听力原文

Text 1

W: Tom, last night's storm was crazy! My electricity kept shutting off.

M: Losing power is small potatoes. A huge tree fell on my neighbor's house and his car.

Text 2

W: We're checking out. Could you send someone to pick up our suitcase?

M: Yes, Madam! I'll send the suitcase carrier over.

Text 3

M: Wow, Anna. It looks like you need some help. Let me carry that.

W: Thanks, Jack. I can always count on you. But Jessica is always failing to help me.

Text 4

M: Hi, are you going to Reggie's birthday party? I can't remember what time to be there.

W: I think the invitation said 6:00 p. m. I think I'll call him to confirm.

M: OK, cool. Keep me updated.

Text 5

W: Mike, how have you been? It's been so long since I saw you.

M: Yeah. I've been away for a while. I went down to Brazil and spent two weeks with my family in Rio de Janeiro. I just got back a few days ago.

W: Oh, I hear that Rio is so exciting with beautiful beaches and music.

Text 6

W: Hello, this is Jennifer calling.

M: Hello, Jennifer.

W: I wonder if you have time to have dinner with me this evening.

M: What time?

W: It's up to you. I am free all night.

M: I have to go to a party this afternoon, and I don't think I will be back until 5 o'clock. So how about 7 o'clock?

W: OK. Can you come and pick me up half an hour early?

M: That's OK.

W: If you come back early, please call me. We can see a movie first.

M: Sounds wonderful. I would really like to see a movie with you, but I don't think there is enough time.

W: All right. We can see a movie next time.

Text 7

W: Mark, you don't look alright. Are you sick?

M: I'm afraid so. I've got a really sore throat and my headache is killing me. Also, my forehead is burning.

W: I'm afraid you've got a bad flu. My cousin also has such symptoms. She went to see her doctor yesterday and was told that.

M: I guess I need to go to see a doctor, too.

W: I totally agree. And I think what you need now is a lot of rest. Go to see a doctor and then go back home directly.

M: But I still have much work to do.

W: I don't think you can work these days. Besides, I'm afraid you'll spread the flu if you're here.

M: You're right. I'll go to Mr. Brown's office and ask for two days' leave.

Text 8

W: I don't know if I have room for any more food.

M: I had a look at the dessert menu. There's a chocolate cake.

W: You know that's my favorite. Remember we had one in that hotel in Africa three years ago?

M: Yeah, that was a great holiday. It was one year after Daisy was born.

W: So it was. I feel guilty leaving the two kids at home tonight.

M: Don't worry too much. They'll be fine. We can get them some cookies when we leave.

W: OK. But I can't decide if I want the cake or just an ice cream.

M: Why not both? We don't get out often. Come on.

W: Will you have a dessert?

M: Yeah, I'm going for a strawberry ice cream.

W: I've never tried that before. I might get a bit of yours then.

Text 9

M: What are you studying at university?

W: Engineering.

M: And what do you hope to do after you graduate?

W: When I graduate next year, I hope to design buildings that can help the environment.

M: And what design ideas do you have for that?

W: The biggest one is heat. People spend lots of money heating their homes and offices only because the heat is constantly losing. I want to make it so that the homes keep the heat in for longer.

M: What about electricity? People use a lot of electricity, too.

W: I am looking at a mix of solar and wind power to generate electricity. But the technology needs to get better.

M: What else do you think could be improved in home design?

W: How modern buildings use water. We waste a lot of water when it could be cleaned.

M: These all sound like amazing ideas. I can't wait to see them in action.

Text 10

M: Good evening, everyone. I'm glad to be invited here to talk about firefighters' work and life. A full-time firefighter works an average of 56 hours per week, but the work hours are divided into 24-hour shifts. Some departments schedule firefighters to work 8- or 12-hour shifts, but this is not the usual practice. The usual schedule for firefighters is to work 10 of the 24-hour shifts per month. While on duty, the crew members live and eat together at the fire house. This makes firefighting a unique type of work. Instead of working an 8-hour shift and going home, firefighters are together all the time while working. They are co-workers who behave like roommates, and like a family. Each member of the crew is expected to participate in household chores that include cooking and cleaning. Firefighters work in very stressful situations. They are called out to fires and other emergencies. They see people who have been injured or killed in fires or as the result of accidents and other incidents as part of their job duties on a regular basis. But the rewards of doing the job make the stresses and challenges worth it.

After the race, I slowly went to my team, realizing I had destroyed the hopes of bringing honor to my school. However, I thought I had done the right thing. I saw Mr Tan was also there talking with my teammates. I was worried that they would be angry with me because I had let them down, but no one blamed me. Instead, they all tried to cheer me up. That was reassuring. When I approached Mr Tan, he patted me on the shoulder and said, "I am touched by your act of sportsmanship, Tyson! I support the decision you have made on the track!" Hearing that, I thanked Mr Tan sincerely.

The awards ceremony took place two days later. As I stood near the stage in the school hall, I knew I had nothing to do with the awards. To my surprise, I heard my name being read out by my principal, Mr Tan. "Today, we honour Tyson Goh as the recipient of Nila Sportsmanship Award!" Mr Tan announced. Was the Sportsmanship Award a newly added one? Excitedly, I accepted the award. At that moment, I spotted Robert, smiling at me. I realized that though I lost the race, I got a friend at last. And since then, Robert has been one of my best friends.
