Dear Charles,

Aware that you will come to China and are interested in the culture of lucky money, I'm happy to tell you something about it.

Lucky money, which is given to children by their elders as a way to express good wishes, holds a deep symbolic meaning in Chinese culture. In addition, the red envelopes believed to drive away evil spirits symbolize prosperity and happiness.

When children receive lucky money, there are certain good manners to follow. Children should greet their elders respectfully with phrases like "Happy New Year". They should also take the envelope with both hands and say "Thank you" to show gratitude and respect towards their elders.

Overall, lucky money is an important part of Chinese New Year celebrations. I hope you will enjoy the Spring Festival in China.

Yours,
Li Hua

(Text 1)

W: Would you mind if I ask how old you are?

M: Fourteen, but I'll be fifteen on May the seventh.

W: Oh! I'll be fifteen on May the fourth.

(Text 2)

W: What time is that soccer game on? I thought it started at noon.

M: We must have had the wrong time. Oh, well ... soccer's not my favourite sport anyway. I like basketball best.

W: Oh, really? I thought your favourite sport was tennis.

(Text 3)

W: What happened?

M: I got laid off last week with ten of my co-workers.

W: What are you going to do?

M: I'm looking in the newspaper for a job.

(Text 4)

M: Mary, do you play bridge?

W: No, I don't play any card games. But I know how to play chess. How about you, George?

M: Well, I happen to be one of the best chess players around.

W: OK. Let's play, then. We'll see who's the best.

(Text 5)

M: Hi, can I see Dr Dave urgently? My friend has been run over by a car at the crossroad outside. He is bleeding heavily and needs immediate medical attention.

W: I am afraid Dr Dave is busy in the operation theatre at the moment, but you can take your friend to Accident & Emergency Department. He will be taken care of there.

(Text 6)

W: What can I do for you today?

M: I need to mail this package to New York, please.

W: OK, let's see how much it weighs ... it's about five pounds. If you send it express, it will get there tomorrow. Or you can send it priority, and it will arrive by Saturday.

M: Saturday is fine. How much will that be?

W: $11.35. Do you need anything else?

M: Oh, yeah! I almost forgot. I need a book of stamps, too.

W: OK, your total comes to $20.35.

(Text 7)

W: What type of websites do you often search for?

M: It varies depending on my goal. I prefer entertainment and education websites, such as Tencent.com and UsingEnglish.com.

W: How long have you been using them?

M: I have been using these websites since I was a freshman at university.

W: What do you visit those websites for?

M: I use them to study online or relax after work.

W: What's your favourite website?

M: I think it's probably youtube.com.

W: What's the most popular website in your country?

M: I'm not quite sure, but I guess it would be Tencent.com.

W: Do you think the youth should use websites as a reliable source of knowledge?

M: Not always. They should choose their sources carefully.

(Text 8)

M: What is your favourite advertisement?

W: I'm quite impressed with the advertisement about a washing-up liquid.

M: Where did you see it?

W: I accidentally saw it on TV two years ago.

M: What happened in the advertisement?

W: The ad told a story of a family in which the children all loved their mother due to the white shirts she prepared for them.

M: Why do you like it?

W: I just can't stop loving the story in the ad. It's such a sweet story.

M: Was there any famous actor in the advertisement?

W: Not at all. The actors were not very well-known, I think.

M: Did it attract much attention?

W: I have no idea, but I've seen it in many public places.

M: Do you believe in advertisements?

W: Not really. Ads always say good things and don't mention bad things about a product for obvious reasons.

M: How have advertisements changed recently?

W: They're more modern. Digital marketing has proved successful in many fields.

(Text 9)

M: Good morning, ma'am. How may I help you?

W: Good morning. Do you have grammar books?

M: Yes, ma'am. We have a lot of grammar books in the language section. Which one do you want?

W: I am looking for an advanced grammar book.

M: Which author do you prefer?

W: I don't really know about any author. I just want to polish up my English grammar.

M: We have many books by Cambridge and Oxford publications that are quite popular.

W: OK, let me have a look.

M: Are you looking for any other book or novel?

W: I am also looking for 'Delhi' by Khushwant Singh. I have heard that it's an excellent book and has got very good reviews.

M: I don't think we have it right now, as the last one got sold yesterday. I have ordered it already, and it will be available next Tuesday. I will deliver the book to you in three days. If you want any other book by any other author, you can browse through the collection on your right.

W: Do you have other books by Khushwant Singh?

M: We have only one book by him, which is "The Sunset Club". It makes for interesting reading.

W: Thanks.

M: When I think about my best travel experience ever, so many things jump out at me: Diving in the Great Barrier Reef, feeding elephants in Thailand, and even teaching kids in Cambodia. But one experience stands above the rest. And that was my trip to Myanmar with my best friend. We knew that Wi-Fi would be a struggle. For our entire trip, we had to be in the moment, with no social media, no work, and completely focus on what we were doing and where we were. This was a challenge for someone who is continually working and always connected. But I do think it forced us to be present in a way that we wouldn't have been if we were constantly checking our phones. The highlight of the trip was the hot air balloon ride over the temples at sunrise. We were lucky to get a clear day, and many other rides had been cancelled due to poor weather. The temples were at their best at sunrise. They shone in the sun and picked up the gold. This still goes down as my best travel experience ever.
