Aiming to carry forward the spirit of Chinese scientists and demonstrate the power of moral examples, the Student Union is collecting short videos with the theme of "The Spirit of Chinese Scientists".

The video is supposed to be original, positive and to the point, including scientists' major experiences, achievements and the spirit they show on the road to success. As a consequence, if you admire a scientist for the above-mentioned aspects, feel free to submit your excellent work to student-union @163.com before May 20th. What deserves your special attention is that your work should be limited to 3 minutes.

Your active participation is highly anticipated!

第二节 (满分 25 分)

Doodlebug's eyes went wide as a brilliant idea came to mind. "THE BEE!" he exclaimed and pointed at Mrs.Noodleknocker, only to be greeted with a glare. Dandelion detailed their plan and asked her to be the bee mascot. After digesting the information, Mrs.Noodleknocker had her irritable expression softened a bit. "Just forget it," she said, turning back to her magazine. "Only real bees matter." Tomiko responded boldly that this whole plan was indeed for real bees. "Please, lady?" Bog coaxed, adding her favor might double the fund. Mrs.Noodleknocker put down the magazine, a tiny smile glinting across her usually mean mouth. It had been a long time since anyone called her a lady. Finally, she snorted and gave in.

The bee campaign was a massive success! On the day of fundraising, Mrs.Noodleknocker rocked the bee costume in all her pollinator glory. Instead of threatening passers-by with a sting, the group decided a friendly bee was the right way to go. The following hours witnessed the bee buzzing around the booth, arms and legs punching and kicking. Whenever her strange insect eyes landed on someone, the victim quickly forked over cash—even without being stung. So hilarious and inspiring! A few weeks later Cool Yule's bee garden bloomed spectacularly, attracting customers and good insects from all around. And Mrs. Noodleknocker was almost a nice person from then on. It proved that being a bee could be good for anyone.

Text 1 (第1题为推断题)

W: Excuse me, sir. May I see your ticket, please?

M: Just a moment ... Oh, no. I can't find my wallet. I must have left it in the dining car.

W: You'd better go to that carriage and ask the conductor for help.

Text 2 (第2题为推断题)

W: Hi, I bought a dress and this sweater here two days ago. The sweater doesn't really suit me, so I would like to return it. Here's my receipt.

M: OK, no problem. As it shows, the total cost is 49 pounds. So, here's 29 pounds back for the sweater.

Text 3

M: Did all of our mail already arrive? I'm waiting for an important letter from the insurance company.

W: I'm not sure about the one you want, but I put a pile of letters on the bedside table just now.

Check them out. (3)

Text 4 (第4题为推断题)

M: Hey, Lizzy. How have you been? I noticed your dad's store has been closed for days. Is business slow?

W: What? I don't know anything about it. Are we going out of business so early?

◆ slow 不忙碌的; 冷清的

Text 5 (第5题为主旨大意题)

W: Let's get something to eat. I'm starved.

M: I don't feel like cooking. Let's order takeout. Pasta or noodles?

W: The first one. I have to say I had noodles with Mark yesterday.

Text 6

W: Wait for me, Jack! I can't walk that fast.

M: Sorry. I just want to have a good look at that building. It's so massive! What did the tour guide say about this place? I'm sorry I wasn't listening then. (6)

W: He said that the Metropolitan Museum of Art is the largest art museum in America. Its collection consists of works of art from ancient Egypt, Europe and America. (7)

M: Ancient Egypt? What good luck! I've always wanted to travel there. Let's check it out. (7)

W: I don't mind. But you have to promise to walk slower. I don't want to get lost here.

M: Okay. (7)

Text 7

M: Lucy, (8) I listened to your music today. It is truly beautiful! How did you make it?

W: Thanks. I have an online piano lesson for one hour per day. My mom also asks me to practice playing the piano for another two hours, (8) one hour in the morning and the other one after I get back home from school.

M: Wow, you must really enjoy it.

W: I do. What about you, Mason? I remember you play the guitar.

M: Guitar? Oh, that was only a passing fancy. I'm really keen on football. When I went to the middle school, our trainer noticed me reading near the sports ground. He offered me a chance to have a try on his team. I did, and very soon it became a part of my life.

W: That sounds like fun.

M: Sure, but there's also one drawback. I can't even spare an hour to read since that day. (9)

◆ passing fancy 心血来潮

Text 8 (第10题为推断题)

W: Hello, Mr. Leeds. The heat wave is forecast to last longer and the air conditioning system on our floor is still not repaired. The temperature these days is 35 Celsius degrees and it gets even hotter in the afternoon. The computers and the other equipment also produce a lot of heat in the office. (11)

M: Yes, Mandy. I have been aware of that. I'm suffering as well. I suppose we will have to bear it a bit longer.

W: Sir, I came to you in the name of all our colleagues. We can't stand this any longer.

M: Are you saying that you refuse to work?

W: Unless there are some solutions, I'm afraid so.

M: You can't stop the work. I have significantly reduced the workload for everyone already.

W: We understand it. However, we are experiencing terrible headaches and breathing difficulties. Clearly, that affects our work performance a lot.

M: Fine. Come again to my office at 1:00 p.m. I'll try to figure something out. (12)

W: Thank you, sir.

Text 9 (第13、16题为推断题)

M: So here we go, I'll tell you all the things you need to know. My son Rick is usually pretty quiet. He loves playing computer games, but my wife and I don't allow him to play for too long. When he finishes his homework, please give him a glass of milk and some cookies. The cookies are on the top shelf of the cupboard.

W: Okay. What about little Daisy?

M: She is younger and more active. She's crazy about dolls and can play with them for hours. She loves singing, so don't be surprised if she asks you to watch her performance.

W: Ha-ha, lovely. What about dinner?

M: It's in the refrigerator. You should heat it up and give it to them around 7:00 p.m. Put the dirty dishes in the dishwasher when they're done. Don't be shy, Linette. If you're hungry, just help yourself. (14)

W: Thanks, I already had my dinner. What about their bedtime?

M: As for Daisy, she must go to bed before 9:00 p.m. Rick can stay up for another half an hour. Oh, one more thing, please don't leave the house until I return. (15)

W: Got it. Have a nice evening, Mr. Cells.

M: Thank you. I should be back from work by midnight.

Text 10 (第 17 题为推断题)

For most people, doing the laundry is a basic part of life. As long as clean clothes are in demand, a laundry business will be too. Though people always need clean clothes, many don't have time to handle this elementary task. In fact, laundry is often thought to be the least favorable household chore, followed by cooking and sweeping. (18) Considering the constant need for clean clothes, starting a business in the laundry industry can be a great option for a beginner.

Running your own laundry business does not require any specific qualification or experience. The most important thing is: It's necessary to carry out local market research before you make a business plan or buy equipment. (19) Such businesses are most popular in areas with lots of people or where people might not have their own washing machines, for example, the university campus and popular tourist spots.

You may want to run a laundry where customers wash their clothes using your machines. You can also offer services. For example, customers can drop off their laundry, and then pick it up when it's done. You can also offer pick-up and delivery services. Whichever you choose, you'll need washing and drying machines and many other essential things for the business. Keep all of these in mind when you set about calculating the initial costs. (20)
