Be positive

We've all experienced positive and negative moods. The emotions we feel play an important role in how we think and behave. For one thing, people who are often in a positive mood in their everyday life tend to be happier, healthier and get along better with others. For another, a bad mood can ruin your day, as well as the day of the people around you.

So, what causes a bad mood? There are a variety of reasons. For example, we may get into a bad mood because of failing an exam. We may feel down after receiving some bad news or quarreling with our parents or friends. At the same time, too much pressure from work can also makes us unhappy.

However, there are many things we can do to turn our bad mood into a good one. As far as I'm concerned, exercise is one of the methods to get rid of a bad mood. Meanwhile, the simple act of sharing time with others is a great way to release stress and anxiety. So the next time you're feeling blue, call up a friend.

W: I didn't know that you could play basketball so well. Did you play in high school?

M: Not really. My brother played in college so I used to practice with him.

W: Awesome. Our company team could really need your help!

【Text2】

W: Before you watch that movie, you must finish all of your homework and clean your room.

M: OK, Mum. I promise I'll finish everything after we've eaten dinner.

【Text3】

M: That's such a nice shirt, Sally. It looks like it might be quite expensive.

W: It may look expensive, but it only cost 20 at the department store.

M: I usually buy my clothing online. Maybe I will go there next time.

M: I see. Maybe if he had more practice it would be easier for him. Thank you for the suggestion.

W: I will be checking the notes he is taking in class and watching his progress. You can come back to the school next month and we can talk again.

M: Thanks so much again.

【Text9】

M: My parents started to pack up our house yesterday to get ready to move to Florida after our high school graduation.

W: It'll be so hot if they move there this summer. Mine are staying in New York until they retire.

M: It will but they don't need to stay here because I'll be living elsewhere. I still wish they would stay in the northeast of the U. S. though.

W: My parents are only staying because my little sister is still in high school. Where are you going to university?

M: I was applying to schools in California, but I only got into schools in Boston.

W: Oh, I saw you had a sweatshirt from New York University. I thought you might be going there.

M: My dad really wanted me to go there because that was his university. I applied last month and went on a campus tour, but I didn't get accepted.

W: I visited it last week as well but I also didn't get in. I'm going to take a year-off instead.

M: Wow, I can't believe it. What will you be doing here for the whole year?

W: I'll mostly just do boring part-time jobs in the city but I'm still looking forward to it.

Can everyone hear me? Okay. My name is Will. I am the ride operator and this is my assistant Anna. I just want to go over a few rules with everyone before we board, as it is park policy that I let you all know before we can get to the fun. Please keep all your questions until the end. There is no food or drinks allowed on the ride. Please remove all items from your pockets before boarding. It can be dangerous for your fellow riders if a coin or cell phone falls out during motion. You may not be able to recover anything that loses during the ride. There has already been one lost cell phone today, because a person decided they wanted to take a picture during the ride. Please take off any hats or loose jewelry that cannot be safely covered by your clothing. Keep in mind, the amusement park is not responsible for any lost or stolen items. Anna was here on the day a woman lost her diamond earrings. All hands and feet must remain inside the car at all times. Spitting off the ride will not be tolerated. If you are caught, you will be removed from the park. Are there any questions so far? No? Then you may board, four people per row. Please move all the way to the left and wait for me or Anna to make sure your safety belt is secured.

M: How could I be so stupid? The answer was right in front of me and I still put the wrong one. Of course a blue whale is larger than an elephant!

W: It will be fine. You still passed the test. Your parents will not be angry with you.

M: I know, but I really wanted that perfect score so my parents would be proud. It was the only question I got wrong.

【Text5】

M: The customers at table four want you to know that their dinner was delicious.

W: I am glad. I was afraid they would not like the green beans I made.

M: All of the waiters say their customers love them. We should ask the manager to consider putting them on the menu permanently.

【Text6】

M: Janet, I'm so glad I found you! Do you work close by?

W: Yes, I'm just walking back from lunch now. Do you need help?

M: Yes. I'm trying to find the right bus to take me to the central library.

W: Let me take these papers up to my office and then I'll drive you there.

M: Thanks so much. I don't have a map and my phone is dead.

W: No problem. I'm sorry about how confusing it is for you being new in town.

M: Great. I'm glad I asked you, thanks again!

【Text7】

M: If I have to spend any more money on my car, I'll be so angry!

W: I saw you pass my house the other day. It looked fine then.

M: I left it parked in the snow the other day and then it wouldn't start.

W: I took a mechanics course in high school. Can I help?

M: It's OK. I thought there was a big problem with the engine but I'm pretty sure it's just the battery.

W: We can take the train downtown to go to the car supply shop. I'm sure we can find you a new battery.

M: That sounds good. I've got about two more hours of work to do at the office. We can go after.

W: OK, the store closes around 4:00 so let's meet in front of the train station at noon.

M: 12:30 is better. See you then!

【Text8】

M: Thanks for meeting with me to talk about my son.

W: My pleasure, I wanted to tell you that your son is very smart but is having some issues.

M: I think he learns quite fast and he gets along so well with other students. What is the problem?

W: I agree. He has so many friends and he usually pays attention in class, but he has trouble when testing.

M: I see. What would you suggest he do to improve?

W: I think he should do a few practice tests at home before examinations.

M: Should he have more challenging homework and reading as well?

W: I don't think that is necessary. He just gets very nervous before testing.
