The Most Beautiful Chinese Character

Recently, some high school students have conducted a poll to choose the most beautiful Chinese character. Among tens of thousands of characters, “ren, ai, yi, meng, xiao” are strongly recommended. Obviously, most students think the five characters carry typical Chinese culture in terms of traditional beliefs and core values concerning morality and ethics.

Of these characters, I put meng on the top of my list. Holding meng, which means best wishes for the future, one is not only to seek for opportunities for a better life, but also to create brand-new things for people around the world.

Personally, Chinese characters are so charming that they are treasures of human cultures. With deep love for Chinese culture, we should strive to promote them to the world.

Text1

M: Welcome. Passport and form, please.

W: Sure. Here you go.

M: Thank you. What's the purpose of your visit?

W: I'm here for work. I'm on a business trip.

Text2

W: Hi, are you ready to pay?

M: Yes, could I get these two shirts?

W: Sure. The total is six dollars.

M: OK. I've got ten.

Text3

M: How was your exam?

W: I really messed up, Uncle. I couldn't answer a lot of the questions. I already know that I failed.

M: Everybody makes mistakes. Auntie and I will always support you!

W: Thank you, Uncle. I will try again.

Text4M: Hey mom, are you at the supermarket now?

W: Hello? Sweetie, the sound isn't very clear.

M: Don't forget to bring me some chips, and I don't want a small bag. I want a big one.

W: A pig ship? What is it? A model? I can't hear you clearly. You can text me.

Text5

W: Hi, Ben. I will go to the front desk to fetch my package. My new clothes finally came!

M: Did it take a long time?

W: Yeah. They made a mistake and sent it to the wrong address.

M: I want to send a package too. So I'll go with you.

Text6

M: Wow, look! So many people are waiting in line. This place is always packed on Fridays.

W: I don't want to stand here for an hour. Let's go somewhere else.

M: It's Friday night. Everywhere has a line. Let's just eat here. We can use a waitlist app.

W: A waitlist app? How does that work?

M: You just choose the restaurant, and the app will put you on the waitlist and give you a number.

W: That's easy. Does it say how many groups are ahead of us?

M: Yeah, 10 groups. So, it's a 45-minute wait for our table, but we don't have to stick around here.

W: Great. What are we waiting for? Let's do some shopping to kill time.

Text7

M: Hey Jen, thank you for helping me bake a cake for my daughter.

W: No problem. It's so sweet of you to make her a cake.

M: Yeah, but I've never made a cake before. So, hopefully, it'll be OK!

W: I'm sure it will. What's first on the recipe?

M: Well, it says to heat the oven first to 180 degrees.

W: I'll do that while you start mixing the flour.

M: OK, I also need eggs, butter, and 2 cups of sugar? Is that too much?

W: Nope! 2 cups is perfect. Now we just put the mixture in the pan and bake it for 30 minutes.

M: That's it? Well, that was a piece of cake!

W: Do you want to write a special message on it?

M: Yes. It's "Happy every day!"

Text8

W: Mike, do you know why your brother is crying?

M: I don't know. Maybe because I wouldn't let him play with my toys.

W: That's not very kind. What do we say in our family?

M: Sharing is caring.

W: That's right. Sharing is caring. That means you two need to take turns with your toys.

M: But he always plays them alone! He never gives them back.

W: You're his big brother. You need to set an example for him.

M: But sometimes he even breaks them!

W: I'll ask him to be more careful. And you can ask him nicely to give them back next time.

M: But...

W: No buts, Mister! If you don't listen to my words, I'll tell your father.

Text9

W: Hey, are you watching a video of the Chinese space station? Shenzhou-12, right?

M: Close. Shenzhou-13.

W: It's hard to keep up with China speed! So how long are they in orbit this time?

M: Six months, the longest stay of any single manned flight mission in China's history.

W: So do you watch them conduct experiments or spacewalks or what?

M: Pretty much. They even give lessons in the space station!

W: I wonder what the Taikonauts do to pass the time up there?

M: They go for jogs, play musical instruments, and even play ping-pong.

W: Zero-gravity ping-pong! I gotta try that! Who's that lady floating by?

M: That's Wang Yaping. She's become somewhat of a celebrity down here on earth.

W: Well, women hold up half the sky, so it's only fitting that they should work in it too.

Text10

M: Are you a dog person or a cat person? What psychological factors make a person choose one type of pet over the other?

An outgoing person prefers dogs. This should really come as no surprise. Owning a dog is a social experience, because you always have to walk them and interact with other dog owners. If you really like talking to other people, a dog might be for you. Cats on the other hand tend to stay at home, which means that taking care of a cat requires much less social interaction.

Cat people are smarter. While studies show that dog lovers are more outgoing and lively, cat lovers score higher on intelligence tests, and are said to be more open-minded. They are also more curious about the world, even though they might not leave the house to see it as much!

Do you love a dog or a cat? Are you a different kind of pet person like a turtle person or a bird person? Does your personality match with some features we talked about earlier? I hope my speech will be helpful to you. Thank you for listening!
