应用文示例:

Possible version:

Good morning, my classmates. It's my honor to be able to stand here and share my English learning experience with you. I find that listening to English songs contributes to improving my English.

When I listen to English songs, I usually look for the words of songs online and write them down. That's the most effective way I use in my English learning. It can help with vocabulary as words in many songs tend to be repeated. Besides, it does good to my listening. I really enjoy it.

I sincerely hope that my learning experience will benefit you.

That's all. Thank you.

Possible version:

When the sun was beginning to sink, George set out for home. How happy he felt then, that he had all his strawberries for his sick mother. The nearer he came to his home, the less he wished to taste them. Just as he had thrown down his wood, he heard his mother's weak voice calling him from her bedroom. "Is that you, George? I am glad you have come, for I am thirsty, and longing for some tea."

George ran in to Mom and joyfully offered his wild strawberries. "Here are the strawberries I found in the woods for you," said George happily. "You saved them for me, did you?" said Mom, laying her hand gently on his head, while tears stood in her eyes. "God will bless you for all this, my child." Could the eating of the strawberries have given George half the happiness he felt at the moment?

Text 1

W: Walter, have you finished your article? Mr. Wilson's waiting for it.

M: I shan't be long.

Text 2

W: Jim, thanks for giving me a ride home. After such a busy day, I really don't like to spend 45 minutes on the subway. Thanks a lot.

M: You are welcome.

Text 3

W: My English teacher suggested that I should come here to borrow an English dictionary.

M: Of course. You are welcome to use our dictionaries, but they can't be taken out of the library.

Text 4

M: Look, Lisa is coming up to us!

W: I am afraid you have got that mixed up. The girl is called Linda, the twin sister of Lisa. Haven't you seen she is a bit taller than Lisa?

Text 5

W: May I help you?

M: Yes. I'd like to mail this book to Washington. How quickly can you deliver it?

W: It depends on how you mail it.

Text 6

M: I'd like to see you off, Jane, but I can't get to the airport until five o'clock.

W: I'm afraid I'll have left by then. My plane takes off at 4:30.

M: That's bad! You're going straight to Washington, aren't you?

W: No. I'm staying with my sister in New York. She isn't there at the moment but she'll have arrived by Monday morning. I'll spend a couple of weeks with her and then go to Washington. Classes will already have started by then.

M: Well, I wish you good luck.

Text 7

M: Susan, are you free after class this afternoon?

W: Hardly. I have to pick my brother up from football practice at 4:30 and my mom asked me to cook dinner for the family at 5:30. Then, I have to clean the dishes and finish reading my history homework.

M: Hey listen, why don't I come over later in the evening, and we can watch a movie.

W: Oh, that's great, but our video machine is broken.

M: Hum... Well; let's just play a game or something.

W: That sounds good, but please give me a call before you come. My mom might try to come up with something else for me to do.

Text 8

W: Hurry up, Mike! We have little time left.

M: Don't worry. It's just a quarter past nine now.

W: Yes, but our plane will take off in forty minutes. And it will take us at least thirty minutes to go there by bus. What is worse, we must go to school to take Tom.

M: No. You forget that we are using winter time now and the flight has been delayed for an hour from this Sunday on.

W: Oh, really? Have you seen the date on the tickets?

M: Sure. No doubt about that.

W: Oh, my dear! Then I'll ride to meet Tom. OK?

M: No, there's no need for us to go to meet him. I've phoned his head-teacher and he told me that Tom is on his way home.

W: What shall we do then?

M: Just stay here waiting.

Text 9

W: Here we are, Mr. Harris. This is the hotel. Let's get off our bus.

M: What a lovely place it is! Look at the design! This is one of the most beautiful hotels in the world I have ever seen.

W: Yes, it is. The hotel was named after a famous queen.

M: Really? Is it the well-known Cleopatra?

W: Exactly. You seem to know a lot about my country Egypt.

M: Oh. Egypt is the place I've been dreaming to come to visit during my whole life.

W: Then you will surely have a great time when staying here during this coming seven days.

M: I can't wait to go to the beach. How far is it from here?

W: It's a two-minute walk. Let me show you the route later. In fact you can enjoy the view of the sea from your room.

M: Good.

Text 10

M: Tonight we have a very special show, ladies and gentlemen, with three guests who've recently had an effect on the worlds of music, film and sports. First up, we'll have back with us hot Latin music star Enrique Iglesias. I'll be talking with him about his latest CD, what life has been like for him since he was on our show last year. Next, I'll be joined by American film actress, Natalie Portman. Although still only in her twenties, she already has many successes behind her, and I'll be finding out what life was really like for her as a child star. Plus, we'll also be discussing some of her future plans. My final guest today is Korean football star Ahn Jung Hwan. I'll be asking him about his experiences at the 2002 World Cup. Already Ahn has been a player for several clubs around the world, so I'll be finding out what he feels are the differences in playing in different countries. But first, a big welcome, please, ladies and gentlemen, for our first guest. Enrique Iglesias...
