World's Best Summer Festivals
The Governors Music Festival

A relative newcomer to the summer music festival scene, the Governors Ball offers a variety of performers and a taste of New York culture. Visitors can catch sets from rock, electronic, and performers, all while tasting food from popular New York City restaurants. To take a break from the music, festival goers can participate in activities such as Silent Disco or lawn(草坪)games.

WHERE: New York City
WHEN: June 3-5

Roskilde

Created by two Danish college students, Roskilde has developed from a hippie gathering ground to a mainstream music festival. The festival attracts an international following and features performances from more than watch their favorite artists perform inside large tents.

WHERE: Roskilde, Denmark
WHEN: June 25-July 2

Montreux Jazz Festival

Set on Lake Geneva's beautiful shoreline, the Montreux Jazz Festival attracts a global audience. Founded in 1967 as a jazz-only festival, Montreux has since evolved into a two-week-long showcase that attracts more than 200,000 music enthusiasts. Performances don't end on the shore; visitors can catch themed shows from boats and train cars.

WHERE: Montreux, Switzerland
WHEN: July 1-16

Rock al Parque

Rock al Parque is proud of an attendance of 88,600 visitors a day. Most music festivals require tickets, but the participation in the three-day festival is free of charge. Festival-goers line up to watch performances from some of Latin America's most popular artists, but the festival also offers sets from international bands.

It had been a “long” and hard walk from home to the subway station for teenager Mandy Chan when she first put on Hanfu in public. Chan is one of the founders of Hanfu in Hong Kong. “It was a set with a cream-colored shirt, a brown jacket in China’s Ming dynasty style and a red pleated (有褶的) skirt made by me,” she recalled recently, almost 10 years later.

It was not the looks from others but her limited knowledge on the traditional Chinese clothing that had terrified her. Chan added, “If anyone had asked what I was wearing, or the history behind it, I would have been afraid I couldn’t tell them the whole picture.”

However, her uneasiness had gradually drifted away with more deep research on traditional Chinese culture. Hanfu was the traditional clothing of China’s Han ethnic group that was formed in the main residential areas of the Han people in ancient China. The historical clothing has untold stories and ideas in every detail. The cutting and stitching (缝合) line in the middle part of Hanfu fits the spine (脊柱) of the human body and helps people to dress properly. This design, which has gone beyond itself as mere decoration, points to the qualities of the wearers as upright and easy-going individuals.

“Instead of imitating people like what I used to do, I have jumped out of my comfort zone and found the style that suits me best,” Chan said. “Through Hanfu, I have found myself and so many unexplored things in my life.” Chan added that she had found her lifelong passion through Hanfu, which is a goal and dream that has never been absent from her life. Chan found she was not alone after falling in love with Hanfu. She believes that classics will never go out of style and she herself has integrated Hanfu into her everyday life.

24. Why did Chan feel uneasy when she first wore Hanfu in public?
A. It was not proper for a long walk.
B. She didn’t like the looks from others.
C. She was asked a lot about her clothes.
D. She had a limited knowledge of Hanfu.
25. What is special about Hanfu in design according to Paragraph 3?
A. It tells special stories of its wearers.
B. It shows personal qualities of its wearers.
C. It has complex cutting and stitching.
D. It appeals to Han ethnic group especially.
26. What can we infer from the last paragraph?
A. Hanfu has a strong influence on Chan.
B. Hanfu will be a big business in China.
C. Hanfu will take the lead in the fashion.
D. Hanfu allows her to know more people.
27. In which part of a magazine may we read this text?
A. Teenagers.
B. Travel.
C. Business.
D. Culture.

The Healthy Habits Survey shows that only about one third of American seniors have correct habits. Here are some findings and expert advice.

1.How many times did you brush your teeth yesterday?

Finding: A full 33% of seniors brush their teeth only once a day.

Step:Remove the 300 types of bacteria in your mouth each morning with a battery-operated(电动的) toothbrush. Brush gently for 2 minutes, at least twice a day.

2. How many times did you wash your hands or bathe yesterday?

Finding; Seniors, on average, bathe fewer than 3 days a week. And nearly 30% wash their hands only 4 times a day —half of the number which doctors advise.

Step: We touch our faces around 3,000 times a day —often inviting germs(细菌) to enter our mouth, nose and eyes. Use toilet paper to avoid touching the door handle. And, most important, wash your hands often with hot running water and soap for 20 seconds.

3. How often do you think about fighting germ?

Finding: Seniors are not fighting germs as well as they should.

Step: Do you know it is not your toilet but your kitchen sponge(海绵) that can carry more germs than anything else? To kill these germs, keep your sponge in the microwave(微波炉) for 10 seconds.

28. What is found out about American seniors?

- A. All of them are fighting germs better than expected.
B. Most of them have good habits.
C. Nearly 30% of them bathe three days a week.
D. About one third of them brush their teeth only once a day.

29. Doctors suggest that people should wash their hands _____.

- A. four times a day
B. twice a day
C. eight times a day
D. three times a day

30. Which of the following is true according to the text?

- A. A kitchen sponge can carry more germs than a toilet.
B. There are less than 300 types of bacteria in the mouth.
C. We should keep from touching our faces.
D. We should wash our hands before touching a door handle.

31. The text probably comes from _____.

- A. a book review
B. a popular magazine
C. a guide book
D. an official document

D

Whether you're buying a house, a car or second-hand furniture, it's likely you will need to negotiate the price, so being able to negotiate effectively could save you significant cash.

Professor Lionel Page from the University of Technology Sydney (UTS) said opening offers in real-world negotiations are sometimes intended to signal the "toughness" of the buyer - but whether this strategy actually works was not known. "This experiment allowed us to study whether and how the level of the opening offer influences the beliefs of buyers and sellers, their actions and the final bargaining outcome," said Professor Page.

The researchers conducted the experiment using a bargaining game. They found that the success or failure of a negotiation depended not only on the final offer on the table but also on the emerging dynamics of the bargaining process. "The intermediary offers made during a negotiation can be interpreted as suggesting either kind and compromising intentions, or unkind and uncompromising ones," said Professor Page. "And the perception of these intentions can, in turn, influence the final outcome. Low offers are perceived as disrespectful, so sellers react negatively and can be spiteful (恼人) in their counter-offers (还价)," he said. This means it is not the best strategy to always be as tough as possible in a negotiation.

Previously there have been two conflicting views on first offers in negotiations, said Professor Page. One view is that a low opening offer works as an "anchor" that moves the final offer in the direction of the first offer. The second is that a more reasonable initial offer achieves a better outcome because it doesn't sour the atmosphere and endanger the agreement. Professor Page said their study showed support for both these ideas.

32. What is the purpose of paragraph 1?

- A. To present a problem.
B. To introduce the topic.
C. To give some examples.
D. To put forward a concept.

33. What did the study mainly focus on?
A. The first offer in a negotiation. B. The final bargaining outcome.
C. The beliefs of buyers and sellers. D. The intentions in the process.
34. What can we learn about the study?
A. It was carried out in a real situation.
B. Participants shared kind intentions.
C. Most negotiations ended in failure.
D. Its result supported the previous views.
35. What can be the best title for the passage?
A. Counter-offers: A Bargaining Game
B. Compromise: A Bridge to a Good Deal
C. Bargain: A Reasonable Initial Offer Matters
D. Negotiation: Process Makes a Big Difference
- 第二节（共 5 小题：每小题 2.5 分，满分 12.5 分）
- 阅读下面短文，从短文后的选项选出可以填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。
- Sailing is one of the most interesting and exciting ways to enjoy large bodies of water. You can sail wherever you find enough water and a little wind. 36 Those with less spare time only looking for a fun way to relax can enjoy sailing near the shore.
- 37 Some can only fit one person and others are larger. You should choose the suitable sailboat depending on your need. Learning to sail will allow you to enjoy the year-round water, since you can still sail when the water becomes too cold for swimming or waterskiing.
- When you sail, your boat is powered by the wind caught by the sail. You control the boat by using a rudder (舵) and more complicated skills. Through handling the sails, sailors can control the force of the wind. 38
- Sailing is a rather complex art. 39 Before you begin, you will need to become familiar with the parts of the sailboat. You must be able to swim well and you need to know first aid, so you are prepared if there is an emergency. Then you need to learn the basics of sailing, such as judging the wind and knowing handling skills.
- Sailing is an amazing way to broaden your horizons. 40 You will have some different fun. If you want to try a new sport, sign up for some sailing lessons.
- A. Sailboats come in all sizes.
B. The sport of sailing has a long history.
C. The truly adventurous can sail around the world.
D. You will find new ways to enjoy water sports on a boat.
E. Thus, they can change the direction and speed of the boat.
F. You will understand why many people love to spend money on their boats.
G. The best way to learn the complexities of sailing is by taking a few classes.

When I came into the room, a woman 48 me, "Oh, you're new. Welcome." Then the music started. The hour-long workout woke up the muscles I didn't often 49 in daily walks, suiting me fine. I became a member there. My classmates ranged in age from fifty to ninety. Most gave the exercises their own 50, doing as much or little as they could. 51 no one kept score. Soon I learned physical well-being wasn't the only 52 there. During breaks, people chatted happily. Whenever some people were 53 we asked around. Were they busy? Were they in hospital? Moreover, we signed cards for those who were ill.

I 54 to be in good shape now as I've hoped. Still, I'm grateful for things more valuable from the class — close friendships and new social 55.

第二节（满分 25 分）

67. 阅读下面材料，根据其内容和所给段落开头语续写两段，使之构成一篇完整的短文。

The family had just moved to Rhode Island, and the young woman was feeling a little sad on that Sunday in May. After all, it was Mother's Day—and 800 miles separated her from her parents in Ohio.

She had called her mother that morning to wish her a happy Mother's Day, and her mother had mentioned how colorful the yard was now that spring had arrived. As they talked, the younger woman could almost smell the tantalizing aroma of purple lilacs (紫丁香) hanging on the big bush outside her parents' back door.

Later, when she mentioned to her husband how she missed those lilacs, he popped up from his chair. “I know where we can find you all you want,” he said. “Get the kids and come on.” So off they went, driving on the country roads of northern Rhode Island. Eventually, he stopped the car.

“Come with me,” he said. “Over that hill is an old cellar hole, and there are lilacs all around it. Go pick a few.”

There, on the top of the hill, were the towering lilacs bushes. While the man examined the cellar hole and tried to explain to the children what the house must have looked like, the woman had been cheered up, drifting among the lilacs. Carefully, she picked some out. She was in no hurry, admiring each blossom as a rare and delicate treasure.

Finally, though, they returned to their car for the trip home. When they were almost home, she suddenly shouted to her husband: “Stop the car. Stop right here!”

In a second, the woman was out of the car and hurrying up a nearby grassy slope with the lilacs still in her arms. At the top of the hill was a nursing home and, because it was such a beautiful spring day, the patients were outdoors, walking with relatives or sitting on the porch (走廊).

注意：（1）所续写短文的词数应为 150 左右；（2）至少使用 5 个短文中标有下划线的关键词语；（3）续写部分分为两段，每段的开头语已为你写好；（4）续写完成后，请用下划线标出你所使用的关键词语。

Paragraph 1: The young woman went to the end of the porch, where an elderly patient was sitting in her wheelchair, alone.

Paragraph 2: Curiosity was aroused among the kids and the husband.
