M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club—we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages—you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday—Spanish; Tuesday—Italian; Wednesday—German; and Friday—French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

The US company Orion Span built the hotel. The hotel is around 12 feet wide and 35 feet long. It is going to welcome its first guests soon. It will fly 320 kilometers above the Earth. It can hold six people at a time. Two of them will be workers. They may be former NASA astronauts. Each trip aboard the station will last for 12 days. Guests there will be able to do many interesting things. For example, they will see around 16 sunrises and sunsets every 24 hours. They can take part in research experiments such as growing food in space. Later, they can bring the food back to the Earth. These are the same things as astronauts usually do. Guests can also share what they see and hear with others on the Earth. They can have a video chat using a high-speed Internet connection. But each guest will have to pay at least $9.5 million. That's really a large amount of money.

短文改错

When I woke up this morning, but I heard the sound of rain outside. I told it to my mother at once. Mom said she had heard it, either. But she felt it was strange as there would be no rains according to the forecast. We went to the window to have a look. There turned out that an upstairs neighbor's solar water heater is overflowing. The neighbor must have had the tap turning on, but forgot to turn it off in time. So I went out and knocked at the neighbor's door. Then I told the neighbor that had happened to her heater. She was gratefully to me because my action prevented her from waste much more water.

参考范文:

Dear John,

I'm Li Hua, the director of the English Club in our school. Exceptionally impressed by your illuminating insight into the English language, I'm writing to invite you to deliver a speech about it.

The speech, especially designed for our school senior students, is scheduled in the hall from 4:00 pm to 5:00 pm, next Friday. To acquaint students with a general knowledge of English culture and promote their English learning, you are expected to talk about the customs and history of English-speaking countries and some ways of learning English. Time permitting, it would be better to answer some relevant questions raised by the students.

All of us are greatly anticipating your presence. Looking forward to your reply.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua
