三、

续写线索：因家境变化，Arshad 情绪消极 → 父亲教育 Arshad 要感恩所拥有的 → 通过参观一所公立学校 → Arshad 的变化？

续写内容要点参考：

第一段：

1. Arshad 看到学校里孩子的学习环境后的心理活动；
2. 公立学校孩子们乐观的心态。

第二段：

1. Arshad 决定做的事情
2. Arshad 的态度发生积极的转变。

One possible version

Arshad remembered how he always complained about the swings in his playground. He felt a rush of guilt. At least he had a playground! Despite all these things, Arshad noticed how happy and satisfied all the children were. How they played and laughed, with not a single frowning face or a complaining voice. On their way back from the school, Arshad's father said, "This is what I was talking about."

Thinking of the happy children in that school, Arshad decided to do something. He prepared a gratitude list, jotting down all the things he was thankful for. Then he pulled out an empty cardboard box and put in all the things that he thought the children in that school might need--coloring books, toys and other such goods. When his mother asked about the box, he told her how he planned to donate these things. "I am sharing happiness," he told his mother, his face beaming.

听力部分录音稿

第一节

Text 1

W: Welcome, James. Let me get you a drink — can I get you some coffee or water?

M: I just quit drinking coffee. Do you have anything sweet, though?

W: Of course. I was going to make myself some coffee, but I'll grab Cokes for both of us, instead. (1)

Text 2

M: I'm struggling with my study these days. I usually look at images and I can remember them, but I'm not taking anything in.

W: I absorb information best by listening to it, (2) so I record myself reading my notes and then listen to it at night.

Text 3

W: Thanks for driving me to my house, Steve. How's Diane doing?

M: She's just staying home with the kids until they go to pre-school. Have you talked to Mom? (3)

W: Yeah, I heard she's become a bit ill. I'm going to check up on her later.

Text 4

M: This is the last time I'm coming to this restaurant.

W: It is said that their steaks are some of the best in town. What happened?

M: They're excellent but always over-cooked. And I can't get any waiter's attention around here, either. (4)

W: It's alright. Let's enjoy it, anyway.

Text 5

W: Haven't you moved out? I thought you moved last month.

M: Cathy and I intended to move, but she wasn't satisfied with any of the flats she looked at. But she just found a new apartment on the Internet the other day and we want to move this weekend. (5)

第二节

Text 6

M: Hey, Lily. How was your summer vacation?

W: Fantastic. I just came back to the US. Where have you been?

M: You left the country? I just went up to Lake Tahoe, as usual.

W: Awesome — what did you do there? I forgot to tell you I went to visit my grandparents in Beijing. It was so cool.

M: I just visited a friend's lake house. (6) That's amazing — what's Beijing like?

W: It's super modern and traditional at the same time. But you know me — I'm more into natural places and landscapes.

M: You escaped the urban scenes, then?

W: Yeah, we saw an amazing mountain region in the northwest of Beijing, called Yanqing. (7)

Text 7

W: I know this jacket is really popular, but surely $100 is too much. (10)

M: It's of the absolute highest quality, miss. I guarantee that it'll keep you warm all winter.

W: Actually, it's just for a photo shoot(拍摄). I only need it for one day and then won't need it anymore. (8)

M: You're a photographer? You must make a lot of money. Of course, you can afford it.

W: No, actually I'm an amateur model, and I'm on a tight budget. Besides, I don't even think this is a real Moncler jacket.

M: It isn't authentic, but it is of identical quality. At a mall, it will cost you ten times this price, and in this market, you won't find it for less than $100. (9) (10)

W: If you can offer me a $10 discount, I'll buy it now. (10)

M: Deal. (10)

Text 8

W: I've had this laptop for five years. There are so many valuable things saved on it. (12)

M: Did you back them up? It's a good idea to back up your photos and videos.

W: I never thought I needed to. How did the computer break down?

M: It's hard to say. Was it dropped or exposed to water?

W: Actually, I left it outside on my balcony by accident.

M: I see. It must have been rained on.

W: It wasn't that. But it was in direct sunlight for hours. (11)

M: In this summer heat? It must have fried the internal components and processors. (11)

W: I didn't know that was possible. Can I save the photos, at least? (12)

M: I'm afraid not. We can replace it with a new laptop model, though.

W: I also need the memory saved on this laptop for work. (12) Is it really damaged beyond repair?

M: I'm afraid so, but there are useful parts we can recycle for money. (13) If so, we can give you a discount on a new computer.

W: OK, I guess I'll do that. (13)

Text 9 (第 16 题为推断题)

W: Excuse me. Can you help me? I am looking for the Lost and Found Office. Could you please tell me where it is?

M: Sure. Can you see the lab building, the four-story grey one over there? Do you see the office behind it? It is beside a small store. I guess you are new here, right?

W: Yeah. I came to New York as an exchange student three days ago. Unluckily, I lost my ID card at school. Actually, I'm French, but I grew up in England. (14) You're an American, I suppose.

M: Yes. By the way, my name is John Smith.

W: I am Alice Green. Pleased to meet you. So, what's your major?

M: I'm studying medicine now. What's yours?

W: I'm not sure yet. I'm kind of interested in acting, but my parents think I should do business. (15)

M: I see. So do you live in the dorm?

W: No. I rent a one-bedroom apartment about five blocks from here. Well, I have to go. Thanks for your help. Maybe we'll run into each other again sometime.

M: Maybe. It's a pretty small college. See you later.

Text 10

Hi, my dear fellow workers. I've lived in China for two years, (20) but most of you know that I'm from Portugal. Today is a holiday known as Carnival, which is an incredible celebration in my country. This holiday is most famous for its all-night parties, festive dances, and parades in Brazil, and this is partly because Portugal and Brazil share cultural similarities. In the past, Portugal occupied the land of Brazil and sent over millions of people. Today, Portuguese is the national language of Brazil, but that's not the only country that shares our language. Five countries in Africa natively speak Portuguese, as well.(17) Being one of the oldest countries in Europe, our cities feel like you're walking into a time machine. You can see beautiful ancient architecture in our capital, Lisbon, and you can even find the oldest bookstore in the world. You can also hear a traditional Portuguese music genre called Fado. I think it is one of the most amazing things about my country and its performance is really worth watching. (18) North of the cities, you will find yourself in rolling hills and forest. This is, what I'd consider, the best travel destination in all of Europe.(19) I love my life here in Shenzhen, but I do miss my home sometimes. It'll be around five years before I move home, (20) but let's celebrate Carnival in Shenzhen today. I can't wait to cook you some Portuguese food and teach you about my culture.
