One possible version:

Every proverb brings people some wisdom. So does the one “Practice makes perfect”, which means the more efforts you put into practice, the more skillful you will become.

Memories rushed to my mind when I saw this sentence. At college, swimming test was a must. In spite of the fact that I never learnt how to swim before college, I overcame my fear and practised swimming every morning. Gradually, I was able to “float” on the water. I kept on. With constant efforts and practice, I managed to pass the test.

As you can see, this is the power of constant practice. Keep practicing, and success is in front of you.

第二节（满分 25 分）

答案第 1 页，总 2 页

One possible version:

My turn finally came. I tried every means to calm myself down while entering the arena. Holding the rein, I felt my palms sweating, while Cowboy seemed to be ready for the race. I held my breath for a second, and gradually cooled off. I put on my hat, rubbed Cowboy's neck and stopped Cowboy before the starting line. At the signal, we dashed toward the first fence, jumped it without trouble and raced on to the next one. Cowboy then flew over the second, third and fourth fences gracefully like a bird and I turned him toward the finish line.

As we crossed the line the crowd was shocked into silence. Everyone waited tensely for the winner's name to be announced. Cowboy and I had beaten Becky and her fancy horse by two seconds! Eyes brimming with tears of joy, I patted Cowboy on the neck and whispered in his ears, "We made it; we beat Becky by two seconds!" I gained much more than a blue ribbon that day. At thirteen, I realized that no matter what the odds appear to be, I'd always come out a winner if I wanted something badly enough and work for it.
