Diego Maradona, born on October 30, 1960, Lanús, Buenos Aires, Argentina — died on November 25, 2020. The Argentine football player was generally regarded as the top footballer of the 1980s and one of the greatest of all time.

Maradona displayed football talent early, and at age eight he joined Las Cobolitas, a boys' team that went on to win 135 consecutive games and a national championship. He signed with Argentinos Juniors at age 14 and made his first-division debut (初次登台) in 1976, 10 days before his 16th birthday. Only four months later he made his debut with the national team, becoming the youngest Argentine ever to do so.

Maradona moved to Boca Juniors in 1981 and immediately helped them gain the championship. He then moved to Europe, playing with FC Barcelona in 1982 and winning the Spanish Cup in 1983. With Maradona the team won the league title and cup in 1987 and the league title again in 1990. Next he played for Sevilla in Spain and Newell's Old Boys in Argentina. In 1995 he returned to Boca Juniors and played his last match on October 23, 1997.

Maradona's career with the Argentine national team included World Cup appearances in 1982, 1986, 1990, and 1994. He dominated the 1986 competition in Mexico. In a 2–1 quarterfinal victory over England, he scored two of the most memorable goals in World Cup history.

Maradona became a hero of the lower classes of Argentina and of southern Italy, where he led Napoli to victories over the wealthier northern clubs. He played 490 official club games during his 21-year professional career, scoring 259 goals; for Argentina he played 91 games and scored 34 goals. An Internet poll conducted by the Fédération Internationale de Football Association named Maradona the top player of the 20th century.

24. What record did Maradona keep?

- A. The youngest to join Las Cobolitas.
B. Earning the most salary in his teens.
C. Argentina's youngest national team player.
D. Argentina's youngest showing sporting talent.

25. Where did Maradona play in 1996?

- A. In Sevilla. B. In Boca Juniors.
C. In FC Barcelona. D. In Newell's Old Boys.

C
It's official that altruistic (利他的) acts like volunteering can help seniors live healthier lives. Now, a study from Harvard University found that older adults who volunteer for over two hours a week can become more physically active and have a better sense of wellbeing than people who don't.

The study's findings were based on surveys and interviews from 13,000 participants, over the age of 50. While it has been a common belief that there are health benefits from volunteering, now it is official.

There was a four-year follow-up period where participants who volunteered showed a lower risk of death and a lessening of physical impairments as well as an increase in physical activity. The people who took part in the study also had other positive outcomes, including more optimism and purpose in life as well as a decrease in feeling lonely. The findings of this study are even more vital due to the outbreak of COVID-19.

Fortunately, there are ways to virtually volunteer in these hard times. There are many ways to volunteer without ever leaving home. One way is to man a mental health or suicide prevention line. Another way is to telephone, Skype, or WhatsApp elderly neighbors who are socially distancing or quarantined (隔离).

If you can get out to volunteer, food banks, which are a good choice, really need to help to distribute food to the much higher numbers of people who need help since most of their volunteers are elderly and cannot go in person.

Another way to volunteer is to participate in Good Deeds Day which will be held on April 11, 2021. There are numbers of volunteering ideas both in person or virtual on the site. No matter how you do it, take the time to volunteer. It really is good for you.

28. What is the special significance of this study?

- A. Wide ranges of participants.
B. People's high enthusiasm for the research.
C. The wide popularization of voluntary behavior.
D. Official confirmation of benefits for senior volunteers.

29. What does the author intend to convey in Paragraph 3?

- A. Volunteering benefits participants.
B. Volunteering had no sense of loneliness.
C. The study was not easy to carry out.
D. The public think highly of the study.

30. Which way is helpful to quarantining elderly neighbors?

- A. Chatting to their faces.
B. Sending them food.
C. Giving them a ring.
D. Dropping in frequently.

31. Who's the text mainly intended for?

- A. Volunteers. B. Seniors. C. Youngsters. D. Students.

D
In Ghana, hundreds of schoolchildren are excited to go back to school in style, on their cutting-edge bamboo bikes. But these bikes aren't just a green way of getting to classes; they are making a world of difference to students who may have not reached their schools otherwise.

增加: 在缺词处加一个漏字符号(∧), 并在其下面写出该加的词。

删除: 把多余的词用斜线(\)画掉。

修改: 在错词下画一横线, 并在该词下面写出修改后的词。

注意: 1. 每处错误及其修改均仅限一词;

2. 只允许修改 10 处, 多者(从第 11 处起)不计分。

Two years ago, I was a visitor in Rome and saw an elderly native woman begging with a bowl. She was sitting by the sides of a street. Having been figured out that there was a true person in need, I put a large bill in his bowl immediately. I watched as she saw the value of that I had given her. She was deep moved and stared me with full tears. Her reaction touched me but was a more powerful gift to me than any money loss from me. I think of the saying "It is great to give than to receive" at that time.

第二节 书面表达(满分 25 分)

假定你是李华, 几天前从网上买了一箱脐橙(navel oranges), 结果大小不一, 与广告宣传不符, 请你用英文写封投诉信, 内容包括:
