

成都七中高 2024 届高二零诊模拟试卷
英语参考答案

听力

1-5 ABCCA

6-10 ABBAC

11-15 ACBCA

16-20 BACAA

阅读理解（共两节，满分 50 分）

第一节

21-23 BDA

24-27 CCDA

28-31 BCAD

32-35 CCBB

第二节

36-40 DGBCE

完形填空

41. C

42. D

43. B

44. A

45. C

46. B

47. D

48. A

49. C

50. A

51. B

52. A

53. D

54. D

55. A

56. B

57. C

58. B

59. C

60. D

语篇填空

61. when

- 62. features
- 63. a
- 64. greatly
- 65. to stop
- 66. has provided
- 67. into
- 68. combining
- 69. popularity
- 70. written

短文改错

- 1. discover→discovered
- 2 删除 could 或 could→should
- 3. advices 改→advice
- 4. Dozens 后加 of 5. a→an 6. since→before
- 7. 删除 back
- 8. amazing→amazed
- 9. That→What 10. its→whose

第四部分写作（共两节，满分 40 分）

One possible version

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I'm Li Hua. I am delighted to speak on the topic of "Technology and Lifestyles" at the TECH TALK event.

The development of technology has brought a massive transformation to our lives.

Technology has impacted our lives in so many areas, including healthcare, communication, and transportation. For example, medical technology has advanced treatments, allowing us to save more lives. Communication technology enables us to connect across the globe, further expanding our horizons. Additionally, transportation technology has made travel more efficient and cost-effective.

However,

in spite of its many advances, technology has some limitations and negative impacts. Over-dependence on technology can create social and personal problems, such as addiction and mental issues.

To conclude, technology plays a critical role in society, and we must use it wisely and responsibly. We must utilize the benefits of technology while also being mindful of its potential negative consequences. By working together, we can create a healthier and more sustainable future.

听力原文:

Text 1

W: So, what are your plans for this weekend? How about going to see a movie?

M: That sounds like a good idea. Maybe we should go out to eat beforehand.

W: It is fine with me. Where do you want to meet?

M: Let's meet at Summer House. They're said to serve healthy food, and not expensive.

Text 2

W: Northwind Airways, good morning. May I help you?

M: Yes, do you have any flights to Sydney next Tuesday afternoon?

W: One moment, please. . . Yes. There's a flight at 16:45 and one at 18:00.

M: That's fine. I want to make a reservation for economy class ticket at your 18:00 flight.

Text 3

W: Oh! What are you doing? You can't throw the recyclable garbage in that red dustbin! It should be put in the blue bin.

M: You mean, I have to put all recyclable stuff-in the blue bin?

W: Not all. Plastics go in the blue bin, paper and card in the brown bin, and bio-waste in the green one.

Text 4

M: Hi, Amy. What's the hurry?

W: Hello, Smith. I've heard an art exhibition is being held there. As a student keen on art, I want to visit it. As I happen to have no class this afternoon, I want to stay there for a whole afternoon appreciating the paintings.

M: Well, I don't like art, as I think it's boring to learn to paint. Best wishes.

Text 5

W: Henry, I've got good news to share. My boss offered me a promotion, and I took it.

M: Are you serious, Emily?

W: Yes, I am really excited.

M: That's great. Congratulations! You have no idea how happy I am for you. I believe you are the best choice for that promotion. I heard Liza would be promoted to the head of your department before.

Text 6

W: Hey, Steve. When is the next time you're going to play golf?

M: I'm going out this Saturday, but there are already plenty of players this time. Let's plan for something together next Wednesday. We can go right after work.

W: That sounds good. So I'll just settle for some reading this Saturday and wait for a golf game with you next Wednesday. We won't have much time, so let's play somewhere close to work.

M: How about Bellevue? It's pretty close.

W: All right. What about 4:15 pm? I won't get off until 4:00 pm.

M: OK. I'll call you later when I get off work.

W: Sounds good. I'll see you on Wednesday then.

M: Alright. Have fun on Saturday.

Text 7

W: Steve. Is that you? What a surprise to see you here. It's been a couple of months since I saw you. It's surprising to see you in such good shape, and have none of the tired look on your face. You must have exercised quite a lot.

M: Well, I just started working out. I joined the Samsung Health Club last month.

W: I should start exercising more. I have a running machine at home. I used to use it, but I already got sick of it.

M: Exercising at home is hard. The environment isn't suited for exercising. I have a couple of guest passes. If you like, you can use one and checkout my health club.

W: That's a good idea. Let's go over the weekend.

M: Great. I'll call you on Saturday morning.

W: All right.

Text 8

W: Did you already take the history exam, George?

M: Yeah. It was hard. When will you take it?

W: I'll take it tomorrow morning. There is so much material that I don't know what to emphasize on.

M: For this part of the exam, I suggest you go over the part about the American Civil War. You should also study the impact Martin Luther King Jr. had on American society. But I don't know whether our teacher Mr. Smith will give you the same exam or not.

W: Hopefully he will use the same exam, because I'm going to spend most of my time studying the Civil War. It is a huge section and that is what he lectured the most on in class.

M: That is probably the best way to go.

W: Alright. Thanks for the information. I'll go to the library now.

M: Good luck.

Text 9

W: I see on your resume that you worked as a manager at Computer Country. Could you tell me a little more about your responsibilities there?

M: Sure. I was responsible for the sales service, with about 30 employees.

W: What was the most difficult part of your job?

M: Probably handling angry customers. I needed to make sure they were well taken care of. After all, the customer is always right.

W: That's how we feel here too. How long did you work there?

M: I was there for three and a half years. I left the company last month.

W: I see. But the position won't start until the middle of next month. Would that be a problem for you?

M: No, not at all. In this case, I'll just spend the time visiting my parents and leading my kids to the beach for fun.

W: That sounds nice. So, why are you interested in this particular position?

M: I know that your company Emoryville has a great reputation and wonderful product. I have thought many times that I would like to be a part of it. When I heard about the opening in Emoryville, I jumped on the opportunity.

Text 10

Historic England is an organisation that advises the government on how to look after traditional buildings and places. It has chosen 60 of the best photos from the public for an outdoor exhibition about everyday life called Picturing High Streets. The pictures range from portraits of people to photos of cafes and shops. The exhibition is touring England, starting in Derby from 17 March to 9 April. The photos will be shown in different ways, such as in shop windows and on big advertising boards.

In London, the show will also feature photos by Jamil, who has been working with primary school pupils. Jamil told The Week Junior that a great high street "should be a place where people feel welcome and connected to their local community". Jamil says that Petticoat Lane, where he took many of his photos, has these important ingredients.