Dear David

Knowing that you will travel in Shanxi, China in the coming holiday, I'm delighted to recommend a tourist city which can't be ignored in your plan—— Taiyuan.

Recognized as a city with a long history, Taiyuan is a place where you can admire many historical sites and cultural relics. What will amaze you most is Jinci Temple, where you will get a deep insight into the glorious history and splendid culture of Shanxi. Apart from that, local food including sliced noodles and vinegar will surely be appealing to you. While travelling here, you are free to choose public transport such as the subway and shared bicycles, to wherever you want. In addition, the art galleries and the theaters are well worth visiting.

I would be more than glad if you could take my suggestions into account. Wish you a pleasant and rewarding journey in China.

Yours

Li Hua

So, Mr. Maude decided to discuss this matter with his wife. When Mrs. Maude came back to the house from the garden, Mr. Maude told her what had happened. Together, they decided to contact the service lady. The service lady was shocked at what the couple told her and talked to her boss about the matter immediately. The boss got online himself and apologized for such a big mistake and hoped they could send the other one back, to which the the couple agreed. The couple called the delivery service and sent the other ring back to the appointed address.

The day before the couple celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary an unexpected parcel arrived from SM The couple didn't place another order."Could it be another mistake?" the couple wondered. With curiosity, Mr. Maude opened the parcel and dug into the packing bubble sheets. He took out a ring box and a note, reading" We hope this small gift can reach you in time for the anniversary celebration. This ring is not dear, but it's specially made for Mrs, Maude to express our appreciation for your honesty."Mrs. Maude couldn't be happier, because she now had two rings for the anniversary, one for love, the other for honesty.

Text 1

M: When did you begin to write in your spare time?

W: About four years ago, ever since I finished middle school.

Text 2

W: I feel horrible. Daisy was angry with me because I lost her notes. Do you think I should apologize again?

M: If I were you, I'd let her calm down for a few days before approaching her.

W: Maybe you're right.

Text 3

M: Good afternoon, Lucy. Long time no see.

W: Yes, Peter. How are you?

M: Fine. Are you still teaching at the school?

W: Not since last May. My husband and I went into business together as soon as he left politics.

Text 4

W: Do you walk to work every day?

M: No, it's too far to walk. There is a bus going right by my house. But when it rains or when the bus is crowded, I do wish I had a car.

Text 5

M: Maria, do you think it's useful to study English abroad?

W: Certainly. But it costs too much. In fact, if we do our best, we can also become great English speakers in our country.

Text 6

W: Welcome to Wembley!

M: Pleased to meet you, Mrs Frost!

W: Please call me Diana. Now let me show you your room and then we can have a nice cup of tea. Or would you prefer coffee?

M: Thanks. Either is OK.

W: This is your bedroom. There's a nice view of the football stadium and here's a little desk where you can study. The bathroom is just opposite the door.

M: This looks nice and comfortable. Do you have any rules here?

W: Yes. Pets are not allowed here and loud noises are forbidden after 10 p.m.

Text 7

W: Hi, Richard. How handsome you are in the overcoat!

M: Thank you. I am very glad to hear that.

W: I like your new overcoat. It looks really expensive. Where did you get it? In that brand coat shop in the mall?

M: Well, no, I didn't. I got it in the market, where there are many clothes, from shin to shirt, from jacket to coat. I can't afford a brand coat. After all, I am just an office clerk.

W: You are too modest. Everyone knows your family has had a lot of money.

M: I don't want to get money from them. I must depend on myself.

Text 8

M: Martha, did you hear about the storm that is happening in the south of the country?

W: Yes, how could I not hear about it? It's all over the news.

M: But have you heard about Martin Harris?

W: No. Who is that?

M: Well, his story is in today's paper. Listen: "Trouble in the south as rain continues to fall and the water continues to rise. One man fights not only for his life but for others as well. Martin Harris is a local man who owns a small boat. With water levels rising above the tops of most houses in the area, people are in great danger. Harris has been using his boat to go around and help people in need. He picks them up in his boat and takes them to safety. His actions are winning praise from people all over the country. If any of you readers find yourselves stuck in flood, the best advice is to try to get to a high, dry place before the water gets too high. If you cannot swim, find something that floats and hold on until you are found."

W: Wow, Martin Harris is an amazing man.

M: We can all learn a lesson from him.

W: I think I will write him a letter to thank him for his service.

M: That is a great idea. I am sure he will appreciate that.

Text 9

W: Welcome to the Self-study Language Lab.

M: What can we do in the language lab?

W: Some students like to listen to recordings, but I think it's better to use the lab for speaking practice.

M: Yes, I need to practice my pronunciation.

W: Then try this recording. It has all the English sounds that are difficult for Spanish speakers.

M: Can I take a copy of the recording home?

W: No, I'm sorry! We like all the material to stay in the language lab. The machines here are special. They play the teachers' voice and record the students' voice in another file at the same time. You can't do that with most MP5 players.

M: What other types of speaking practice can we do?

W: Well, the grammar practice is very useful at your level.

M: Do we have books? How many exercises should I do?

W: Yes. The books are over there. It's best to repeat just one or two exercises every day. Record and play back your answers several times. Try to do better each time.

Text 10

There are several ways you can find out the countries and places you wish to visit. You can talk to friends who have traveled to the places. Or you can go and see a color film about them. Or you can read travel books.

It would seem that there are three kinds of travel books. The first are those that give a personal, subjective account of travels, which the author has actually made himself. If they are informative and have a good index, then they can be useful to you when you are planning your travels. The second kind is those books whose purpose is to give a purely objective description of things to be done and seen. If a well-read, cultured person has written such a book, then it is even more useful. It can be classified as a selective guidebook. The third kind is those books which are called "a guide" to some place or other. If they are good, they will, in addition to their factual information, give an analysis or an interpretation. Like the first kind they can be inspiring and entertaining. But their primary function is to assist the reader who wishes to plan in the most practical way.

Whatever kind of travel book you choose, you must make sure that it does not describe everything as "marvelous", "fabulous" or "magical". You must also note its date of publication because travel is a very practical affair and many things change quickly in the 21st century. Finally, you should make sure that the contents are well presented and easy to find.

So, Mr. Maude decided to discuss this matter with his wife. That evening, as they sat together in the living room, he brought up the surprising turn of events. "Darling," Mr. Maude began,"something unexpected happened with the anniversary gift. SM accidentally sent us two identical ruby rings instead of one."Mrs. Maude looked intrigued."Two ruby rings? That's quite a surprise! What should we do?"Mr. Maude thought for a moment and replied,"I believe it would be best to inform SM about the mistake and return the extra ring. Keeping something that wasn't intended for us wouldn't feel right. "His wife agreed, understanding the importance of honesty . "You're right, dear: Let's contact SM and resolve it before our anniversary."

The day before their 10th wedding anniversary, an unexpected parcel arrived from SM. Excitement filled the air as they opened it, revealing a bouquet of roses and a note expressing SM's appreciation for their honesty . Touched by the gesture, Mr. and Mrs. Maude smiled at each other. It was a delightful surprise that added joy to their upcoming celebration. With hearts full of gratitude, they toasted to ten years of love and companionship, Mr. and Mrs. Maude felt a deep sense of fulfillment. The incident with the double ruby rings had become a reminder of their commitment to each other and the values they held dear.
