My Most Memorable Day

Among so many special days in my life, I would like to share one of my birthdays.

That day I failed the English exam at school and arrived home sorrowfully. When I found my mom had prepared a grand dinner for my birthday celebration, a feeling of guilt came to my mind with my eyes in tears. Not knowing what happened, Mom just came over and hugged me. After I poured out my frustration, mom gently comforted me, saying that it was my dedicated attempt, instead of the exam result, that mattered most.

I was encouraged by Mom's words and learned that all I needed was just to devote myself to my work. How meaningful a lesson and what a memorable day!

读后续写:

A moment later the entertainment director ran back to us. She asked us why we didn't finish the show as promised. We told her how embarrassed we felt when we played in front of complete silence. We also expressed our concern that they must dislike us. "What are you talking about?" asked the director, "I've been talking to them. They love you so much. " It turned out that they just didn't know they were supposed to clap. Or they simply couldn't do so due to severe physical or mental disabilities. All of us stared at her in disbelief, and we decided to keep our word and finish the show.

Returning to the stage, we played our final three songs. Finally, with the show over, we began packing up our instruments. We had still received no applause. However, as we were to leave, at least fifty people crowded onto the stage. All of them wanted to thank us; some shook our hands, and some surrounded us with a wide grin. Several told us that we were the best band that had played for them in years. We couldn't believe it. We never felt as good as we did that one special night.

【导语】本文以人物为线索展开，讲述了17岁时，作者和三个同学组成了一个乐队，在他们学校的才艺表演中获得一等奖后，他们被一家大型医院预订了慈善活动，他们做了充足的准备，但是观众中的很多人都患有严重的身体或精神残疾，在演出的过程中，他们没有收到预期的观众反馈，沉默的演出环境，让他们感到很挫败，他们决定提前结束演出，既然没有人欣赏他们，为什么还要费心完成呢？他们拔掉乐器的电源，来到后台。

【详解】1. 段落续写:

①由第一段首句内容“过了一会儿，娱乐总监跑回我们身边。”可知，第一段可描写娱乐总监过来询问为什么提前结束演出，作者做出解释，他们进行了沟通，打算按照计划完成演出。

②由第二段首句内容“回到舞台，我们演奏了最后三首歌。”可知，第二段可描写作者和成员按照计划完成了演出，观众们上台表达感谢。

2. 续写线索：询问原因--做出解释--进行沟通--计划完成演出--完成演出--观众达感谢--感受

Text 1

W:Excuse me, Tony. Has my parcel arrived from New York?

M: Unfortunately, it's been delayed due to the bad weather. You might have to wait an extra day or two.

Text 2

M: I just want to let you know that the senior partners approved your promotion. Congratulations.

W: That's wonderful news, especially on a Friday. I'll need to celebrate this weekend. Maybe drink something on Saturday.

Text 3

M: It was chaos trying to buy tickets for that concert. The website crashed every time I got to the payment screen.

W: Next time we should go to the ticket office in person.

Text 4

W: OK, just be still and smile. Hold on. I think this camera is not good for what I am doing.

M: You should try that one instead. I heard it's good in low light conditions. Or maybe you can use your assistant's.

Text 5

W: You got ninety percent in maths, ninety-two percent in physics--but only fifty-five per cent in English. This report doesn't make any sense.

M: I know. I did worse in my best subject and better in my worst subjects.

Text 6

W: Mr. Jessup is definitely my favorite teacher.

M: Did I meet him at the parents' night, sweetheart?

W: Yes! My history teacher. Brown hair, medium height. . .

M: Bright red glasses?

W: That's him. He's just so nice. That is why I like him. Some people have been getting stressed over the mid-term exam, so, at the end of each lesson, he makes us laugh by telling us a funny historical fact.

M: Like what?

W: Like. . . did you know that Abraham Lincoln was a wrestling champion, before becoming President?

Or that Napoleon was once attacked by a crowd of rabbits?

M: Ha-ha! No, that's all news to me!

Text 7

M: Hey, Miranda! You are looking good! Have you been on a diet?

W: No way! You know me, I love sweets and fatty things too much. I actually joined the new sports club in Hill Street.

M: I went there after school just after it opened in October, but I thought 40 pounds a month was too much.

W: It's 40 pounds if you don't become a member. If you do, it's half price.

M: That's pretty good! Do they have bodybuilding? I need to get a bit stronger.

W: Yes. There is a swimming class every day. There is also a great kickboxing class on Wednesdays and a weightlifting class on Fridays.

M: Great! I think I will take a weightlifting class.

Text 8

W: So, what do you plan to do after college?

M: I'll probably get a job in software engineering.

W: Will you enjoy that? You don't seem to love Professor Parker's class. . .

M: Well, I'm good at it, and most importantly, it'll pay well! But I'm hoping to find a job that'll allow me to focus on inventing.

W: Yes, you must keep going with that. You've already created so many cool things. I use your mess-free coffee cup, and it is amazing that I don't have to clean the coffee cup myself. I also use your light-up book marker every day!

M: Well, I'm glad! My hope is that the fun inventions like that will one day help me set up my own environmental design agency.

W: That would be amazing.

M: I enjoy thinking up ideas to help people live their everyday life, but I want to design something that will really help the planet. Like, I'm working on an idea for a machine to clean microplastics out of the ocean.

W: I have every faith you'll do it. Come on, tell me about it on our way to class...

Text 9

W: So, how many tomato plants did you want, Bill?

M: I'm not sure, really. My greenhouse is much smaller than this one. How big, will they grow?

W: Well, there are two types. . the cordon tomatoes grow tall, about six feet. You'll need to use a long stick to support them. Or I can give you a few of the bush type, which don't need support, but take up more space.

M: Well, my greenhouse is tall, but I don't have much floor space.

W: Cordon, then. I'll put a few baby paints into pots for you. Let's start with four.

M: Thanks. This place is honestly amazing, Clara. I hope I have a growing space like this someday!

W: It's great, isn't it? Peter built it for me as a gift to celebrate 10 years of marriage. Best present I've ever had!

M: That's lovely! What did you get him?

W: A bunch of new parts for his motorbike! Very romantic, eh?

M: Hey, if that's what he likes!

W: Well, Wendy will be happy if you start growing your own vegetables and herbs. She's such a great cook.

M: Yes, she is very keen on my new hobby!

W: I bet! Hey, it's her birthday next week, isn't it? Do you think she'd like one of my homegrown plants as a gift?

M: I'm sure she would. She loved the flowers you gave her at Christmas.

Hello, everyone. Welcome to this year's British Academy Film Awards. It's a pleasure to host this year's ceremony, and I'm so glad the film academy finally allows me to present. I'm Daniel Zloof. You may have recognized me from your grandparents' favorite comedy specials or from outdated movies. All jokes aside, it's an honor to be here and present this year's awards. At age 74, this is my first ever ceremony hosting job. I've waited a long time to do this, and I promise not to make fun of everyone too much. I have 12 awards to give out, and each will require two or more actors to give speeches. So we might be here all night. First, this is a beloved category that I know very little about, the award for the best science-fiction or fantasy film. Next, the movies that I'm too easily scared to appreciate, the award for the best horror film. And the following category that we're also excited for, or at least I am personally, is the award for the best action film. Now, back to the top. We have a brilliant selection of fantasy films with a fantastic group of actors. First, we have Space Force, a tale of a space explorer's mission to Mars. Next, A Magic Wish, a young boy's journey to discover his powers. And last but not least, Escape from Ape Island, a legend about a giant gorilla's homeland. And now, drum-roll, please. This great honor goes to . . .
