听力部分录音稿

(Text 1)

W: Do you have time for a cup of coffee? There is a good place across the street from my apartment.

M: Thanks, but I'm heading to the bar next to my office. I'm meeting some friends there.

(Text 2)

W: That was an amazing play! The acting was perfect, and the music was so exciting!

M: Well, the costumes were terrible! And there was a tall man sitting in front of me. I couldn't see half the time.

(Text 3)

M: I guess Tom is not at home. There's no answer.

W: Why don't you look for him in his office? He often works late until seven in the evening.

(Text 4)

M: You're going to need new tires. They should be around $200.

W: That's pretty cheap. Most of the other car repair shops are much more expensive. I'll just wait here and listen to music until you finish up.

(Text 5)

M: Come and dance with me! I have an injured foot, but I'm still dancing!

W: I'd love to, but I don't like to dance in front of other people.

M: But you're such a good dancer! Come on!

(Text 6)

M: You want to spend one week in Nevada. But how are we going to make it all the way to California if we do that?

W: Our friends are waiting in California, but I don't want to hurry through Nevada. I want to get out and camp for a few days.

M: Well, I do want to try out my new fishing equipment.

W: It would allow us to get out of the car for a while. Our friends can spend time at the beach while they wait for us.

(Text 7)

M: Hey, I'm going to buy some pencils and notebooks. Oh, and my mom asked me to get her a comb.

W: Why don't you get one for your dad, too?

M: He doesn't have any hair!

W: Oh, yeah.

M: He lost his hair a long time ago, before he started his job at the hospital.

W: He is not as tall and thin as you are. I can't really picture him as a young man.

M: He once taught in a school, like you. Sometimes he talks about going back to that life.

W: He can have my job if he wants it!

(Text 8)

W: John, I hurt my back recently. My doctor told me not to play golf for a while.

M: That's too bad, Andrea. How long will it be until you're able to play?
W: The doctor said two more weeks. I've already been resting for three weeks.
M: When I injured my leg, I had to stop playing for three months. I'll talk to my golf teacher so that we can play a game in his golf course just two of us when you're feeling better.
W: Really? He could close down the whole golf course just for us?!

M: Sure. He's my best friend, too. And he hurt his shoulder pretty badly last year, so he knows how it feels.
(Text 9)

M: That bathroom had a person in it, Dana! He was all dressed up in a fancy uniform, giving people warm towels!
W: He's a bathroom worker in the building. He's named David. Did you give him a tip?
M: A tip? Is that why he gave me a strange look?
W: Yeah, he wanted you to give him some money, Sam.
M: But I only have a twenty-dollar bill with me.
W: You should tip about a dollar.
M: He must have thought I was rude. Now I can never go back here.
W: It's OK, Sam. He knows you're not from here.
M: How did you know you were supposed to give the guy money?
W: I had been here five times before someone told me.
M: Well, I can just tip him twice the next time I come here.
W: You'll be coming here every week to get your salary, so just be nice to him.
(Text 10)

M: Good evening, and welcome to the Channel Four news. I'm Jeffrey Stone. Today's top story takes us to the small village of Hilden. There are only about 200 people who live there, and there is a big open area in the center for the weekly market. There is only one restaurant in the village, and it's been serving delicious food and drinks for more than two centuries! If you look closely, you may be able to tell what makes this village different. Do you see how all the houses are much higher than we might expect? That's because Hilden is home to some of the tallest people in all of England! Both men and women are about 25% taller than most others, and the tallest man in the village right now is seven and a half feet tall! That's taller than most NBA players! No one is sure why everyone in Hilden is so tall, but we're going to find out. Stay with us, won't you? This is going to be interesting.

My Favourite Traditional Chinese Festival

Ladies and gentlemen,

It is my honor to give a speech on my favorite traditional Chinese Festival, the Spring Festival.

It starts from the late days of the 12th lunar month and lasts till the mid-1st lunar month of the next year. Chinese people attach great importance to Spring Festival Eve, when all family members eat dinner together and enjoy the Spring Festival Gala. As for me, I love the Spring Festival most because during the festival, not only can I set off fireworks, but I can also get lucky money. Besides, it symbolizes unity, prosperity and new hopes for the future.

Hope the excitement of the celebration will reach more people across the world. Thank you for your listening.

第二节

One possible version:

Both of them went outside even though Stewart could not stay outdoors for a long time. As soon as they went out, Tim couldn't wait to rush into the snow. Soon, they made a huge snowman together. Stewart rolled his wheelchair, singing and dancing with Tim, their faces glowing with happiness. By the time Tim's parents realized that their son was missing, they happened to see him having a lot of fun with his grandfather in the snow. Unfortunately, just as they were enjoying themselves, Stewart fell over, and Tim's parents called an ambulance to take him to the hospital.

To Stewart's surprise, his children and grandchildren were all around him when he woke up in hospital. Stewart was very happy to get together with all his family members again, although this time it was in hospital. All Stewart's children were ashamed of being too busy with work to accompany Stewart. After Stewart recovered, Gregory, Sean and Lucy rescheduled a late Christmas night. They gathered their children and father at the dinner table, and baked Dad's favorite pizza. They all greeted, "Merry Christmas!"
