Dear schoolmates,

Our English newspaper has set up a column named "Traditional Chinese Culture", aiming to raise the awareness of treasuring our traditional culture. Now we are making an arrangement in advance for your contribution, in which a great variety of traditional festivals will be presented respectively.

In your article, you are required to introduce one of your favorite festivals of our country, including when it falls and what different activities are held in different regions, especially the highlight of our celebrations.

The deadline for your writing is before next Friday. And the total words of your manuscript add up to no more than 300.

We'd appreciate it if you could take an active part in this activity.

听力原文*Text 1

W: I heard you're going to your wife's hometown tomorrow. Are you going there by plane or by train?

M: I prefer faster one, since my time is limited.

Text 2

W: The basketball team needs new members. You've been playing it so well. Are you going to play?

M: No. It is fun but I've got so many courses this year.

Text 3

M: Will Dr. Jones be able to see me at 11:00, please?

W: Sorry, she is having a meeting at that time. How about half an hour later?

M: It's OK for me.

Text 4

M: Susie, I got a reference book for our essay yesterday.

W: Great. Where shall we go to read it? Our dormitory is too noisy. What about the school café? We can chat there, which we can't do in the library.

M: Good idea.

Text 5

W: Is there a weight limit to the luggage a passenger can carry on the plane?

M: Yes, but yours is only 12 kilograms, 4 kilograms less than the limit.

Text 6

M: Can I borrow your sleeping bag?

W: Yes, of course. Are you going camping?

M: Yes, I'm going to visit my sister, Lucy. She lives on a farm in Scotland.

W: Are you going to camp on the farm?

M: No, I'm going to stay with Lucy for only three days. Near the farm, there's a beautiful mountain with a forest. It's a lovely place for a camping holiday. And Roger is going to come with me.

W: Who's Roger? Your sister's dog?

M: Yes, a lovely dog.

Text 7

M: How are you getting along with your Japanese study?

W: Not too bad. I got an A in the last quiz. How about you?

M: I almost want to give up. I simply can't learn it well. I try and try but I just don't seem to make any progress.

W: I know it's hard, but maybe it'll help if you spend more time on it. "Practice makes perfect." By the way, you may discuss your problem with Professor Suzuki. He is always ready to provide help for the students.

M: Okay, I'll try to make an appointment with him first. Thank you.

Text 8

M: Good afternoon, madam. Is there anything I can help you with today?

W: Oh, hi, yes. My sister is going to a wedding in New Orleans next weekend and asked me to get a new hat for her. Do you sell hats?

M: Yes, we do, madam. All women's clothing is on this floor, the first floor. If you go in that direction and go past the jackets, you'll find the hats over to the left. Is there anything else, madam?

W: Yes. The last things on my list are an iPad for my daughter and books for me. Where can I find them?

M: iPads, and electronic equipment are on the second floor. There is a lift that joins all the floors so after you buy your hat, you can go up the lift to the second floor to get the iPad and to the fourth floor where you find books.

W: Thank you so much. You have been very helpful.

Text 9

M: Hello, Dawn. I haven't seen you for weeks.

W: Well, last month I went to California for a concert.

M: How did you get the concert ticket?

W: My computer wasn't working, so I couldn't use the Internet, and the post takes too long, so I called the ticket office and booked one that way.

M: Really? Was your plane ticket expensive?

W: Well, most people pay 350 pounds, but my student ticket was only 230 pounds.

M: Great! Did you stay in a student hotel?

W: I was so lucky! My mother's old school friend let me use her apartment. That was nicer than going to a student hotel or a campsite.

M: Tell me about the concert.

W: Well, one group didn't come so it finished an hour early. That made me angry! But the music was great and very loud—I love it.

M: Did you go to the beach?

W: Well, it was a long bus trip to get there so I only went once. Anyway, I spent most days buying clothes.

M: It all sounds great!

Text 10

M: Good morning, and welcome to the 10 o'clock news. Tonight's main news:

An elephant has escaped from the local zoo. Eyewitnesses say that animal went out of its cage during feeding time this evening. It remained unnoticed for 20 minutes, during which time it had left the zoo and caused disorder in the local streets. Zookeepers are now trying to get the elephant back. Until then people on the street are being warned not to approach it. The farmers' group is holding the annual festival this Saturday at Hill Farm. You can buy fresh fruit and vegetables there, which are all seasonal and pollution-free. Families are welcome and there will be face painting and outdoor games for children. Tickets can be purchased in advance from the organizers.

Cyclers will have to use public transport because bikes will be forbidden from entering the city center from tomorrow. Police say there have been too many accidents on the ring road this year. It is hoped that they will make cycle paths in the near future. And now for the weather: Today will be cloudy for the most part, with possible light showers. For tomorrow's weather: The morning will still be dull. In the afternoon things should be brightened up, with top temperatures reaching 25 degrees Celsius, so the weather will be perfect for outings! Thanks for listening and we hope to see you again tomorrow.
