NOTICE

Science Odyssey Contest, a recent contest focusing on scientific experiments, is in progress, waiting for the active participation of all middle school students interested in science.

Since the activity mainly centers on creativity and imagination, all entries should integrate creative ideas into the experimental designs. Once your video production is successfully made, you can send your resume, with the video attached, to www.owlkids.com by email. Besides, the deadline for the activity is May 26th, so you're expected to get these done as early as possible.

If you have any doubts in the process of video making, you can visit the website for further information. And I hope you won't miss such a rare chance to win great prizes!

Paragraph 1 John felt so weak that he thought it impossible to win the championship. Though other teammates racked their brains to cheer him up, all the words seemed pale and unconvincing. Faced with such a tough situation, Randy stepped forward, trying hard to rekindle his passion for football. Despite his awkward speech and movement, Randy's slow but continued progress proved to John the significance of never giving up. With his persistent efforts, John's life was back on track—they went together to the classes, the library and football practice in which Randy offered thoughtful service. When the match day finally came, John, together with his teammates, played quite well on the pitch, earning the team the championship and himself the title of “the most valuable player”.

Paragraph 2 Holding the trophy (奖杯) high, John grinned gratefully at Randy on the bench. After the prize presentation, all team members walked towards Randy, hugging him and laughing heartily. When Randy congratulated John, the winning captain, on his marvelous performance, John replied with great sincerity, “You're our real captain, our source of strength, and I really appreciate what you've done for us!” His words made Randy laugh, but with tears. At that moment, everyone there applauded this young man, for he accomplished more with what he had than others. In their lasting friendship, John's generous offer of help was repaid with Randy's active encouragement and tender care, and such mutual support perfectly justified the tutoring program.
