第一节:

Dear James,

How is everything going? I am reaching out to seek your valuable assistance as a novice international volunteer for the upcoming Asian Games in Hangzhou. I have encountered some difficulties recently and would greatly appreciate your help.

I'm struggling with what key information to provide for our international guests about the Asian Games, and I also find myself challenged by the prospect of interacting with foreigners due to potential cultural differences. Given your experience as a London Olympics volunteer, I was wondering if you could offer me some guidance in this matter. I would be immensely grateful.

Thank you in advance for your help. I'm looking forward to your reply.

Best regards,
Li Hua

第二节:

Though overwhelmed by extreme panic, I decided to take a chance. The house was engulfed in an immense stream of flame, with roaring fire almost swallowing me. Fully aware as I was that a long and tough journey was ahead, I wasn't defeated. Rather, I stooped and inched forward. After what seemed like a century, I reached the destination, alive. As the smoke thickened, I felt my throat and lungs burning. Glancing around the room, I located the phone and grabbed it immediately. Before I could celebrate, raging fire prepared to chew me up.

Fire sent me into despair before the familiar figure of my grandfather came into my sight. Fearless and swift, he shot through the flames, behaving like an iron man. With unwavering determination, he seized me and rushed out. Suddenly, house beams collapsed, striking him down. I summoned all my strength to lift him to his feet and supported him out. Finally, we made it. After that, my grandfather murmured unconsciously, "Fire consumed the Christmas gift for you." I felt a lump in my throat and whispered, "You are the best Christmas gift!" This unforgettable experience forever reminds me to cherish those who shower us with boundless love.
