M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club—we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages—you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday—Spanish; Tuesday—Italian; Wednesday—German; and Friday—French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

M: I know. But this one was a birthday present from my wife. It has been with me for so many years. . .

W: Well, I have a friend who knows a lot about fixing cars. Perhaps I could ask him to give your car a thorough check sometime if you want.

W: If you are lost in the woods, don't panic. Sit down on some rock, or lean against the tree, and recite something that you have memorized, just to bring your mind to a point where it's under control. Don't follow a stream unless you know it, and in that case, you're not lost. Streams normally flow through wetland, where you're very likely to come across wild animals, poisonous snakes, etc. Many experts feel that it is the wisest to walk uphill. At the top of most hills and mountains are trails leading back to civilizations. And you may even spot a highway or a railroad from this point. Nowadays, the first way someone will search for you is by air. In the woods, you are very hard to be seen. You may think a detailed map or a cellphone would help, but a nervous mind would often make the map more confusing to read, and the cellphone is always out of power when you're in emergency. Therefore, anytime you go into the woods, somebody should know where you're going, and when you are expected to return.

参考范文:

Dear Novak,

I know you are good at playing the violin, and I was deeply impressed by your performance at the school evening party last time. I admire your playing skills very much. If it's convenient for you, I'd like to learn to play the violin from you. I hear that you are also interested in Chinese musical instruments. It happens that I am good at Chinese lute. In return, I can share my playing skills with you. I hope you will consider my advice, which will be a win-win one.

Looking forward to your reply.

Yours,

Li Hua

参考范文:

Max and I stared at it in fear. Ben backed up against the fence, attempting to climb up, but a loud howl stopped him in his tracks. Recovering from the shock, I anxiously searched my mind for an idea about how I could assist Ben. Should I climb up the fence and help Ben? Or could I do something to distract the dog? Ben was in danger of being attacked by Mr Mason's ferocious dog. Dropping everything, I searched my bag for something to help Ben.

Just then I caught sight of my half-eaten burger on the path. I had dropped it in panic. Dogs love beef! There was no time to waste. Grabbing it from the pavement, I used all my strength to throw it over the fence, hitting the German shepherd directly on the neck. "Eat it, dog!" I shouted. Thankfully, the dog decided that the burger was more appealing than a little boy. The dog turned its head away from Ben, who swiftly regained his calm and climbed over the fence. The three of us made our way home again, agreeing that it was a fortunate escape.
