B

When I was young, I had a wrong understanding of being great. I believed I was special and different and should be rich and famous because of my talent. I was going to live my dream rather than being a “normal” person. But as time passed, reality set in and my perspective changed.

I am a teacher, married to a salesman with a baby and a mortgage (按揭贷款). Could my life be more normal? Yet, I am okay with this.

Were I to have a conversation with my twenty-year-old self, she wouldn't understand why I'm not going to NYC to get an audition (试演). In four years my coworkers have never heard me sing. If I'd bought a house, it should have been in an interesting neighborhood with coffee houses at every corner. She would laugh at the corner house in the neighborhood I now call home.

But I know things she didn't know. Life is so much more complicated, wonderful and terrible. I know what it means to work for love, not just sitting back and letting it happen the way it can when you're young. I know about bringing life into the world, and the complexity of emotions.

My life is simple. It is small, and may seem interchangeable with so many other lives there. I may never make an impact outside my house. But I've learned it is important to be relative. To my little girl, I am irreplaceable. When she cries, she calls for “Mama”. When she reaches out, it's for me alone. So, is it a small life? It's perfectly fine to me. In fact, I think it's what I've wanted all along.

24. What was the author like when she was young?

- A. She was brave.
- B. She was proud.
- C. She was honest.
- D. She was cautious.

25. Why does the author imagine talking to her twenty-year-old self?

- A. To reveal the key to her success.
- B. To prove her dream has come true.
- C. To show she has become mature.
- D. To introduce her present unhappiness.

26. What is the author's present focus?

- A. Caring for her family.
- B. Opening her heart to the world.

- C. Living with her daughter specially.
- D. Learning the complexity of emotions.

27. What does the author intend to tell us in the text?

- A. We can be the one we feel satisfied with.
- B. We can achieve our dreams if we work hard.
- C. We should keep in contact with our families.
- D. We will come back to a normal life some day.

In recent years, Ethiopia has become a regional leader in solid waste management. Last year, the country transformed the landfill (垃圾填埋场) in Addis Ababa into a new waste-to-energy plant, the first such project on the continent. The plant incinerates up to 1,400 tonnes of waste every day, about 80 percent of the city's rubbish, supplying the capital with 25 percent of its household electricity needs.

However, despite these important steps, challenges remain in Ethiopia. Although the country has permitted the Basel, Stockholm and Rotterdam conventions, laws and policies for environmentally sound management of hazardous (有害的) wastes are still not effective in preventing littering waste illegally.

To help Ethiopia meet these challenges, the Chemicals and Waste Management Program is supporting the country with a three-year project to enhance its capacity for sound management of hazardous wastes.

In the initial stages, a project management unit will be formed, made up of many representatives from government departments and private organizations. This unit will be responsible for reviewing and assessing Ethiopia's current legal system, which, despite numerous advances in recent years, does not specifically target the recycling of hazardous waste. Once legal gaps are identified, the project will seek to update existing policies and strategies.

Many people in Ethiopia are not aware of the possible effect of environmental damage and the need to report such crimes to the police. To resolve this pressing issue, Ethiopia will be conducting a series of capacity-building activities, including creating awareness-raising programs, training trainers and providing equipment.

Ethiopia will also work to establish a national mechanism for chemicals and waste management by engaging government departments and civil society groups. Authorities will also make budgetary provisions (预算拨款) in national, regional and institutional planning to ensure funding for these activities is sustainable even after the project's completion.

第二节 (共5小题;每小题2分,满分10分)

根据短文内容,从短文后的选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

Personal profiles are an excellent way to express information into a simple format. Here are some basic steps that you'll want to follow.

Share positive things, but not excessive (过度的). Everyone has problems, but no one wants to read a bunch of negative soul-searching. Don't complain, or endlessly describe your health problems, relationship dramas, kid problems, etc. 36

Take pride in who you are and what you are all about. It isn't helpful to criticize yourself. It makes people uncomfortable and it's annoying to feel that you have to build up another person's value constantly. 37 No one can get close to you. The girl who says she is fat and shy relentlessly (无情地) will turn people away.

38 There are groups who believe that their jobs are to convert the world to their ways of thinking. Although it may seem urgent, the personal profile is not the venue to boast. It will not promote your message in a healthy way.

Don't advertise or sell. 39 The personal profile is about you and should not be used to make money. The sites you use may put ads on, but that is how they generate funds to keep the sites free.

40 This is your own little message to the world. If you use other people's tips to make a profile, everyone can enjoy the benefits.

- A. Write in outline format.
- B. Don't say it in a long sentence.
- C. It's important to seek help before writing.
- D. Don't use your profile as a place to show off.
- E. Self-criticism is really a form of control over others.
- F. If you need customers, use a known business network.
- G. People who do this have warning signs on their profiles.

第二节 (共 10 小题;每小题 1.5 分,满分 15 分)

阅读下面短文,在空白处填入 1 个适当的单词或括号内单词的正确形式。

With the globalization, our traditional culture is being lost, 61 can be easily found in our life. For example, our traditional culture has lost 62 (it) important role in education. More and more young people in China seem 63 (know) little about classical Chinese literature. However, western culture is becoming popular. More and more parents tend to send their children for overseas studies. Meanwhile, western festivals are becoming 64 (extreme) popular in China while some traditional festivals are being forgotten.

As for the 65 (lose) of some traditional Chinese culture, there are many reasons. For one thing, we haven't attached enough importance 66 our traditions. For another, some people think traditional culture lacks novelty (新奇) and can't keep up with the pace of modern life, while the western culture is more 67 (interest).

However, the traditional Chinese culture, after thousands of years' development, I believe, can never 68 (replace). Therefore, it's time for us Chinese to take some effective 69 (measure). First of all, it's necessary that we should have a clear and deep understanding of its value. Meanwhile, we must do 70 we can to protect and spread our traditional culture. It's convincing that we will keep our traditional culture alive with our joint efforts.

书面表达:

A Meaningful Volunteer Activity

A volunteer activity was organized by our school in the railway station last weekend. The activity was designed to help the passengers who needed help. Meanwhile, our teachers required us to seize the chance to spread kindness. Twenty students including me actively took part in the activity and we devoted ourselves to helping the passengers. We helped to carry luggage and led the way for them. In addition, we bought some water and food to the elderly passengers.

This volunteer activity was meaningful and valuable. Through the activity, we developed a good relationship. More importantly, I learned that even a small kindness can make a big difference to others and warm up their hearts.
