51. 范文

This month our school held an essay contest whose theme is protecting wild animals. The purpose of this activity is to raise students' awareness of caring for wild animals, especially endangered ones.

The activity attracted a lot of students. A total of 300 articles were received, all of which were submitted through the Internet. There are different styles of essays, including novels, poems and letters. Some students expressed their great concern for the situation of wild animals, and others put forward a wide variety of measures to protect them.

The students have come to realize the importance of protecting wild animals through the activity.

52. 范文

With that, he turned and walked away. As soon as he was gone, the nurse hurried over to me. I didn't realize she'd been watching. Not knowing what I'd done wrong, I panicked and felt my palms sweating. "Was he talking to you?" she asked. "Yeah," I said. Hearing that, she stared at me with wide eyes. "I'm sorry," I said. "I didn't mean to cause him to be annoyed and move off." So ashamed did I feel that I was close to tears.

"No. You have misunderstood me. I just couldn't believe you got Mr. Smith talking," the nurse said. Then she told me that he used to be a musician, but he had never spoken a word to anybody since he came here. She asked me curiously, "What did you say to him? How did you get him to open up?" "I was just sitting here and playing the piano," I responded, realizing sometimes just being there is enough.
