys and didn't ask for anything." Once again, she's able to pick up her granddaughters from school and take them to dance class. "I got my freedom back."

The idea for the used-car giveaway came to Middleton a year earlier during a food drive he'd organized. Many of those who'd lined up for a meal walked up to four miles to get there because they didn't have cars. "Cars are a lifeline in this part of South Carolina," Middleton told CBS. "There's no public transportation, no Ubers, no taxis to take people to job interviews, doctor appointments, even food shopping." So he posted on Facebook an offer to trade his restaurant's specialty, barbecued ribs, for broken-down vehicles. Since then, friends and strangers have dropped off more than 100 cars in various states of disrepair. Many sit in Middleton's yard waiting to be patched up and donated, usually to those he's heard about through word of mouth. It's a list of names that grows daily.

"People think Eliot is an angel," Mayor McClary told the Washington Post. "And I do too."

24. What can we learn about Melaine Lee from the text?
- A. She lost her son in a car accident.
B. She was deeply depressed when her car broke down.
C. She refused to look after her grandchildren without a car.
D. She got a brand-new car from Middleton for free.
25. What will people get if they give their cars to Middleton?
- A. Some money. B. Another car. C. Some food. D. A Christmas gift.
26. What does the underlined part "patched up" in Paragraph 5 probably mean?
- A. Fixed up. B. Given away. C. Taken apart. D. Thrown about.
27. According to the text, which words can best describe Middleton?
- A. Outgoing and organized. B. Modest and optimistic.
C. Generous and cautious. D. Caring and skillful.

Facebook has launched its first pair of smart glasses, which house speakers and cameras, built with eyewear firm Ray-Ban. The glasses, which are available in a range of colours and styles, are priced at £299 and will be available from September 13.

Called Ray-Ban Stories, the glasses feature two five-megapixel cameras to take photos and videos, as well as built-in microphones and speakers enabling users to make calls and listen to audio. The glasses also come with built-in LED lights to let people nearby know when the wearer is taking a photo or video and pair with the new Facebook View app, which enables users to share content from the glasses to their social media accounts.

Announcing the new hardware, Facebook acknowledged that privacy was a key issue it had looked to address when creating the new device. "As with any new device, we have a big responsibility to help people feel comfortable and provide peace of mind, and that goes not only for device owners but the people around them, too," the social network said in a blog post.

Facebook said it would also offer guidance to users on how to safely use the glasses with regard to others. "We've developed guidelines for what is and isn't an appropriate use of the glasses, some of which are surfaced right in the app during onboarding, and which are available in full online on our dedicated privacy microsite for Ray-Ban Stories."

IQ is often considered as an important driver of success particularly in fields such as science, innovation and technology. In fact many people have endless fascination with the IQ scores of famous people. But the truth is that some of the greatest achievements by our species have primarily relied on qualities such as creativity, imagination, curiosity and empathy (同感).

Many of these characteristics are rooted in what scientists call “cognitive (认知的) flexibility” — a skill that enables us to switch between different concepts or to adapt behavior to achieve goals in a novel or changing environment. Cognitive flexibility provides us with the ability to see that what we are doing is not leading to success and to make the appropriate changes to achieve it.

Cognitive flexibility may have affected how people coped with the pandemic lockdowns (疫情封锁) which produced new challenges around work and schooling. Some of us found it easier than others to adapt our routines to do many activities from home. Such flexible people may also have changed these routines from time to time trying to find better and more varied ways of going about their day. Others, however, struggled and ultimately became more rigid in their thinking.

Flexible thinking is key to creativity. It also supports academic and work skills such as problem solving. For example, visual artists may be of average intelligence but highly creative and have produced masterpieces. Creativity is also important in science and innovation. We have discovered that successful businessmen who have created multiple companies are more cognitively flexible than managers of a similar age and IQ.

Cognitive flexibility is also associated with high recovery from negative life events as well as higher quality of life in older individuals. It can even be beneficial in emotional and social cognition; studies have shown that cognitive flexibility has a strong link to the ability to understand the emotions, thoughts and intentions of others.

o Neuroimaging studies have shown that cognitive flexibility is dependent on a network of frontal brain u regions. There are a number of ways to objectively assess people's cognitive flexibility including the Wisconsin Card Sorting test and the CANTAB Set Shift Task. And the good news is that it seems that you can train cognitive flexibility.

32. What can we learn from Paragraph 1?
- A. Creativity is the only source of people's success.
 - B. A driver's achievement is not determined by IQ.
 - C. The IQ of famous people is mysterious.
 - D. IQ may not be the key factor in human's achievements.
33. Which might NOT be an example of cognitive flexibility during pandemic lockdowns?
- A. Organizing online meetings.
 - B. Taking up indoor workout.
 - C. Joining in group hiking.
 - D. Learning to bake at home.
34. Which belongs to the consequences of cognitive flexibility ?
- A. Flexible people tend to stick to their routines.
 - B. People have a better understanding of others' feelings.
 - C. Businessmen are more likely to succeed than visual artists.
 - D. Older individuals are able to avoid misfortunes in life.
35. What would the following paragraph talk about?
- A. The ways to develop cognitive flexibility.
 - B. The application of cognitive flexibility.
 - C. The Wisconsin Card Sorting test.
 - D. The importance of training cognitive flexibility.

Dear Jack,

I'm very delighted to know that you are going to take part in the cross-country running race held annually in your school. I'm proud of you and admire you so much.

Long-distance running benefits us a lot. Not only can it build up our body but it can also strengthen our will. Besides, finishing the hard race will help us obtain self-confidence and motivation, which are essential qualities in our future success.

To make it, it's necessary to train regularly and make full preparations for it. Also, there is no doubt that you should take enough nutritious food and valuable instructions from your coach.

Go for it and wish you success.

Yours,
Li Hua

【听力原文】

(Text 1)

M: Do you really want to go to Egypt?

W: Yes, I really want to go there! I'm looking forward to seeing the Pyramids and the Nile.

(Text 2)

W: Do you like my new shoes?

M: Oh, yes. Aren't they smart? Where did you buy them?

W: Thank you very much! They are a present from my husband.

(Text 3)

W: It's lovely. I'll take it.

M: Are you paying cash?

(Text 4)

M: The bus was supposed to arrive at 9:00 and it's already 15 minutes late. If it doesn't come soon, I'll be late for my date.

W: Yes, I have a meeting at 10:00 and I can't afford to miss it.

(Text 5)

M: Good morning, madam. Come in. What can I do for you?

W: Well, I'm having difficulty in sleeping. I often wake up at three in the morning and I just can't get back to sleep.

(Text 6)

M: Hey, Susan. You're good at remembering things, aren't you?

W: Yeah, I guess so. Why?

M: I'm always forgetting things. Last week I went to the bank for some money, and I forgot to take it out of the machine. When I remembered and went back, the money was gone. Besides, I couldn't remember where I parked my car.

W: That's pretty bad.

M: Can you give me some advice on ways to improve my memory?

W: Not really. You'd better just let me drive you to the bank next time.

(Text 7)

W: My parents told me my uncles and aunts are planning a big family reunion in Paris this fall.

M: Are you going to the reunion?

W: You bet. All my uncles and aunts will take their children along, too. So I'll meet many cousins there.

M: How nice! But why Paris?

W: Because two of my aunts are French. They met and got married to my uncles in France. Some of their relatives are still living there.

M: Have you ever been to France before?

W: No. Actually, I've never traveled abroad. I'm very excited about it. I just can't wait.

M: My parents are going to take me on a trip to Hawaii next month by way of Tokyo, but I've been there three times already.

(Text 8)

W: Sorry, I'm late, Tom.

M: It's all right, Rita. Where have you been?

W: At the police station. I've lost my handbag. Or perhaps someone's taken it. I don't know.

M: Oh, no. What happened? Sit down. Was there anything important in it?

W: Important! My checkbook, all the papers I need for work.

M: Oh, that's terrible. But how did you lose it?

W: Well, as you know, I was with a friend all morning and we had lunch together. After I had lunch, I went shopping. And when I wanted to buy something, I couldn't find my checkbook. Then I remembered that it was in my handbag. And my handbag was in my car.

M: So you went back to your car.

W: But I didn't find it there.

M: And you went to the police station?

W: Not immediately. Before I went to the police station, I called my friend's office. No luck.

M: You should go to the restaurant where you had lunch and look for it.

W: Oh, I should have done that.

M: Now you'd better telephone the manager right away.

(Text 9)

M: Any messages, Miss Grey?

W: Just one, Mr. Blank. You had a telephone call from someone called Brown, David Brown.

M: Brown? I don't seem to know anyone called Brown. What did he want?

W: He wouldn't say. But it sounded important. I told him you'd phone him as soon as you got back.

M: Well, I'd better do it then, I suppose. Er...you've got his phone number, haven't you?

W: Yes, it's 633201.

M: 622301.

W: No, 633201.

M: Oh, I'd better write it down, otherwise I'll probably forget it.

W: I have already done it, Mr. Blank. It's on your desk.

(Text 10)

Hello, listeners. Welcome to Henton Hospital Radio. Before our music program at four, I'm going to repeat some of our hospital rules.

The visiting hours are in the afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30 and in the evening from 7:00 to 8:00. But remember only two people can see you at the same time. Sorry about that, but you can imagine what would happen if we didn't have these rules. The other rules are about our hours. We start pretty early—you might not be used to that. We wake you at 6 o'clock, breakfast is at 8 o'clock, and lunch is at noon; there's tea at 3:30 and supper is at 6 o'clock.

You can see the no-smoking sign—we don't allow smoking in the wards. However, if you do need to smoke, there are special areas where it is allowed.

You will find the radio switch on the wall near your bed, with your headphones, if you want to listen. It's our own hospital radio wishing you a speedy recovery.
