五. One possible version:

Dear James,

I'm glad to share with you a wonderful activity: we held a charity bazaar!

Our school has set up a grant fund for students who study hard. Last week, all my classmates donated something to give a help for that fund, including books, sports equipment and even our DIY objects. Then, an auction fair was on stage, with students and teachers as "bidders". At last, we raised over 3,000 yuan!

I think this activity is quite meaningful. It helps the poor students to relieve their financial burden. Besides, it shows that every can give a hand to create a better world together. How do you think about it?

Yours,

Li Hua

附：听力原文

(Text 1)

W: Why are you so depressed, Tommy?

M: The boss gave me so much work to do! I was working until 10 o'clock yesterday. And it has not been finished!

W: Why don't you talk to your boss?

M: I did. But he just said he couldn't find another person to help me. I'm really feeling down especially on such a rainy day.

(Text 2)

W: Hey, Mike, how much is the bill?

M: The two chicken sandwiches cost 30 dollars. And the two Cokes cost 10 dollars.

W: That's great. Let's divide the bill in half.

(Text 3)

M: When did you decide to be a school teacher, Kate?

W: When I was in middle school, I had a history teacher whom I liked very much. I wanted to be like her.

M: What made her so special? To tell you the truth, my teacher just taught names and dates.

(Text 4)

M: Did you see what that guy did? A U-turn right in the middle of the block and almost hit a kid on a bicycle!

W: Oh, I can't believe drivers behave like that! We are seeing more and more crazy people not obeying traffic rules.

(Text 5)

M: Good morning! What's the emergency?

W: I fell off my bike while riding. My leg is painful. Ouch! It hurts.

M: Don't worry. Lie down, please. I will check it.

(Text 6)

W: Did you go to the basketball game on Friday?

M: No I couldn't make it. I was busy doing my paper.

W: You missed a really good game.

M: Oh, really? Which school won?

W: Of course our school did. They played really well.

M: Too bad I was busy. The next game, I will definitely be there.

(Text 7)

M: Good morning. We are doing a survey on shopping choices. Would you mind answering a few quick questions?

W: No, go ahead.

M: Can you tell me whether you wash your hair six times a week, five times a week or less?

W: Usually, every day.

M: Do you always buy the same brand of shampoo?

W: Um, I tend to buy a different one each time.

M: So are you influenced by the shape of the bottle or the publicity?

W: I think I usually focus on value for money. I don't take much notice of the advertising or what the bottle looks like.

M: Thank you for your answer.

(Text 8)

W: We need to start saving money for a rainy day.

M: Yeah, I know, but we still need to live too. I don't want to work just to save and entertainment matters, you know.

W: Honey, I understand your point. But isn't it true that you will be a father soon? You must agree that we have to knit a safe net for our kids as well as for ourselves. How about saving 20% of all our earnings and putting it in the bank?

M: Um... Yes, honey. Um... But 20% sounds too high. How about 10%?

W: Oh, dear. I had meant the number to be 40%. Actually 20% is nothing if we cut down on takeaway food and start cooking at home. Imagine if we start saving and keeping at least 20% in the bank now, we will have enough money to retire comfortably. Oh, what a nice picture that would be!

M: Yes, honey, you are right. I just don't think about retirement too often.

W: And if we don't put money in the bank now, we will have to work right up until the day we die. Surely you don't want to be working in your 70s, right?

M: Oh, I am so lucky to have you, honey. Let's write down a saving plan together.

(Text 9)

W: Sorry, I am late, Tom.

M: It's all right Rita. Where have you been?

W: At the police station. I have lost my handbag. Or perhaps someone's taken it. I don't know.

M: Oh no! What happened? Sit down. Was there anything important in it?

W: Important! My checkbook, all the papers I need for work.

M: Oh, that's terrible! But how did you lose it?

W: Well, as you know, I was with a friend all morning and we had lunch together. After I had lunch, I went shopping. And when I wanted to buy something, I couldn't find my checkbook.

Then I remembered that it was in my handbag. And my handbag was in my car.

M: So you went back to your car.

W: But I didn't find it there.

M: And you went to the police station?

W: Not immediately. Before I went to the police station, I called my friend's office. No luck.

M: You should go to the restaurant where you had lunch and look for it.

W: Oh, I should have done that.

M: Now you'd better telephone the manager right away.

(Text10)

As you can see from the signs, this was Medbury's old cheese market. People used to bring cheese and butter and things here to sell. But since 1982, this has been a craft market. If you want to take presents home, there are plenty of things to choose from, like these hand-painted T-shirts or those traditional baskets. This town was well-known for its leather goods, especially shoes. That long building over there was the factory where they were made. It's become a museum because most of their shoes we buy now are made abroad. If you need to change some money before you go shopping, you will find a bank over there beside the cinema. If that one is busy, there's another one, but it's a few minutes' walk-it's opposite the park. We will meet at 4:30. We are taking the coach back to London today as we want to visit somewhere else on the way back. But if you come here again from London, the quickest way is by train. The station is just down the road. You can just see the taxi outside.
