London Cycle Hire Scheme

Renting a bike is not only one of the most pleasant ways to travel around the back streets of London—it's also one of the cheapest. Approximately 12,000 bikes are available to rent 24 hours a day, all year round. You can hire a bike from any of the 800 docking stations and return it anywhere on the network. The three-speed bikes are pretty strong. They come with a bell, a front basket and a chain guard. The front and back lights come on when you start pedalling and the seat height is easily adjustable.

How much does it cost?

Unfortunately, the free under-30-minute-ride deal was canceled in September 2022.

- £ 1.65 per 30 minutes

How to hire a bike?

There are two ways to hire a bike—at a docking station terminal or via an app (the easier way)

At a docking station

- Touch the screen and insert a credit or debit card. The machine will print a receipt with a release code.

- Enter the release code. Wait until the green light flashes, pull out your bike and go.

Via the Santander cycle hire app

Smartphone users can now use an iOS or Android app to hire and pay for a bike. However, using the app does not reserve a bike. You still only have 10 minutes to use the release code, so make sure you're near the docking station when you use it.

Please note: You have to be 18 or over to pay for a bike. You also need a credit or debit card—cash is not accepted.

21. How much should you pay for renting a bike for 2 hours?

- A. £ 1.65. B. £ 3.3. C. £ 4.95. D. £ 6.6.

22. What should you pay attention to when renting a bike via an app? C

- A. Providing your personal information. B. Taking enough cash.
C. Minding the time limit. D. Making a reservation.

23. What does the text mainly talk about?

- A. Bike rental service. B. A docking station.
C. Traveling in London. D. A bike hiring app.

We've seen such scenes often: Needy families lining up for a bag of daily necessities—dry foodstuff, cooking essentials, basic toiletries(化妆品). But Foo Say Thye, 56-year-old co-founder of local volunteer group Heartwarmers, observed one common occurrence at these donation drives: Whenever beneficiaries(受益者) receive the bags, most would seem shy and unwilling to talk and would leave the venue almost immediately.

He realized that it is important not just to meet the physical needs of beneficiaries, but also consider their mental and emotional state as well. Foo Say Thye said that he wanted to take such goodie bag distribution a step further. That's why the group came up with Project 100 = 50.

"When we give bags of groceries to families, these are default(默认) items donated by the organizers. Project 100 = 50 allows participants to choose whatever they need and what they actually want," says Say Thye.

Project 100 = 50 is a community service event that supports low- to middle-income families by creating a “mini supermarket” where beneficiaries can choose to buy what they need at highly discounted prices. It partners with local supermarket group Sheng Siong, which supplies these groceries to Heartwarmers at a special rate.

Discounts are either capped(限额收取) at 50% if beneficiaries spend $100 or less or at $50 if they spend more than $100. Say Thye explains “Providing them with a choice on what to get at reduced prices raises their self-esteem and self-confidence. It also promotes self-help when beneficiaries can start to pay for their own necessities.”

Every month, different Group Representation Constituencies (GRCs) select low- to middle-income families who don't qualify for financial assistance from the Government or agencies to attend Project 100 = 50 events. Different GRCs use different criteria to choose the beneficiaries.

Volunteer Tan Jun An 21 says that these “sandwiched” families are stuck in between categories. “Like my own family, we are stuck in between. You're neither rich nor poor,” he says. “Because you don't fall in any other group, you cannot receive any benefits. So, this project helps the ‘sandwiched’”

24. What is the function of the first paragraph?
- A. To lead in the topic. B. To state the author's opinion.
C. To analyze a phenomenon. D. To share the author's routine.
25. Why was Project 100 = 50 started?
- A. To make groceries affordable. B. To offer financial assistance.
C. To compete with supermarkets. D. To provide emotional support.
26. Which can best describe Project 100 = 50 probably?
- A. Professional. B. Meaningful. C. Profitable. D. Convincing.
27. Which would be a suitable title for the text?
- A. The Challenges Faced by Needy Families
B. A New Way to Help Needy Families
C. The Importance of Self-Help for Beneficiaries
D. Government Assistance Failing Needy Families

Traditional Chinese culture featured noticeably in the opening and closing ceremonies of the Hangzhou Asian Games. While they stressed the solar terms, the he-he culture, meaning harmony and cooperation, was a common thread that ran through them.

Each of the 24 solar terms coincides with(与……一致) events in the natural world. The terms were put forward more than 2,000 years ago to guide not only agricultural activities, but also customs concerning food, dressing and social life. Nowadays, although Chinese people refer to more modern systems in daily life, except for in the agricultural area, they maintain a strong emotional and cultural bond with the solar terms as reminders of the wit(才智), creativity and diligence(勤奋) of their ancestors.

“I previously had no connection to Hangzhou, but now, after the closing ceremony, I think I share a special bond with this city,” said Wan Li, a 22-year-old college student at Fujian Normal University. “Watching the ceremony was also a wonderful chance for me to learn about the he-he culture, in which I was uninterested before.”

Kong Xianglong, a research assistant who worked in Hangzhou on an Asian Games research program and watched the ceremonies, expressed his admiration for the show as well as the Asian Games volunteers, who he said were walking examples of the he-he culture.

“The dance performances were absolutely attractive, a perfect display of the he-he idea and a highlight of the Asian Games,” Kong told Beijing Review. “The considerate service the volunteers provided every day actually invited people to learn about the he-he culture, which moved me a lot.”

Pakistani cricketer Muhammad said he believes that the opening and closing ceremonies played an important role in bringing people from different countries together “I saw a lot of different countries athletes coming together sharing their cultures and performing. I see a huge success," he told Xinhua News Agency.

28. What can be learned about the solar terms?
A. They thoroughly guide modern life. B. They belong to the past.
C. They tend to be ignored. D. They apply to farming.
29. How did the closing ceremony affect Wan Li?
A. It stimulated her passion for Chinese culture.
B. It strengthened her bond with the world.
C. It deepened her understanding of the Games.
D. It restored her confidence in the athletes.
30. What role does Muhammad think the ceremonies play?
A. They bridge cultural differences. B. They show Chinese philosophy.
C. They ensure athletes' better performances. D. They demonstrate the power of China.
31. Where may the text be taken from?
A. A guidebook. B. A news report. C. Science fiction. D. A textbook.

When food items are specifically labeled as vegan (素食)—indicating they are prepared with no animal products, including eggs or butter—people are less likely to select them even though it is better for the planet and for their health, according to a recent experiment.

Growing and transporting food accounts for a quarter of all global greenhouse gas emissions, which are accelerating the climate crisis. Of these, the vast majority come from processes linked to meat and dairy production, which is why experts are advising societies to shift toward more plant-based eating.

"We have to make big changes to how we produce and consume food if we want to reach climate goals and feed Earth's ever-growing population," says Richard Waite, an expert on food climate policy. But the study at MIT indicates this may prove challenging.

Researchers asked some 150 people attending several university events to choose their lunch between two options, one of them vegan. Choices included vegetable vs. cheese ravioli (奶酪馄饨) and a vegetable potato wrap vs. a Greek salad with feta (羊乳酪). A similar study of meal preferences was also conducted online. Half the respondents in both studies randomly received an order form in which the vegan item was labeled. When this vegan terminology (术语) was used, people were less likely to order the dish than when it was not. For the in-person attendees, some two-thirds more avoided the dish. After the research was published, some people told the study's lead author, Alex Berke, a doctoral student at MIT's Media Lab, the results were unexpected. But she anticipated the outcome. Berke herself began eating vegetarian diet—a plant-based one that includes dairy and eggs—at age 10 and adopted a vegan diet three years ago to help the climate. "Anyone who has been eating vegan for a while would not be surprised at the findings," says Berke. "Because there is a strong bias among people when it comes to vegetarian diet."

Environmentalists are clear they are not urging everyone to become vegetarians, but, if possible, to include more plant-based meals. "If you shift a third of your beef consumption to beans and soy, you reduce the climate impact of your diet by about 15 percent," one environmentalist says.

32. What does the recent experiment find?
A. People make food choices randomly. B. Vegan-labeled foods are less popular.
C. People tend to avoid meat products. D. Food choices have a huge impact on climate.
33. What can we learn from paragraph 4?
A. No one chose the food labeled vegan.
B. The study was conducted online.
C. 150 university students took part in the study.
D. Berke thought the findings were understandable.

英语试题 第5页(共8页)

34. What does the underlined word "bias" in paragraph 4 mean?
A. Similarity. B. Desire. C. Prejudice. D. Influence.

35. What do environmentalists suggest people do?
A. Avoid plant-based meals. B. Become vegetarians totally.
C. Reduce meat consumption. D. Abandon meat products.

Want to feel better, have more energy and even add years to your life? Just exercise. The health benefits of regular exercise and physical activity are hard to ignore. 36 Check out below how exercise can lead to a happier and healthier you.

Exercise controls weight.

Exercise can help prevent excess(过多的) weight gain or help maintain weight loss. When you engage in physical activity, you burn calories. The more intense the activity is, the more calories you burn.

Regular trips to the gym are great, but don't worry if you can't find enough time to exercise every day. 37 To gain the benefits of exercise, just get more active throughout your day—take the stairs instead of the lift or do your household chores. Consistency is key.

Exercise improves mood.

38 Or need to relax after a stressful day? A gym session or brisk walk can help. Physical activity stimulates various brain chemicals that may leave you feeling happier, more relaxed and less anxious. You may also feel better about your appearance and yourself when you exercise regularly, which can boost your confidence and improve your self-esteem.

Exercise boosts energy.

Tired out by grocery shopping or household chores? 39 Exercise delivers oxygen and nutrients to your tissues and helps your cardiovascular(心血管的) system work more efficiently. And when your heart and lung health improves, you have more energy to tackle daily chores.

Exercise can be fun and social.

Exercise and physical activity can be enjoyable. They give you a chance to relax, enjoy the outdoors or simply engage in activities that make you happy. Physical activity can also help you connect with family or friends in a fun social setting. 40 Find a physical activity you enjoy, and just do it.

A. Need an emotional lift?

B. Need to be more convinced to get moving?

C. Any amount of activity is better than none at all.

D. Try something new, or do something with confidence.

E. So take a dance class, hit the hiking trails or join a soccer team.

F. Regular physical activity can improve your muscle strength and boost your tolerance.

G. Exercise and physical activity are great ways to make you feel healthier and have a better shape.

In the rush of industrialization, many traditional skills have slowly disappeared out of people's sight. Luckily, there is a small studio 56 (name) "I'm Mr. Chu" in Beijing, where visitors can appreciate traditional handmade paper, showcasing the charm of the ancient skill.

As one of ancient China's four great inventions, paper-making technology was 57 (original) invented by Cai Lun in the Eastern Han Dynasty. Then it spread all over the world, greatly 58 (promote) the development of human society.

Chu is a kind of deciduous (落叶的) tree. Its bark is a common raw material used in paper making in ancient times. Han Yu, 59 famous writer of prose during the Tang Dynasty, called paper Mr. Chu in his work Biography of Mao Ying. Since then, it 60 (use) as a nickname for paper.

Cui Zhenshuo and Yang Bo came in contact with handmade paper quite by accident. Cui and Yang discovered that due 61 the remote location of most paper workshops, their products were unable to directly reach the market. Therefore, 62 (connect) rural workshops with buyers, Cui and Yang came up with the idea of establishing their own studio. In 2019, Cui and Yang founded "I'm Mr. Chu".

The two launched a series of handmade paper samples. Each volume consists of 30 types of handmade paper, each of 63 is sourced from its place of origin. "We expect that more people can learn about handmade paper in China," said Cui.

"We bond with handmade paper not because we love paper, 64 because it has a

第二节(满分25分)

阅读下面材料,根据其内容和所给段落开头语续写两段,使之构成一篇完整的短文。

There was a girl, Anna, who was studying in Esmarth Vil, a primary school in the United States of America.

She was the most hard-working girl in her class, and her marks were higher than all the other students'. She was the best, but nobody wanted to be her friend. They didn't want to play with her. Instead, they teased her.

One day, one of their teachers, Mr. Smith, arranged an exam for them and a boy, Robert, signed his exam paper using Anna's name. And Robert also changed Anna's name for his own immediately after Anna handed in her exam paper. Robert did all this so quickly that nobody noticed it. So, when the teacher returned all the exam papers, everybody was shocked. Anna was sad to find that she had failed the exam, but all the other kids were happy with this.

The next day when Anna arrived at school, all the kids wanted to be with her and invited her to play with them. Surprised though Anna was, she was glad to enjoy their company. When Anna was playing happily with the other children, all of a sudden, the teacher appeared to inform her that there had been a mistake, and that she hadn't failed.

The teacher explained to all of them what had happened. On hearing the truth, the other kids all stopped playing with Anna at once.

One day, the First Lady of the United States went to visit the school. She wanted to meet every child in the school. During her visit, the First Lady saw that Anna was crying, so she asked her why she was crying. Anna explained what had happened. She told her how the other kids didn't like her just because she was the most hard-working at the school and that she always got good results.

注意:1 续写词数应为150个左右;

2. 请按如下格式在答题卡的相应位置作答。

The First Lady was surprised to hear this.

After hearing the First Lady's speech, all the children realized that they had been relieved.

英语·答案

听力原文

Text 1

M: Someone stole my wallet last night!

W: Oh, what happened?

M: Well, I was working out in the club, and I had put my things in the cupboard. But I'd forgotten to lock it.

Text 2

W: Did you watch the film Never Say Never last Saturday?

M: Oh, yes. It was supposed to start at 2:30 pm, but was delayed 15 minutes.

Text 3

W: What shall we buy George for his birthday? How about a pet?

M: We bought him a dog last year. Let's get a book on cooking so he can make more nice cakes.

W: Sounds great!

Text 4

M: You know I had to leave the basketball game halfway last night, so I never found out who won.

W: Well, don't look at me. I left just a few minutes later.

Text 5

W: How much further do we have to walk? I thought we would be at the top by now.

M: What's the matter? Haven't all those gym sessions strengthened your legs? Come on, we'll be back home in no time.

Text 6

M: Lisa? Hi!

W: Hi, Ned.

M: Don't you usually drive to work?

W: Usually, but not in bad weather.

M: Why is that?

W: The traffic gets a lot worse when it rains or snows.

M: I always take the train. It's a lot faster for me than driving.

W: It's faster for me, too, but the time isn't always convenient.

M: Yeah, but think of all the things you can do on the train; read a book or the newspaper...

W: Or answer my email... No, thanks! My workday is long enough already.

Text 7

M: OK, just sign your name right here on this line, and you'll officially own your house!

W: Excellent! I can't believe I just bought a house! When can I move in?

M: The previous owners need to clean the house this weekend, but you can move in on Monday morning. Do you have the keys?

W: No, I don't have the keys. Can I pick them up from your office tomorrow?

M: My office isn't open on Fridays, but I can bring them to you this weekend. Do you have all the copies of these important papers?

W: Yes. I have a question. Do you sell houses in Springfield, too? My friend wants to sell his house and I'd love to recommend you.

M: Yes, I do. Thanks for the recommendation!

Text 8

M: Hey, Betsy. I just got a promotion, and I am going to throw a huge party on Saturday for all of my friends. I am hoping there will be 150 people there. I would love it if you could come.

W: Wow, congratulations and thanks so much, Frank. This must be a big promotion. I would love to go.

M: Oh, great, the more, the merrier. This really is a big deal for me. We can now afford the new house my wife has always wanted. I just hope I don't have to put too many hours in. I hate to lose too much time with my family.

W: I can understand that, but let's keep focusing on the bright side. I can't wait for that party.

Text 9

W: Hi, Kevin. Are you playing a computer game? We'll have a biology mid-term exam tomorrow, so I thought you'd be studying for it and maybe I can study with you.

M: Well, I'm just taking a break. This biology stuff gives me a headache if I work on it too long.

W: I know what you mean. I've been working on it for three hours already, but I'm still confused about some of the theories.

M: I couldn't believe you were coming to me. I mean you know what I got on the last test, don't you?

W: Yeah, I know. But I just thought two heads might be better than one.

M: Yeah, that's a nice idea. I wish I knew the student in Class 2 who got full marks on the last test. Umm...was it Elizabeth?

W: Yes! She's a friend of mine. She can be a big help and I'm calling her right now.

M: What? At this hour? It's already 10:30. I don't want to cause her any inconvenience.

W: I guess you are right.

Text 10

M: Good morning, everyone, I am Dr. Smith, and I am your laboratory instructor. This class is intended as a necessary part of the course, which Dr. James will be in charge of. First I expect you to be on time. I do not intend to wait for latecomers.

Attendance is equally important. If you miss three lab classes, your name will be moved away from the class list, I'm afraid. No excuses. You can't complete the course without completing lab classes.

Safety is key here. You mustn't eat, drink or smoke in the laboratory and you should always clean the table top and wash your hands before and after the class. Long hair must be tied up. Large clothing must be worn. And, finally, any laboratory accident must be reported immediately.

I hope you'll enjoy the laboratory. It's a wonderful place but all these instructions are to be strictly followed. We will begin today by learning about the microscope.

写作第一节(满分 15 分)

One possible version:

Dear Ryan,

I'm writing to share some feedback on the oral English course with you. I must say the course has been truly valuable. The interactive activities have improved our speaking skills and boosted our confidence. Besides, your engaging teaching style and diverse topics always keep us motivated.

However, the pace is a bit fast, making it challenging for us to absorb all the materials. Additionally, more individualized feedback on our pronunciation would be beneficial. We'd appreciate it if you could slow down a bit and schedule some time to address common pronunciation issues.

Thank you for your dedication to our learning journey. We will be excited to see how the course can become even more effective.

Yours,
Li Hua

评分原则

1. 本题总分为 15 分,按 5 个档次给分。
2. 评分时,先根据文章的内容和语言初步确定其所属档次,然后以该档次的要求来衡量,确定或调整档次,最后给分。
3. 词数少于 60 的,从总分中减去 2 分。
4. 评分时,应注意的主要内容为:内容要点、应用词汇和语法结构的丰富性和准确性、上下文的连贯性及语言的得体性。
5. 拼写与标点符号是语言准确性的一个方面,评分时,应视其对交际的影响程度予以考虑。英、美拼写及词汇用法均可接受。
6. 如书写较差,以至影响交际,将分数降低一个档次。
7. 内容要点可用不同方式表达,对紧扣主题的适当发挥不予扣分。

【各档次的给分范围和要求】

第五档:(13—15 分)

1. 完全完成了试题规定的任务。
2. 覆盖所有内容要点。
3. 应用了较多的语法结构和词汇。

写作第二节(满分 25 分)

One possible version:

The First Lady was saddened to hear this. She managed to calm Anna down before asking her to share with her all the unpleasant things that had happened to her at school. After Anna finished, the First Lady told her that it was necessary for her to pour out her feelings whenever something unhappy happened to her. She also suggested Anna make good use of her excellent academic achievements to help her classmates with their study, saying that she could eventually develop real friendships with them. Then the First Lady told Anna's classmates stories about her childhood that were similar to Anna's.

After hearing the First Lady's speech, all the children realized that they had been rude to Anna. They felt regretful and realized that they should have been happy to have a friend that got such good marks and made such a big effort at school. Then they made up their minds to follow Anna's example and their hard work paid off. Their marks began to improve little by little. And between classes they always played together without ignoring Anna. From then on they were very happy and learned the lesson of respecting others.

评分原则

1. 本题总分为 25 分,按 5 个档次给分。
2. 评分时,先根据所续写短文的内容和语言初步确定其所属档次,然后以该档次的要求来衡量、确定或调整档次,最后给分。
3. 词数少于 130 的,从总分中减去 2 分。
