- 英语试题 第 3 页 (共 12 页)

Birdsong Hideaway

It's an ideal place for couples, families or friends to get together and enjoy Byron Bay. Wake up to a chorus of birds in the morning, just in time to have a coffee with friends in the privacy of the large verandah (露台餐厅).

The Village Glamping

This beautiful luxurious glamping (露营) space is located just 5 minutes from the heart of Byron Bay. This space is perfect for those wanting to experience the uniqueness of Byron Bay, from the breathtaking views on the lighthouse walk to the crystal clear waters at Wategos Beach.

Emperor Glamping

The Emperor Bell Tent sits on its own raised deck overlooking the tree-lined valley beyond. It's only a 9 minutes drive to the local shops. Perfect to lie in bed and watch the sunrise or sit out on the deck beneath the milky way at night.

21. Which feature is unique to Birdsong Hideaway?
- A. It is convenient to the bay.
B. It is perfect for family gathering.
C. It possesses forest views.
D. It offers camping experience.
22. Which accommodation best suits people who put indoor equipment in the first place?
- A. Modern Eco Cabin. B. Birdsong Hideaway.
C. The Village Glamping. D. Emperor Glamping.
23. What is probably the major reason for travelers to choose the four accommodations?
- A. Eco-friendliness. B. Uniqueness.
C. Convenience. D. Cost-effectiveness.

B

Like many teenagers, I was once troubled by anxiety and dissatisfaction—feelings that my parents often met with puzzlement rather than sympathy. They were already in their 50s, and having grown up in postwar Britain, they struggled to understand the sources of my discontentment.

“The problem with your generation is that you always desire to be happy.” my mother once said. I was puzzled. Surely happiness was the purpose of living, and we should spare no efforts to achieve it at every opportunity. I simply wasn't prepared to accept my unhappiness as something that was beyond my control.

But I have noticed a shift in thinking, and I am now coming to the conclusion that my mother's judgement was spot on. Over the past 10 years, numerous studies have shown that our obsession (痴迷) with happiness and high personal confidence may be making us less content with our lives, and less effective at reaching our actual goals. Indeed, we may often be happy when we stop focusing on happiness altogether.

While greater contentment is achievable, don't expect miracle, and accept that no matter how hard you try, feeling of frustration and unhappiness will appear from time to time. In reality, certain negative feelings can serve a useful purpose.

When we feel sad, it's often because we have learned something painful but important, while stress can motivate you to make some changes to your life. The last thing you should do is to blame yourselves for occasionally feeling bad when plans don't work out.

Eventually, you might adopt the old saying "Prepare for the worst, hope for the best and be unsurprised by everything in between." As my mother tried to teach me all those years ago, ease the pressure off yourself, and you may find that contentment arrives when you're least expecting it.

24. Which of the following best explains "spot on" underlined in Paragraph 3?

- A. Confusing
- B. Correct
- C. Ridiculous
- D. Controversial

25. According to the passage, which of the following mainly leads to teenagers' unhappiness?

- A. High expectations.
- B. Low living-purposes.
- C. Inadequate efforts.
- D. Improper preparations.

26. Which of the following statements is the author most likely to agree with?

- A. Stress in your life will probably ruin your happiness and life.
- B. Higher personal confidence makes us more satisfied with our life.
- C. You needn't be guilty of feeling awful since you may learn a lot from it.
- D. If we try hard, feelings of frustration and unhappiness will disappear from our life.

27. Which of the following can be the best title for the text?

- A. Can we benefit from negative feelings?
- B. Why it's time to stop fighting for happiness?
- C. How can we overcome our unhappiness?
- D. Can we generation be happier than our parents?

C

After you finish your fries, eat the ketchup packet. When you add your pasta to boiling water, put the bag into the pot, too. If these instructions sound confusing to you, it's only because you haven't yet heard of Notpla, a London-based startup company that is designing a seaweed-based replacement for single-use plastic packaging. Notpla design director Karlijn Sibbel says they look to nature as inspiration for the ideal packaging like the skin on a fruit. "A peel will eventually be used as nutrients by nature, and disappear and become a part of the cycle," she said.

According to the UN, 9.15 billion tons of plastic has been produced since the early 1950s, and about 60% has been land-filled or abandoned outdoors. Micro-plastics, which are often the result of larger plastics breaking down, pollute the ocean, the air and our bodies. Over the past few years, there has been a growing movement against single-use plastics as many experts have argued the products are unnecessary and harmful. In the US, some places have taken action: New York banned most plastic shopping bags, and in Miami Beach, plastic straws have been outlawed. "Overseas, the European Union put a broad ban on single-use plastics into effect this summer," the government announced in August.

"Notpla's founders, Rodrigo García González and Pierre Paslie, initially looked to seaweed as the solution to the world's plastic problem because it is abundant, grows quickly, doesn't compete with land crops," Sibbel explained. There are also many different seaweed species, and it can be harvested or farmed. Seaweed doesn't use land; it doesn't use pesticides. It can grow into the ocean and the sea, where it actually has a lot of positive benefits so it can create new ecosystems for other organisms to thrive in.

"As they scale up, Notpla's team hopes seaweed could replace single-use plastic in the supply chain more broadly," Sibbel said. But with the volume of plastics used around the world, she understands the enormity (巨大) of such a task. "I don't think one material or one solution is going to solve everything, but we think that seaweed really ticks the right boxes," she said.

28. What does the author mainly talk about in the first paragraph?

- A. The tasty food made from seaweed such as pasta.
- B. Common functions of seaweed.
- C. The famous company called Notpla.
- D. Plastic packaging made from seaweed.

英语试题 第6页(共12页)

29. What can be learned about plastic pollution and solutions from the passage?
- A. Micro-plastics can only be found in the sea.
- B. The single-use plastics are considered avoidable by many experts.
- C. More than half of the plastic produced has been land-filled.
- D. The European Union and the US have completely stopped using single-use plastics.
30. Which is not the reason for the company's founders turning to seaweed?
- A. It is pesticide-free.
- B. It is easily accessible.
- C. It can grow on land.
- D. It can do good to the ocean.
31. Which word best describes Karlijn Sibbel's attitude to the future use of seaweed?
- A. Optimistic.
- B. Uncertain.
- C. Negative.
- D. Worried.

D

By being able to wait for better food, cuttlefish showed self-control that's linked to the higher intelligence. It was part of an experiment by Alex Schnell from the University of Cambridge and colleagues. "What surprised me most was the level of self-control shown by cuttlefish," she tells Weekend Edition.

The experiment was essentially a take on the classic “marshmallow” experiment from the 1960s. In that experiment, young children were presented with one marshmallow and told that if they can resist eating it for several minutes, they will get two marshmallows. But if they eat it, that’s all they get. The children who are able to delay gratification do better on tests and are more successful later in life.

To adapt the experiment for cuttlefish, the researchers first figured out the cuttlefish's favorite food: live grass shrimp; and their second-favorite food: a piece of king prawn. Instead of choosing one or two marshmallows, the cuttlefish had to choose either their favorite food or second-favorite food. Each of the food items were placed in clear chambers within their tank. One chamber would open immediately, while the other chamber would only open after a delay. It essentially tested whether they could resist the temptation (诱惑) of their second preference food and wait for their preferred food.

The cuttlefish learned to wait. “Animals like rats and pigeons find it difficult to resist temptation, only waiting for several seconds,” Schnell says, “while animals s and parrots show more advanced self-control and wait up to several minutes. And the cuttlefish in our study waited up to between 50 to 130 seconds. ”

Animals that are able to exercise self-control in this way have advantages. For example, animals can hide food to eat later. In cuttlefish, Schnell thinks the delayed gratification relates to their lifestyle. “ Individuals who wait for better-quality prey could find food more efficiently and limit their exposure to predators. ” Schnell writes.

32. Why does the writer mention the experiment conducted in the 1960s?
- A. To highlight the intelligence of humans.
 - B. To offer statistics to the experiment for cuttlefish.
 - C. To show the differences between humans and animals.
 - D. To provide supporting background information for the following experiment.
33. What can we learn about the experiment for cuttlefish from the passage?
- A. The chamber with cuttlefish's favorite food wouldn't open instantly.
 - B. The cuttlefish had to choose between the food they liked and the food they disliked.
 - C. Cuttlefish could not wait to eat their favourite food immediately.
 - D. The food were put at the same place for cuttlefish to choose from.
34. What can be inferred from the passage?
- A. Cuttlefish is probably born with the ability to resist temptation.
 - B. It is a disadvantage for animals to exercise too much self-control.
 - C. Cuttlefish may be less intelligent than Chimpanzees.
 - D. We must take immediate measures to protect cuttlefish.
35. Where can we most probably read this text?
- A. In a personal diary.
 - B. In a travel magazine.
 - C. In a science report.
 - D. In a geography textbook.

第二节(共5小题,每小题2分,满分10分)

根据短文内容,从短文后的选项选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

Why sensitive kids will make the world a better place?

Sensitive children are these special, observant people. They notice when you're sad, and they ask why. They're often old souls with big hearts who want to make other people happy. 36 Why?

英语试题 第8页(共12页)

Because they're supportive. 37 They believe in people and want to see them do well. They want to make the people they love happy. Sensitive people are often great listeners — they want to know people and understand what they're thinking and feeling. They want to be there for you when you need them.

38 Sensitive kids typically have unbelievable imaginations. They're dreamers. Their creativity shines through in all they do, and ideas just come to them. They show a great appreciation for the arts and they're inspired by the beauty they find in the world. They notice that tiny little worms crawling on the sidewalk and the puffy (松软洁白的) clouds in the sky.

Because they are unique. 39 They're insightful and reflective — they like to take the time to be alone and spend time with their thoughts. They appreciate calm and quiet moments.

Because they're strategic. Psychologist Dr. Elaine Aron's and author of The Highly Sensitive Child says highly sensitive children are “ Quick to grasp small and not so obvious changes and generally behave conscientiously (勤勉地)”. 40

- A. Because they're emotional.
- B. Because they are creative.
- C. They're going to do big things in this world.
- D. They try to build up those around them, not tear them down.
- E. They want to celebrate with them if they're happy and excited.
- F. Their attention to detail is impressive and they think things thoroughly.
- G. They can often bring another perspective to the table because they tend to think differently.

Dear Kevin,

Glad to hear you're coming to China in July. The following is some Chinese social customs.

Firstly, we greet each others by saying "Hello!" or asking questions like "Where are you going to?" to express our care. Secondly, when praised, we replied with "I'm overpraised" to show well manners. Next, when received a gift, we usually say "It's unnecessary." besides "Thanks." to show politeness and then put them away. Finally, at dinner parties, we touch glasses before drinking to show that we are warm or friendly.

I hope which is mentioned above might be helpful and wish you good journey.

Yours,
Li Hua

阅读理解

A

【语篇导读】本文是一篇应用文。文章主要介绍了 Byron Bay 四家性价比高的酒店。

21. B 由第一段 "It's an ideal place for couples, families or friends to get together" 可知 Birdsong Hideaway 是理想的聚会场地。故选 B。
22. A 由第二段 "It is fully equipped with a full size kitchen, wifi, smart flat screen TV with Netflix" 可知 Modern Eco Cabin 配备大量的室内装备。故选 A。
23. D 由第一段 "More than 300 cost-effective accommodations can be found on www.airbnb.cn." 再结合全文可知四家酒店都是性价比较高的酒店。故选 D。

【语篇导读】本文是一篇议论文。作者分享了自己对母亲的观点 "年轻一代的问题在于总是期待快乐" 由疑惑到赞同的转变过程。作者还指出, 负面情绪是生活必不可少的一部分, 我们需要做的是放松心态, 或许能在期待最少的时候获得最想要的满足。

24. B 根据第二段 "I was puzzled." 和第三段 "But I have noticed a shift in thinking", 再联系上下文可知, 对于妈妈的观点, 作者由最初的感到困惑转变成认同她说的话, 所以 my mother's judgement was spot on 表示作者认为妈妈的判断是完全正确的。故选 B。
25. A 根据第二段 "The problem with your generation is that you always desire to be happy" 和第三段全段内容可以概括出: 年轻人对幸福过于期待恰恰是导致不幸福的主要原因。故选 A。
26. C 根据第四段 "... we have learned something painful but important ..." 和 "The last thing you should do is to blame yourselves for occasionally feeling bad when plans don't work out." 可知你不需要因为感觉糟糕而愧疚, 因为一些消极情绪也可以发挥作用。故选 C。
27. B 本文围绕是否应该追求幸福展开讨论, 并得出结论: 我们需要放松心态, 或许能在期待最少的时候获得最想要的满足。故选 B。

英语试题参考答案 第 1 页 (共 6 页)

C

【语篇导读】本文是一篇说明文。塑料污染越来越严重,很多国家或地区已经采取措施应对。伦敦一家公司发明了以海草为原料的塑料,从源头杜绝污染。

28. D 根据第一段内容可概括推断出本段在谈论由海草制成的塑料包装。故选 D。
29. B 根据第二段“Over the past few years, there has been a growing movement against single-use plastics as many experts have argued the products are unnecessary and harmful.”可推断出 single-use plastics 可避免使用。故选 B。
30. C 根据第三段“Seaweed doesn't use land”可知 C 项不是原因,根据第二段中“it doesn't use pesticides”,“There are also many different seaweed species, and it can be harvested or farmed.”“It can grow into the ocean and the sea, where it actually has a lot of positive benefits so it can create new ecosystems for other organisms to thrive in.”可分别推断出 A、B、D 都是原因。故选 C。
31. A 根据文章最后一段“I don't think one material or one solution is going to solve everything, but we think that seaweed really ticks the right boxes”可推断出作者认为海草塑料是解决塑料污染的一个正确选择。故选 A。

【语篇导读】本文是一篇说明文。科学家借鉴经典的儿童棉花糖实验,给乌贼提供最喜欢的和第二喜欢的食物作选择。实验中乌贼可以抵制诱惑,证明了它们的高智商。

32. D 根据第二段第一句“The experiment was essentially a take on the classic ‘marshmallow’ experiment from the 1960s.”可知下文乌贼的实验是借鉴了经典的儿童棉花糖实验,所以作者提及该实验是为后面的实验提供背景信息。故选 D。
33. A 根据文中“One chamber would open immediately, while the other chamber would only open after a delay”,结合上文可推断出装着乌贼最喜欢食物的箱子是不会立即打开的。故选 A。
34. C 根据文中第一段“By being able to wait for better food, cuttlefish showed self-control that's linked to the higher intelligence.”和最后一段“while animals such as chimpanzees and parrots show more advanced self-control and wait up to several minutes. And the cuttlefish in our study waited up to between 50 to 130 seconds.”可知黑猩猩和鹦鹉抵制诱惑时间长,智商应该更高。故选 C。
35. C 根据全文内容可知全文介绍了一个科学实验证明乌贼的智商高,所以最有可能在 science report 中读到。故选 C。

七选五

36. C 本空设在段中。前文和后文都提到 sensitive children 的优势和特长,再结合文章大标题 Why sensitive kids will make the world a better place? 可知本处应该是说 sensitive children 可以做一些了不起的事。故选 C。
37. D 本空设在段中。根据本段首句和下句可知 sensitive children 相信别人并支持别人,所以推断出他们会努力团结周围的人,而不是摧毁他们。故选 D。
38. B 本空设在段首。本段主要在讲 sensitive children 想象力丰富,是梦想家,创造力惊人。故选 B。
39. G 本空设在段中。G 选项关键词 differently 和首句中的 unique 是对应的。此外,本段说的是 sensitive children 的一些独特之处,G 选项恰好是说他们会提出不同观点,思维方式不同。故选 G。
40. F 本空设在段末。上文说到 sensitive children 擅长捕捉细节变化,和 F 选项 their attention to detail is impressive 相对应。故选 F。

完形填空

【语篇导读】本文是一篇夹叙夹议文。文章主要介绍了自己从小爱读书,并在专注于读书的过程中找到了属于自己的幸福。

41. D 根据上文父母去工作了,可知作者这一天无人看管和约束,此处 stolen day 表示偷来的一天,有一种表示意外获得的感觉;
42. A 因为父母都上班了,就没有人去限制作者的行动,因此作者的活动就没有 limit,想干什么就干什么;
43. B 根据下文 shoplifting 可知是在商场,作者此处用了一种夸张的手法,表示自己行动的自由;
44. C 根据下文的 a book 可知作者已经准备好开始阅读了;
45. A 根据 I was thrilled 可知作者看得很起劲,此处 transport 表明作者深深地被书吸引,是一种身临其境的状态;
46. D just 在此处语气最合适,强调作者非常喜欢读书,只需要一本书就可以一个人独处;
47. A 在读书的过程中作者偶然间发现了幸福的秘诀,come across 表示“偶遇”;
48. B 根据上文的 perfect 可知作者完全沉浸在书本的阅读快乐之中;
49. A note 此处为动词,表示“注意”,作者提醒读者注意 absorption 不同于 distraction 和 obsession;
50. C 根据上下文可知,专注于某事,就是要融入其中。当完成这件事之后,你的精神世界将更加丰富,come out of 表示“从...之中走出或完成某事”;
51. D enriched 和上文 richer 相呼应,we don't get enriched 表示 to be distracted 会让你一无所获;
52. A 根据上下文可知,为某事痴迷最终可能会让你深陷其中,深受其害;
53. B 作者得出结论:因此,幸福的秘诀就是找到能让你专注的事,并全身心地追求;
54. C 同上题;
55. B 最后一段首先回顾自己专注于读书的过程,发现在身处专注状态之中时,作者的思想和人生发生了一些微妙的事情;
56. C 同上题;
57. D 前文讲到阅读海明威的作品,所以此处是指海明威作品的语言进入到我的想象之中;
58. D 下文讲到写作,所以此处应该是指创造简单又优美的句子;
59. B 上文提到创造简单又优美的句子和详实的情节,换言之作者在学习写作。In other words 意为“换言之”;
60. C absorb 和上文的 absorption 相呼应,表示写作和阅读一样能让作者专注其中。

语法填空

61. winning 此处考查非谓语动词,winning 做结果状语;
62. excitingly 词性的考查,fast 和 excellent 是形容词,需要副词来修饰,因此用 excitingly;
63. after 介词的考查,根据文本,这里表示在“比赛后不久”,因此用 shortly after;
64. and 连词的考查,the fourth gold medal 和 the first Olympic gold 为并列关系,因此用并列连词 and;
65. got 谓语动词的考查,根据句子分析可知此处 get 做的是谓语动词,又根据时间状语 In 2018 可知,此处要用一般过去式,注意不要受 already 的影响而使用了完成时;
66. where 关系词的考查,先行词为 point,关系词作状语时用 where 引导定语从句;
67. myself 反身代词的考查,根据句意:对手是我自己,因此用 myself;
68. was admitted 谓语动词的考查,根据句子结构分析,可知此处做从句的谓语,又根据 since 表示自从时,从句一般用一般过去式,结合语意,此处为被动语态,表示“被录取”,因此答案为 was admitted

69. competitions 名词单复数的考查 根据其后的定语从句 that are held home and abroad, 可知此处 competition 是复数形式;

70. national 词性的考查, flag 是名词, 前面需要形容词来修饰, 因此用 national, national flag 表示国旗。

短文改错

第一处 is 改为 are, 考察主谓一致;

第二处 others 改为 other, 考察短语 each other, 表示互相;

第三处删除 to, 此处没有宾语, 不需要介词 to;

第四处 replied 改为 reply, 考察时态一致性;

第五处 well 改为 good, 考察形容词和副词辨析;

第六处 received 改为 receiving, 考察状语从句的省略现象 when we receive 省略为 when receiving;

第七处 them 改为 it, 代词 it 指代上文的 a gift;

第八处 or 改为 and, warm 和 friendly 为“且”的关系;

第九处 which 改为 what, “what is mentioned above”为主语从句;

第十处 good journey 前加 a, journey 为可数名词。

书面表达

Collect used books on campus

Over the past months, I have been participating in a school project of collecting used books on campus, which runs smoothly and proves effective.

The aim of the project is to donate books to a primary school in a small village. Meanwhile, it's also intended to protect the environment by recycling old books. The success of this project lies in a thorough survey beforehand and a detailed plan. Meanwhile, a series of activities have been held to arouse students' interest in participation.

I hope more students will join us and more people will benefit from the project in the following days.

(Text 1)

M: Hi, Cindy. Have you seen the interesting film? It's really good.

W: I didn't get a ticket. But you were very lucky.

(Text 2)

W: I've sent out the invitations for the dinner party.

M: That's good. Now what should we do?

W: We've got to plan the menu.

M: OK. Do you have anything in mind?

(Text 3)

W: Everybody is here except John. Shall we start the meeting?

M: If we waited for John, we might be here all night.

(Text 4)

W: It's such a lovely dinner. Let's each pay for the bill.

M: OK! Let me see. It's 80 dollars each for the dishes we ordered, and an extra 10 dollars for t

(Text 5)

M: Don't be angry with them. They are only kids. We can buy another vase.

W: This is not the first time. They broke the glass and the window last month. We can't spoil our kids.

(Text 6)

M: I thought your flight would arrive two hours ago. What took so long?

W: Didn't they announce that our flight was delayed?

M: I didn't hear anything about a delay. I thought everything was running on time. What happened?

W: We got on the plane on time but then we were held up for almost two hours due to an unknown problem.

M: That's too bad. Have you had anything to eat?

W: I managed to get a sandwich on the plane. How about you?

M: I've had nothing but a cup of coffee. I'm starving. Let's get out of here and find a restaurant.

(Text 7)

W: What do you like to do in your free time?

M: My grandfather always asks me to do Tai Ji with him at home.

W: Wow, so you like Kungfu?

M: Not really. I like swimming best.

W: It's both a sport and a hobby. Do you want to build up your strength or kill your time?

M: Neither. I spent most of my spare time to accompany my grandfather.

W: The Tai Ji could help people keep fit.

M: What's your favorite sport?

W: Frankly, I don't like sports at all. I'm fond of music.

M: Yes, you play flute wonderfully.

W: Thanks, I think playing flute is a relaxation for me after a day's tiring work. To my surprise, when I play flute, my dog always listens attentively.

M: So amazing.

(Text 8)

M: Good morning, Mrs. White.

W: Good morning, Stevie. What do you want?

M: Well, Mrs. White... your grass is pretty high. I wonder if you would like me to mow your lawn.

W: That's a good idea, Stevie, but my lawnmower broke down, and I was too busy to have it fixed.

M: Yes, I know, Mrs. White. But I thought I could use our own lawnmower.

W: Are you sure it's all right with your parents?

M: Yes, I have asked them.

W: And how much would you charge me?

M: My mom thought I could ask for five dollars. Your lawn is pretty big.

W: All right, Stevie. When can you do it?

(Text 9)

W: Today we are very honored to invite Prof. Li as our special guest in 2021 to have a talk about floods with us.
Prof. Li, is it dangerous to meet with floods?

M: Of course. Serious floods hit most parts of China last year, causing great damage. Floods can strike with almost no warning, which will make people in danger.

英语试题参考答案 第5页(共6页)

W: If a flood is coming our way, how can we know?

M: You might receive an alarm from our National Weather Service. But that means a flood is possible in your area.

W: What can we do if a flood happens?

M: First, make your way to higher ground because water is always going to flow down. Second, avoid all moving water if possible. Even one meter of rushing water can knock you over and put you in danger. Additionally, if you must walk through water to safety, find shallow spots. At last, keep away from any electrical equipment.

W: Thanks for your advice.

(Text 10)

An article published has touched millions of readers with the real-life story of genius translator Jin Xiaoyu and his father, Jin Xingyong.

Jin has been blind in one eye after an accident and he has visited a mental hospital for treatment every year since 1992. In 2010, he started translating foreign books. Over the past decade, he has translated 22 books from English, Japanese and German and read almost every foreign language novel in Zhejiang Library. More than 10 of his translations have been published. Jin used translation as his "weapon" to fight the mental problem, and he took care of his mother for the last three years of her life.

The story captured the hearts of millions of readers and began circulating widely online. Jin Xingyong began to receive phone calls offering help after the story ran in the newspaper. Jin Xingyong declined all the material support. He said the story's publication in the newspaper is the fulfillment of his "long held" wish. "What Xiaoyu needs most now is a peaceful and quiet life", Jin said while expressing thanks for all the attention. Most of the readers said they were particularly touched by the parents' great love for Jin Xiaoyu. "I cried several times reading it and understood what it meant to be dependent on each other" a reader surnamed Lyu commented.
