第一节

Notice

In order to expand our views about the world and learn more from life, we are organized to visit a new library. The first "forest library" in Shanghai recently opened to the public, giving readers the chance to relax and read in a natural environment. Since it is located in an urban green space area, we can immerse ourselves in reading or take leisurely strolls in the forest. Definitely, we can pick out new English novels which appeal to us.

We are supposed to set off at the school gate at 10:00 a.m. this Saturday. Take the subway and walk for a few minutes to the library. Please be there on time.

A few days later, I told my husband that I wanted to look into adopting a girl from China. He totally supported me. We registered with an adoption agency and began an 18-month "paper pregnancy". When my husband and I returned from China with our nine-month old daughter, Lucy, in November 2005, Jill was one of the first people I e-mailed. "I did it!" I wrote. "I'm a mother now, and she's beautiful!" "Congratulations," she wrote back. "You're embarking on the greatest adventure of your life."

We recently reconnected on Facebook with Jill. I reminded Jill that meeting her was the most important encounter. I can't imagine my life without Lucy. She's the happiest child, and I adore her. I would have never really thought about adopting a baby from China if I hadn't met Jill that day. I told Jill "You changed my life." Jill's reply still rang in my ear: It was meant to be.

Vincent van Gogh was a Dutch painter. He was born in Zundert, Netherlands in 1853. Growing up, van Gogh was very poor. In fact, he had to leave school to find work when he was only 15. His job was selling art from a London gallery. He didn't start making his own paintings until 1880. Van Gogh painted often through the last decade of his life, but his struggles with mental illness made it difficult for him to work. In 1888, he cut off his own ear. A few months later, he decided to move into a psychiatric hospital so that he could recover. While living there, he made the iconic painting The Starry Night. Van Gogh's work is very well-known today, but almost nobody knew his name when he was alive. (停 20 秒)
