Ocean Today serves as a gate to the most useful and interesting websites and organizations on ocean science and culture, to thousands of ocean-based curricula and educational resources, to our Ocean Directory of over 18,000 ocean organizations worldwide.

Our knowledge of the ocean today goes beyond the limits of a distant horizon and mysterious deep. Through exploration and scientific research, we have begun to learn more about its physical processes, its cultural contributions, and its interaction with other natural systems — climate and fresh water, for example, that apply directly to our personal, financial, and social welfare.

World Ocean Observatory advocates for the ocean through independent, responsible, non-political science, and is dedicated to advancing public understanding of ocean issues through institutional cooperation and partnerships, pro-active programs, and connection with individual subscribers around the world.

Extreme Weather keeps us informed of the updated severe weather conditions around the world, including vivid images and reports of hurricanes and typhoons, tsunamis and waves, droughts. How do CO₂ emissions (排放) or global warming affect our weather? Is there a connection between our behavior and these phenomena? How can we protect ourselves from the destructive effect?

World Ocean Forum, dedicated to voices for change in ocean policy and action worldwide, is linking unexpected people with unexpected ideas and offering a knowledgeable outlet for research, opinion and story-telling. To inquire about becoming a contributing writer, or to contribute to our Solutions Within Reach series, please contact us at director@thew2o.net.

A contribution, in any amount, helps to further advance global ocean communications. We are informing millions of individuals around the globe, building political will, and changing the future by changing global perspectives of human impacts on the ocean while sharing the knowledge that the sea connects all things.

21. What is the function of Ocean Today?

- A. An entry to ocean-based information.
- C. A window to learn more about ecology.

- B. A platform to exchange resources.
- D. An inspiration to explore more about seas.

22. What does Extreme Weather focus on?

- A. Finding out the driving force behind the nature.
- C. Offering information about latest weather change.

- B. Promoting global cooperation to a better world.
- D. Processing data of greenhouse gas emissions.

23. If someone wants to make his voice heard, he might probably choose

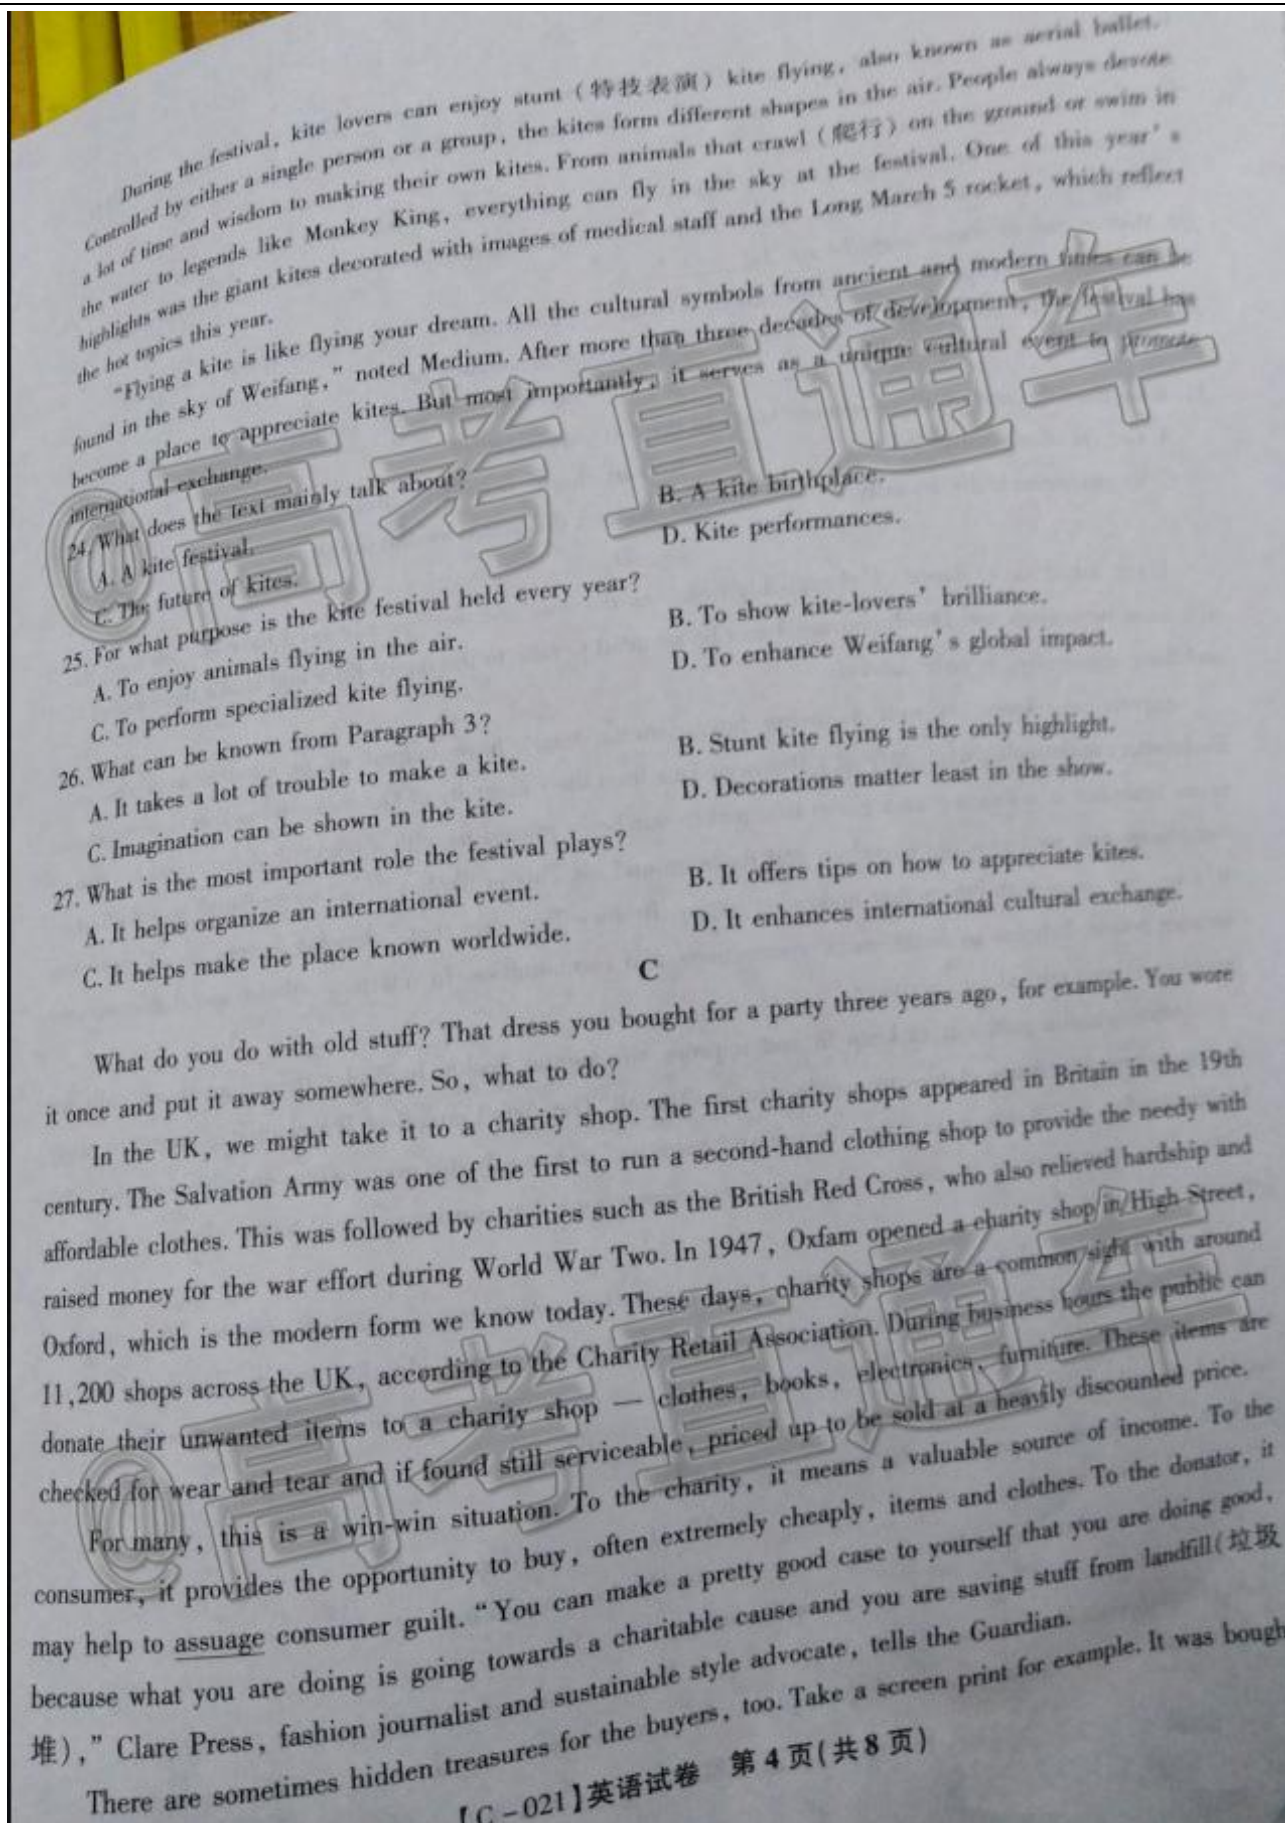

- A. Ocean Directory

D

If you asked me to dance, I'd probably freeze on the spot and some people say I have two left feet! But with some persuasion and Dutch courage I can be tempted to take to the dance floor and shake some moves — and that, apparently, is only natural.

Experts have found as well as being fun, dancing might have helped us to survive as a species. Evolutionary anthropologist (人类学家) Bronwyn Tarr from the University of Oxford believes that dancing alone is one thing but it's dancing as a group that makes our brain reward us with a cocktail of feel-good hormones that change how we feel about ourselves and those around us. This is likely to lead to profound social effects. It's keeping paces with others that makes us happy. Bronwy Tarr says that "dancing fosters social closeness between people. It helps us build social connections and communities. In our past, those social connections would have been critical for surviving."

Dance is also a good way to keep fit and improve our mental health. In Wales there have been calls for doctors to prescribe dance classes to people who are unwell. The Arts Council of Wales claims there are many health benefits. And Bronwyn Tarr says "more and more we're actually discovering that your longevity (长寿) — your life expectancy — is predicted by the social connections that you have... still today it's something we should do more of."

It could be part of being a conservative Englishman that makes me a reluctant dancer. Look at other nationalities such as Cubans where dancing is at the heart of their cultural identity. And in Brazil at Carnival time, people let their hair down by dancing together day and night. They seem to be having a good time — so maybe I should get on my feet and dance!

32. What does the author imply in the first paragraph?

- A. He doesn't like dances.
- B. He does not dance well.
- C. He lacks confidence in dance.
- D. He does everything out of nature.

33. What can be inferred from Tarr's words in Paragraph 2?

- A. Dancing alone doesn't benefit at all.
- B. Dancing with others helps people survive.
- C. It is funny to keep paces with other people.
- D. It matters most to dance on _____

【C-021】英语试卷 第5页(共8页)

34. How does the author feel about dancing in the last paragraph?
A. Positive. B. Negative. C. Unclear. D. Objective.
35. Which is the best title for the text?
A. What makes you a real dancer?
B. What can dances bring us?
C. Why do people love to dance?
D. How can we dance well?

第二节 (共5小题;每小题2分,满分10分)
根据短文内容,从短文后的选项选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

If you're a procrastinator (拖延的人), you're familiar with the pain and stress that goes hand in hand with leaving things to the last minute. Even if you want to accomplish or finish a task, you're likely having trouble getting started in the first place! 36

Change your mind. Stop punishing yourself for procrastinating. The more stressed out you are, the harder it'll be to get your work done. Don't be angry with yourself. Just move on and focus on what you've got to do instead. 37 Wasting time yelling at yourself for not starting that 2,000-word essay two weeks ago will only make you extra tired and frustrated. It will also stress you out, likely making it impossible for you to finish your assignment at that time.

Avoid a long disorganized to-do list. This is just setting yourself up for failure. Instead, create subcategories like "Home", "Work", "Family", and "Fun" and just try to cross off a few entries from each list every day.

Do most important task for 15 minutes. Instead of thinking about the total number of hours you're about to work for, just start. Tell yourself you've only got to do it for 15 minutes. 38 Once you come up for air, take a two-minute break. Then start up on another set of 15 minutes of work.

39 It can be scary to think about finishing a whole essay or getting through an entire week's worth of tasks. Instead of thinking about everything you have to do like one big obstacle, break it all down into tiny pieces. 40

- A. Break tasks down into small pieces.
B. Never think about the past experiences.
C. Guilt and regret are negative emotions.
D. However, there is always some time when you can't pull through.
E. If 15 minutes still sounds too frightening, do something for just 3 minutes.
F. Thus, you'll be able to get started on the smallest piece and go forward from there.
G. Hopefully, there are several strategies that can help you stop procrastinating right now.

第三部分 英语知识运用 (共两节, 满分45分)

第一节 完形填空 (共20小题; 每小题1.5分, 共30分)

I was a self-employed writer. But I had been in a bad 41 since my new neighbor moved in. Whenever I became 42 to write, I could hear a girl singing next door. She didn't sing well at all, even 43 — it was absolutely a headache for me. 44, it became a daily routine for me to 45. How could I keep up my 46 and go on writing?

One day, it was too noisy and my thoughts were entirely 47. I had my husband go to 48 her about the matter. Minutes later, he returned. "That girl is only 17," he 49 with a sad look, "but she has bone cancer." My mind suddenly went 50. "Her mother said that the more 51 it is, the louder her daughter sings. It helps her 52 the pain. The poor mother begs our pardon for interrupting us." In a flash, I felt guilty about my thoughtless 53.

From that day on, I no longer felt anything 54 and even got used to her singing. I felt as if 55 by the smell of flowers. Afterwards I was on business and happened to know the girl had been 56 into a hospital. When I returned home in late summer, I 57 felt that something was 58. I couldn't hear the girl next door sing anymore.

"However hard the winds blow, you will stray (走失) no more from my 59... You shall believe that I am brave only with you..." Her singing always 60 in my mind. I hope the voice is everlasting for you, me, and everyone.

第二节: Possible version

Should textbooks be gender-oriented?

Recently, a press published a gender-oriented math textbook for junior high school students. The blue version was for boys, and the red version was for girls, which brought about a heated discussion online.

According to the press, the textbook is based on data analysis. The design of the examples shows the different levels and advanced analysis, which aim to help boys and girls use their respective advantages.

However, students, whether male or female, can learn math well as long as the method of learning is suitable. If teaching materials show gender differences, they will definitely have a negative impact on students in terms of gender identity. If textbooks are divided into different versions, it can psychologically affect students and may increase gender stereotyping.

【听力录音原文】

Text 1

M: Linda. I need to go to town. Can you drive me there?

W: Sorry, Ted. The traffic is very heavy at this time of day. Why don't you take the subway? It is faster.

Text 2

W: May I come in?

M: Yes, please. Look at this plan. There are two meetings this week. I'd like you to attend the one on Friday.

W: And today is Tuesday. There isn't much time for preparations.

M: Don't worry. Some reports are ready and you can take a look at them.

Text 3

W: Can you give some comments on the diet in this restaurant?

M: I have never had a nicer meal. Why didn't you eat more?

W: It contained so much meat and salt but less green vegetables. After all, I am on a diet.

Text 4

W: Can I get to the railway station by bus or car?

M: Er... It's a rush hour now. You will be caught in a traffic jam. You'd better go there by underground.

W: You are right. Thank you for reminding me.

Text 5

M: What a wonderful performance the pianist gave this evening! The music was really amazing.

W: Right. The entire audience felt the same way.

Text 6

M: How much is your AE125 printer?

W: Well, the printer itself is 350 pounds, but if you're buying the computer with it, you get a ten percent discount, so that's 315 pounds.

M: Mm, that's a good discount, but I only want the printer. How much will it be including delivery?

W: For this printer..., um..., that comes to 375 pounds.

M: Oh, I think I will just take it home myself.

W: OK. Will you pay by credit card?

M: I'm afraid I forgot to take it. And I don't have enough cash. Could I use WeChat Pay?

W: Certainly.

Text 7

M: Have you visited the new library yet? It opened the day before yesterday.

W: No, I haven't heard about that. What's it like?

M: Well, the building doesn't look very modern and it isn't very big, but it's not dark inside like the old one.

W: Can you work on computers there?

M: Yes, they're near the lifts on the first floor, second floor and third floor. They've got e-books too on the third floor. It is the first time my cousin has seen them.

W: Wow! Have you both joined?

M: Not yet. It doesn't cost anything but you need a letter from the college to say you're a student.

Text 8

W: I think we can take our colleagues out to celebrate tonight. The project was a big success.
M: Of course. Everyone has been working so hard. Actually I' m thinking of having a party.
W: Why not go to the KTV?
M: Well, we never go to the KTV.
W: Why?
M: I don' t know. We often go to bars or cafes, but not the KTV. Maybe it' s not the American way of life.
W: But there are a few Asians in our team, including me. Going to a KTV would be exciting for us.
M: OK. We can have a try. Do you know any good KTV in the neighborhood?
W: Yes, I know a wonderful one nearby.
M: I think we can have dinner first and then go to the KTV.
W: Well, the KTV supplies snacks and drinks during dinner time.
M: Fine. Tell others to meet there.

Text 9

W: Where are you from, Corey?
M: I' m from Canada. I' ve just moved here.
W: Canada! Are you good at winter sports then?
M: Yeah, I love winter sports very much, such as skiing and snowboarding. I also like ice diving.
W: Wow! That sounds quite exciting!
M: Yeah. I' ve been doing that for 7 years, since I was 9. What do you do in your free time?
W: Well, swimming used to be my favorite hobby. But now I spend most of my spare time in the acting club I joined last year and I really love the theater--I really want to be an actress one day. Have you got any other hobbies?
M: Um, I guess I enjoy playing online computer games. I feel quite relaxed when playing the games and it helps me make new friends. How about you? Do you spend much time online?
W: Well, I' m not interested in computer games. I think it makes no sense spending time playing something with strangers. I prefer chatting face to face with my friends.
M: I like chatting with friends too.
W: Oh, it' s time for class. Our English teacher is coming. After class I' ll introduce you to some of my friends.

Text 10

M: Do you like Hip-Hop? Hip-Hop is a new kind of music. Today, Hip-Hop music is a big business. Hip-Hop artists make millions of dollars. They are superstars and have many fans all over the world. But Hip-Hop wasn' t always so popular. It is only about thirty years old. Hip-Hop started in New York. Young people in New York wanted to make music, but they had a problem. Many of them did not have enough money to buy expensive instruments. They also did not have any place to practice. Hip-Hop was the perfect answer to this problem. As Hip-Hop artists did not need any special instruments and they could practice anywhere. Along with Hip-Hop, there' s always the break dancing. Break dancing is a very difficult kind of dance. It started in the 1980s at the same time as Hip-Hop. At first, break dancing was like fighting. Break dancers had "dance battles" . Each break dancer did his best to dance in the contest. There are professional break dancing contests. Winners can get a lot of money, and sometimes they are on TV. Just like Hip-Hop, break dancing is now a big business.
