Text 1

W: I didn't see you at the meeting yesterday. They said you were ill.

M: Yes. I had an upset stomach. But after I took some medicine, it was all right. Perhaps it was because of the lunch box I bought.

Text 2

W: It's such a nice day, but the weather forecast says it'll rain in the late afternoon.

M: That's good. I really love the fresh smell after the rain.

W: I especially love the night sky after it rains, because you can see the stars perfectly.

Text 3

M: I am here for my job interview.

W: Fine, have a seat. Shall I get you some water or coffee?

M: Coffee, please. Thank you. What a nice office this is!

W: Yes. In a minute I'll take you to the next room, where you'll meet your interviewer, Mr. Gotcha.

Text 4

W: What type of music do you like, Johnson?

M: Different kinds of music, especially rock 'n' roll. I like the different instruments that they use.

W: That's a good reason to like something.

Text 5

W: Can you teach me how to drive? I've already got my learner's permit. But I only drove once.

M: When do you want to start learning how to drive? Shall we do it after work tomorrow?

W: OK. I'll call you then.

Text 6

M: Could you help me figure out how to get ready for my upcoming job interview scheduled two days later, on May 10th?

W: Oh, I thought it was on May 12th. Well, Harry, do you know the company well?

M: Yes. They provide good service, and the pay is good. After staying home for nearly a month because of the pandemic, I need a job to get money to support my family. I had aimed at the post of sales manager, but later I shifted it to the group director.

Text 7

W: Go ahead and walk through the body scanner.

M: Will I feel anything? My heart is beating wildly.

W: Relax, sir. Just walk through and keep your hands in the air.

M: Okay, huh?

W: Sorry, sir. Please come this way. I'm going to open your carry-on bag. Let's see now. Hmm, first of all, sir, you can't take any liquid like this bottled water past this point.

M: Ah. Well, I really can't drink any other kind of water. This is the only bottled water I drink.

W: What's this? No, sir, you cannot bring a lighter on the plane even though you don't smoke. And what's this?

M: Well...that's my pocket knife. I use it to cut apples.

W: I'm sorry, but you can't take it.

Text 8

W: God, I'm tired of my job. Everything is just the same.

M: Hey, you know what? I think this is a perfect job for you in the paper today.

W: What?

M: Ah, here it is. European Space Agency needs translators.

W: European Space Agency? I don't know whether I'm the one.

M: That's what they say here. They need French and German translators.

W: Mm, I'm good at both. What else are they asking for?

M: Just a degree and at least three years of working experience.

W: What about the pay?

M: Well, it says it depends on education and experience. And there are other benefits. Have a look yourself.

W: Mm, health care and paid trainings. Hey, this isn't bad. Maybe I should write to them straight away.

M: Oh, you certainly should.

Text 9

W: It never occurred to me that you've grown such a large garden of so many lovely flowers. The lovely roses, and lavender. Well, orange flowers are my favorites, just as white flowers are your favorites. You take such good care of your plants, Robert. But I've killed every plant I have ever owned.

M: How's that, Alice?

W: I don't know. I watered them and made sure they got enough sun, but they still died. So I don't buy plants anymore.

M: That's sad. Plants are beautiful and they provide oxygen too.

W: Can you teach me how to care for plants?

M: Sure. I'm going on vacation tomorrow for a couple of weeks. We can start after I get back.

W: That will be perfect. Who will look after your garden while you're on vacation?

M: Well, I was going to ask you to water them for me, but now I'll ask my sister instead.

W: Yeah, that's a good idea.

Text 10

W: On November 15, 2022, the United Nations reported that the world's population reached eight billion. Just 11 years earlier, the world's population had reached seven billion. The world's population has grown rapidly over the last 200 years. In 1805, the Earth had a billion people, and now it has eight billion.

Typically, as countries become richer, their population growth slows. In some countries, like Japan, the number of people is actually dropping. Experts say India will pass China as the country with the largest population. As its population grows, some experts say adding more people to the world will make global warming worse. But the real problem is the energy used and pollution created by richer countries where population growth is much slower.

Goals

It is a great honor for me to stand here to share my opinions about goals. Living without a goal is like sailing without a compass, which shows us the great significance of setting goals. Then how can we set goals?

First of all, goals give us the direction in which we will head, so the goals we set should be practical and achievable. Besides, to make our goals easy to reach, we can break big goals into smaller ones. In this way, we will have a sense of achievement when reaching a goal, which in turn gives us more inspiration. If you don't have a life goal, set one and try to accomplish it.

Thank you for listening!
