第四部分 写作

第一节

Dear Peter,

In reply to your asking about the activity “Green School, We Are in Action”, I am writing to share some relevant details with you.

Aiming to make our school more attractive and create a better environment, the Students’ Union organized the activity, which took place last Saturday afternoon. Approximately 200 students actively participated in it, some digging, some planting and others watering. Five hundred trees were planted in our school as scheduled. Exhausted as we were, we were delighted.

Not only did the activity offer an opportunity to promote our awareness of labor and cooperation, but it enabled us to build a green school together.

Yours,

Li Hua

第二节

She put her violin under her chin, but she couldn’t remember even her first note.

With a flush of sadness, she couldn’t hold back her tears welling up in her eyes. She shut her eyes, hoping to blink the tears away. When she opened them again, everything seemed misty. To her surprise, it looked as if all the people in the hall had changed into her doll animals, and she even saw her smiling Zoey the Giraffe standing at the back. It was almost like being at home with her lovely friends. More relaxed, she picked up her confidence and remembered her piece.

As she played, the “animals” audience seemed to be changing back into people.

But Emily was no longer nervous because all the audience looked friendly now. She also found her parents’ smiling eyes focused on her, telling her “you’re always the best”. The audience lost themselves in her music. Finally, she played the last note, put her violin under her arm and took a big bow. The music lingered in the air after the performance, while the entire audience broke into loud applause. She made it! She had played her first solo!

Text 1

M: I’m crazy about sports and talk shows. If they are on, I could be in front of the TV for hours. What about you?

W: I mostly watch the news and cooking programs.

Text 2

W: What are we going to do with this old furniture? I was thinking we could sell it and make a little money.

M: We'd have to paint it to sell it, but we'd probably spend more on the paint. Let's donate it.

Text 3

W: Where have you been all this time? The school bus is going to leave any minute.

M: I'm sorry I'm late, but I was waiting for you by the fountain, next to the bookshop.

Text 4

M: How was your vacation? Did you go anywhere?

W: Yes, we went to Thailand. But unfortunately, the flies and mosquitoes(苍蝇和蚊子) there were awful, and it rained most of the time.

Text 5

W: I have to carry all of these boxes into the truck. They have to go out for delivery in two hours. Can you help me?

M: Sure, but make sure we put them in the right order for delivery. It needs to be organized and correct.

Text 6

M: Lisa, I'm going shopping downtown this afternoon. Would you like to go with me?

W: I'd like to, but I have an appointment with Mr. Cook to discuss a project. I'm also going to a party with Bill this evening.

M: But you know I'm not good at bargaining! I wish you could help me.

W: Why not ask Mary to go with you? She loves shopping. She can help you.

M: Good idea. I'll go and ask her. Thank you.

W: You're welcome.

Text 7

M: Are you going to soccer practice today? The coach says it's an important practice. You'll have a big game in three days, right?

W: Yeah, but I was actually planning not to go this time. I have a lot of homework today. And my uniform is dirty.

M: I understand. But I think the coach will be mad if you miss it.

W: Well, I will try to go. But I can't fail my big math test tomorrow. That's important, too. And my mom will be mad if I fail the test. It's hard to play a sport during the school year!

Text 8

M: Hi, Linda. Did you hear about the accident that happened two streets away from the high school? Four cars crashed together at a traffic light.

W: Oh no! Is everyone okay? Why did that happen?

M: The red light was broken because of bad weather, so no one stopped. They all ran into each other. But the good news is that nobody was badly injured. And the doctors at the hospital gave great first aid. Somehow, everyone ended up okay.

W: Wow, that's a relief. Who was involved in the accident?

M: There were six high school students in the four cars. A few of them had small injuries. Michelle broke her arm and Liam hurt his leg. The cars were all ruined. But everyone should be back at school soon.

W: I'm so glad they are okay. I'm going to be very careful when I drive now!

Text 9

M: My car is broken. I'm going to take it to the shop to get it fixed.

W: What's wrong with it? It worked yesterday morning when you drove to work.

M: I don't know. It would not start when I tried to drive it to the gym this morning. I drove over a big hole in the road on the way home yesterday. Maybe something broke inside it.

W: Maybe it's the engine. Well, I don't know much about cars. Your car is old, though, isn't it?

M: Yes. I've had it for ten years. I have driven it one hundred thousand miles! It has been a good car for a long time.

W: Wow! Maybe it's time to get a new one. That one sounds worn out.

M: You're probably right. I'll take it to the car repair shop and see if they can fix it. If they can't, I'll have to buy a new one. I like my old one, though. I have a lot of memories in that car! I've had it for so long.

Text 10

W: Get ready to say goodbye to today's warm, sunny weather. Just when millions of people are getting ready for the Christmas holiday, three storms are expected to make problems for holiday travelers. None of the storms will be strong, but the cold air will make traveling difficult. The first storm will arrive on this weekend. It will bring rain to the northeast, but warm air in New York City might cause some fog and low clouds. It will be hard for drivers to see the road clearly. Later in the week, snow will come to the northwest states, with three inches falling in Saint Paul, Minnesota. And a few days later, just when the New Year's celebrations are scheduled, Boston will be covered with freezing rain. The ice will cause problems for anyone trying to travel on foot, with one inch of ice expected on city roads. New Year's will be cold in Chicago, too, with a strong wind blowing water from the river onto anyone hoping to celebrate by the water.
