Nick Vujicic is a great speaker, born in Melbourne, Australia on the 4th of December, 1982. He has no arms and legs. There is no medical explanation for it. In school, he was the first disabled child to be integrated into the Australian school system. He was laughed at, avoided and not included on purpose from games. At age 8, Nick tried some prosthetics (假肢) but they were more of restriction than aid because they limited his movement. Apparently, he had learnt how to do some things without them. Unfortunately, he severely battled with depression at age 8. He felt he would always be a burden for the rest of his life. These thoughts made his prospects in life as a fantasy. He just had one desire—arms and legs, that's all.

At age 10, though his home was a refuge from the external storms, he couldn't manage to deal with the rejections he faced outside. Then he tried to drown himself but the love he had for his parents discouraged him from doing so. Nick had his Bachelor's degree in commerce at Griffith University. One day, his mum noticed his situation affected his life and decided to show him a newspaper article that featured a man that had a severe disability, much more than Nick's.

From that moment on, Nick Vujicic became grateful for life. He also said he found peace after he got his relationship with himself. Although he couldn't make some things happen easily, he believed it was not what you had but what you did with it. Therefore, he frequently tells himself he is not afraid to fail or try again. Today, He writes up to 43 words per minute, can throw tennis balls, play the drums, get a glass of water and also answer a phone call.

4. What can we know about Nick from paragraph 1?

- A. His disability is due to a genetic cause.
B. He had a good time with his schoolmates.
C. He suffered from depression at the age of 8.
D. His prosthetics gave assistance with his movement.

5. What is a key turning point in Nick's belief?

- A. After knowing about a figure in an article.

- C. Make SMAG keep soil healthy.
D. Make SMAG acceptable by people.
15. What may be the suitable title for the text?
- A. An invention of making plants grow in a dry climate
B. An invention of making plants grow quickly
C. An invention of defeating droughts
D. An invention of protecting the soil

How to Budget Your Money When You Study Overseas

Studying abroad can be a great opportunity to meet new people and to expose yourself to an unfamiliar and exciting culture. By challenging yourself to try a new culture, you can make a huge impact on the way you see the world. 16 Luckily, there are some tips for you, so that you can have the wonderful experience without the financial pressure.

Write out a travel budget.

17 Think about the amount of money you will need to spend every week and month for housing, food, school supplies, travel, transportation and other living expenses to create a monthly budget that you can follow.

Find a job that you can perform remotely.

See if you can find a job before you go abroad to ensure a constant flow of income. Consider a job as a writer or travel blogger. See if you can find a job that lets you explore the country you're staying in, like by becoming a photographer. 18

Cook meals at home.

If you are staying with a host family, try to eat as many meals as you can with them. 19 If you can cook on your own, find a local grocery store where you can buy food material to make a simple meal.

20

If you are fluent in the language of the country you're staying in, think about teaching local students your native language. Not only does this let you engage with local students, but it allows you to gain an even deeper understanding the language you'll hear around you during your overseas experience.

- A. Look for a part-time job.
B. Get a job working as a language teacher.
C. Although it may be great, it is often a costly experience.
D. Make sure every day you stay healthy while living abroad.
E. Create a budget for your time abroad to avoid overspending.
F. There are jobs specifically intended for employees working abroad.
G. It not only cuts down on costs but spends quality time with your hosts.

第二节 (共 10 小题;每小题 1.5 分,满分 15 分)

阅读下面短文,在空白处填入 1 个适当的单词或括号内单词的正确形式。

Although we often hope that things go 36 way we want, luck isn't always on our side—especially when it comes to career goals. That's why it's important to 37 (effective) plan for the future, whether you're still studying or 38 (work) for a while.

Henry was teaching science then, there was one girl who sat at the front of the class and was filled with typical middle school pain and anxiety. Her name was Mary. She was a new-comer then. She wasn't accepted by the classmates that soon. She was quiet and kept to herself and always writing a journal during lessons. Henry was looking for a chance to give her a hand but had realized this task was tough.

That class Henry decided to look over her shoulder and see what she was writing. On a small piece of paper, he saw the painful words "I am not good enough. I'm ugly. I'm stupid. No one likes me. I hate myself." The girl was absorbed in her loneliness and sadness and didn't realize she was overseen.

This task was more challenging because he had never seen a young girl was so disappointed and sad. Great teachers knew that putting extra effort, a kind heart and soul into caring for his students made all the difference. Without thinking, Henry snatched (一把抓起) the notebook from her and started writing in it "You're great, you're beautiful, you're intelligent, you're loved". The opposite of everything she wrote, then handed it back. He smiled at her with encouragement saying nothing.

Mary was surprised at her teacher's behavior. But when she read the words he wrote, tears welled down her face.

注意:

1. 续写词数应为 150 左右;
2. 请按如下格式在答题卡的相应位置作答。

Several weeks later, Henry had to left the school to join the navy.

Several years later, when Henry was walking, a woman asked him whether he remembered her.
