Text 1

W: Have you seen the movie An Unexpected Journey?

M: Yes, it's wonderful. You will be amazed at the special effects.

Text 2

W: What shall we do today?

M: I don't feel like going out. The weather is so wet.

W: Personally, I am planning to visit a fashion show, but I would love to stay with you.

Text 3

M: Look, Alice. Tom is over there. Let's go and say hi to him.

W: I don't think it's Tom. He's much shorter. That must be his brother Henry. They look alike just with different heights.

Text 4

W: I made a dinner reservation for 9 pm tomorrow evening. It's late, but the restaurant doesn't close until 11 pm.

M: OK. Sounds good. I might be a little late, but I should arrive no later than 9:30.

W: OK.

Text 5

M: How was your weekend, Nancy?

W: Not too good. I was about to leave for a trip on Saturday morning, when I found my kitchen was ruined by the dirty water from the apartment above mine. I spent the whole weekend cleaning.

M: Oh, that's terrible.

Text 6

W: Hey, Tom, there is an excellent live show at the Big Boogie tonight. Let's ask Mark and Peter to come along.

M: But Mark has to finish an essay tonight. Peter will do some bird-watching.

W: Then let's call some other people to come along instead.

M: Good idea. See you in half an hour.

Text 7

M: The apartment, Green Vally, is only seven hundred dollars a month which is a lot cheaper than the one that I just showed you. And it's big. But of course, it doesn't have an impressive view of the city, which is reflected in the rent.

W: Oh, well, it doesn't really matter to me whether it has a good view or not, and I do like the fact that the underground is so close. Does the apartment come fully furnished?

M: Sure. It is included in the rental fee. However, you'll have to pay for the electricity. Oh, and also the phone line if you want one.

W: Actually I'll probably just use my mobile phone. Well, I think this place is perfect for me. Could I fill out the paperwork today? I'd like to move in as soon as possible.

Text 8

M: So how long have you been living in New York City?

W: I came here from Los Angeles after I graduated from college four years ago.

M: Why didn't you stay in Los Angeles after you left college?

W: I like experiencing life in different cities. When I attended college in Los Angeles, I did part-time work and experienced life there. After graduation, I wanted to know what life was like in New York City.

M: So do you want to leave New York City one day?

W: Sure, I want to go to Chicago and live there for a couple of years. Then I want to go to some Asian cities, for example, Shanghai. Do you like living in different cities?

M: I used to. But now I just want to settle down here.

Text 9

M: Hey, Amy! What are you doing over there?

W: Trying to finish my homework.

M: Come on. It's Saturday night! Who wants to do homework on the weekend?

W: I have to. I'm behind in my class. If I don't catch up this weekend, I'm in trouble.

M: You can't do your homework well; we have the TV on loudly. I know you just want to watch the program with us.

W: Yeah, I can't concentrate very well. My homework isn't as interesting as that show.

M: We can go to another room and watch it...

W: No, I'll just go and find a quiet place.

M: Why don't you take a little break? If you watch the show first, you'll probably do your homework better.

W: Maybe you're right. I really want to watch the show. I'll just get up earlier tomorrow to finish my homework.

W: The Edinburgh International Book Festival is one of the best public celebrations of books in the world. The first Book Festival took place in a tent in Edinburgh in 1983. At first, it was held every two years. In 1997, it began to be held every year. It is now a large and growing international event. Perhaps, as a result of this, Edinburgh was named the first UNESCO of Literature in 2004. The Book Festival runs in the last three weeks of August every year in Edinburgh. The festival's home is the beautiful Charlotte Square Gardens centrally located in Edinburgh's historical new town, which is a little way from Princess Street. It's a wonderful space to sit, think, play and be entertained. You can enjoy a relaxing atmosphere—see a favorite author, join in a workshop, enjoy a glass of wine or beer, or simply park yourself on the grass. There are over 700 events for both adults and children in the three weeks that the festival runs. They range from writing workshops, education events, discussions, to talks and performances by international writers, poets, musicians and thinkers.

One possible version:

Dear Bob,

I'm writing to invite you to the Chinese poetry reading competition, which is to be held in the school hall this Thursday. It will start from 2 o'clock and last two hours. Considering you're keen on Chinese culture, I hope you can participate.

This event aims to make the school life colorful and help more people learn about traditional Chinese culture. Thus, all teachers and students are welcome. I'm sure you'll have a great time and find this event rewarding.

Looking forward to your early reply.

Yours,

Li Hua

第二节

One possible version:

Around a week later, my parents received a message on their business voicemail. A stranger was calling with the news of my wallet. "I'm calling for Mike," said the stranger. "I think I've found his wallet." I couldn't believe it. This man, in an attempt to find who the wallet belonged to, looked inside of it, and found a check which my parents had written to me. It happened to have their business phone number on it. A week later we went to take the wallet back. Returning home, I wrote a long letter to the man expressing my gratitude, saying that he was truly a remarkable person for returning my wallet to me and that I would be forever indebted to him. I concluded and mailed it to him.

Losing your wallet is one of those events that unfortunately sometimes happen. While most of us tend to move on after mourning for the lost necessities, there are a few lucky ones who get them back, with the help of the police. And the generosity of the person who finds it can also bring the wallet back home again. We will always remember their kindness and often send a warm wish to them.
