M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday Spanish; Tuesday Italian; Wednesday German; and Friday French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

第一节

参考范文:

An Impressive Paper-cutting Competition

Last Friday afternoon, our school held a handicraft competition in the school hall. The competition is designed to enrich our campus life and enhance our innovative ability.

We just used ordinary colored paper and scissors to create pieces of vivid art. The artworks have different patterns, which come from our lives. Blooming flowers, dancing butterflies and various artistic characters were all amazing.

The competition left us a deep impression. As a matter of fact, it made us deeply understand the profound foundation of Chinese traditional paper-cutting art. Besides, it helped develop our hands-on skills.

第二节

参考范文:

As he expected, Ron found studying quite challenging. He was learning to learn again in the first two years of going to school. Though he understood facts, it was difficult for him to memorize names, places and dates. However, things went from bad to good. In his first year, he went from a D in his first exam to an A in his final exam. It was really surprising and satisfying, mainly because of the progress it showed. He worked hard through the course despite his health condition. He believed that studying hard prevented his Alzheimer's from progressing.

After three years of hard study, Ron finally finished his bachelor's degree at King's University College. His family, teachers and peers were all proud of what he had achieved. When he went across the stage, and as he got his diploma, the kids all stood up and yelled and clapped. He had to hold back the tears. It was something else, just wonderful. Ron is planning to pursue a master's degree and keep finding ways to improve his mental health and live his life to the fullest. He also hopes to spread more awareness and information about Alzheimer's disease. He wants people to know that older people can still contribute to and participate in the community.
