应用文

Mrs Christina,

I'm Li Hua. Hearing you're going to require us to read an English novel and write a reading report during the winter holidays, I'm writing to share my worries.

First, it's quite challenging for us to finish your assignment. Second, we won't have much free time to read a whole novel. So, would you please recommend a readable novel for us? And you'd better give us a proper amount of reading every day, ensuring we finish the reading task in the given time.

I'd appreciate it if you could take my advice seriously.

Yours sincerely

Li Hua

读后续写

I couldn't ride my bike, and on that day, it was no different. I was practising riding in a park. I struggled, but in vain. "I'm so stupid!" I murmured to myself. Overwhelmed by a sense of failure, I burst into tears. Suddenly, a familiar voice came, "You're a noisy girl! What happened?" I stared at my sister with tears in my eyes. To my surprise, she lifted the bike up, saying, "Let me teach you!" Then she patiently told me how to keep a balance while riding. She encouraged me to have another try and promised to give me necessary help.

My sister never once let me fall. She helped me with my bike like a protective umbrella and inspired me. Little by little I could keep my balance and my fear disappeared. Eventually, I could ride the bicycle without my sister's aid. "Congratulations!" my sister called to me. Not until that moment did I realize my sister's hidden love for me. I got off the bike and ran to hug her tightly, conveying my gratitude. Since then, we've always kept a close relationship.

录音原文：

Text 1

W: Here's the jacket you asked for. It's cold outside, so let's try to stay warm.

M: Oh, I asked for my black coat. This one is a bit small for me. (1)

W: Sorry, the closet was dark and I couldn't see the color.

Text 2

M: It looks like your passionate campaign paid off. The school is officially set to ban non-reusable plastic. I'm amazed you managed to do this on your own.

W: I'm just glad they are listening to us and taking our ideas seriously. (2)

Text 3

M: I run every day. It's part of my routine and helps me feel like I've accomplished something.

W: Really? I go to the gym every Monday and that's all the exercise I do! (3) And I only started doing that three months ago.

Text 4

W: Oh my, I'm supposed to meet with my professor at 5:00 p.m. I've only got an hour left to finish my proposal and get to her office. (4)

M: Can you push it back another hour?

W: No, that's the only time she can meet.

Text 5

M: Hi, I'm looking to check out a book about the history of French cooking. I'm doing a bit of research for a class.

W: It should be upstairs in the history section, but you can double check the directory on one of the computers there. (5)

Text 6

W: I am going to vacation in California. How can I get from one place to another? (6)

M: Where are you starting from and where do you want to go?

W: I am flying into Los Angeles. I want to visit Disneyland. I also want to examine the San Diego Zoo.

M: Your best choice is to rent a car. California is very large and it takes a long time to get from one place to another. You can drive to Disneyland first. (7) After that, the San Diego Zoo and several museums are in Balboa Park. You can drive to the area, park and then walk to all of them.

W: That sounds great!

Text 7

M: The kitty hasn't eaten all day. Food is usually his favorite thing. I'm worried that he could be sick. (8)

W: You shouldn't worry if it's just been a day. Cats are moody. He's probably just upset that Sarah's been gone for a few days. (9)

M: Well, she'll be gone for a while. If he doesn't eat the whole time, you'll have to explain to our daughter how we let the cat become all skin and bones while she was having fun at summer camp. (9) (10)

W: If it gets serious, we can definitely take him to the doctor at the animal hospital. But I think he'll be fine.

M: I wish I could tell him not to be upset.

W: He'll have to get used to it since Sarah's going off to school in the fall. She can't take him with her.

Text 8 (第 13 题为推断题)

W: Good morning. May I help you?

M: Hi. I need to talk to someone about my mobile phone bill. Can you help me? (11)

W: Yes, no problem. Can I please have your full name?

M: It's Mike Shekhar. I'm on the $30 data plan.

W: And you have $10 of free calls, right?

M: I started with that plan. But a month ago, I changed my plan slightly and now have $20 of calls included.

W: Oh, right. Here it is. What can I help you with?

M: I think I've been overcharged. It should be $40, but I've been charged $60. (11)

W: Let me have a look at your account history. Ah, I see. For some reason, you were charged according to your old plan. OK, I have corrected the problem. Just ignore your current bill. (11) (12) A new one will be sent out the day after tomorrow. (12)

M: I don't want to pay extra money because the bill is overdue.

W: Don't worry. I'll put a two-week extension on this month's bill, so you still have time to pay it!

Text 9 (第 14 题为总结题)

M: I can't make this decision for you. I think you should think about your options carefully, but also don't stress too much about it. You might not know until you start taking some classes.

W: But how did you decide? Did you immediately know that you liked history?

M: Well, I definitely enjoyed it. But there were also a lot of things I didn't get to study very closely in high school, so I thought college might be a good time to explore some different subjects. My mom even suggested that I take some classes in economics. (15)

W: Really? I have no idea. Grandma doesn't ever talk about that kind of stuff either. But she has always seemed to be supportive of whatever you do.

M: At the time, she just thought that there might be more opportunities for me later if I picked economics. (15) And I did like studying it.

W: But in the end you still chose history. And it worked out too. You love your job as a professor. (16) But how did that happen?

M: I took many interesting classes during college. But within the first year, I realized that when I studied history, I always wanted to learn more than just what was being taught in class. For other subjects, I seldom found myself researching things for fun. So that's why I chose it as my major.

W: Well, I really hope I can find something that interests me that much. (17)

Text 10

Singapore has given approval for the world's first "clean meat". (18) This kind of meat does not come from dead animals. The decision enables Eat Just, a company in San Francisco, to sell lab-grown chicken meat. However, when it will become available is unknown. As people care about health, animal welfare and the environment, their demand for alternatives to regular meat has increased. (18) According to Barclays Bank, the market for meat alternatives could be worth $140 billion within the next decade, or about 10 percent of the $1.4 trillion global meat industry. (19) Plant-based meat options are increasingly found on supermarket shelves and restaurant menus. But Eat Just's product is different because it is not plant-based. (20) Instead, it's grown from animal muscle cells. The company calls it a "breakthrough for the global food industry", and hopes other countries will also do so. Over the last ten years, dozens of new companies have tried to bring artificial meat to market. They hoped to win over conventional meat eaters with the promise of a more animal-friendly product. Now, companies are trying hard to enter the market with cheap and tasty lab-grown meats. While many have spoken about the environmental benefits, some scientists say it might be worse for climate change under some conditions.
