第一节 Possible versions:

Dear Sir,

I have just finished traveling in Dunhuang Mogao Grottoes. The scenery there is really beautiful, but it is suffering from damages due to natural forces such as frequent sandstorms. What's worse, some tourists even carve their names on the walls, making me heartbroken.

I strongly feel it significant to protect cultural heritage. For one thing, cultural heritage, which is the witness to the historical research. For another, it is likely to provide a source of tourism income, if maintained well.

So I hope the authorities can take measures to protect Dunhuang Mogao Grottoes.

I would appreciate if my suggestions were accepted.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

第二节 One possible version:

Then she said, "How much is his fare?" The bus driver murmured the amount. "Fine," said the woman. She reached inside her shirt, took out her remaining money, and handed the fares to the bus driver. "Here is his fare and mine. Just stop giving him a hard time." The driver took the fares and went back to his seat to roll the bus out of the terminal. Then, the woman gave the old man who was constantly expressing his gratitude her cheese bread and a dollar.

Everyone stared surprisingly at the woman, who, just minutes before, had been crying over the money she'd lost. "It's only money." She added, "Everyone will get stuck in trouble occasionally." She rolled the rest of the way home wearing a smile of peace and grace, and the money she'd lost earlier was forgotten. On the road of life, the help and smile of a stranger can lighten our loads and lift our spirits. That is the priceless gift during the journey.
