Italy's most attractive towns

Whether you're looking for historical adventures or attractive walks along the coast, here are Italy's most fascinating towns.

Positano

Positano is the ideal introduction to the perfect Amalfi Coast. The fascinating town transports you to a beautiful setting with pink houses. The views from this delightful town are perfect, with the ocean stretching as far as the eye can see. The beaches are peaceful, with a day in the Italian sun inviting you to dive in and take in all Positano offers.

Alberobello

Lying in the Itria Valley countryside, the unusual town of Alberobello awaits. The white-washed round houses are located in Aia Piccola, a quiet residential area, and Rione Monti, with local shops. If you're in the mood for an adventure, the Itria Valley is a great starting point for picturesque bike rides and scenic drives, with the caves of Castellana and Adriatic being only a short drive away.

Polignano a Mare

Situated on Puglia's Adriatic coast, Polignano a Mare, is a picture-perfect of old town on a hilltop. The narrow streets with beautiful whitewashed houses will transport you to a simpler time. Caves along the coast are one of the top reasons for visiting the Adriatic coast. Visitors are invited to swim to explore the natural wonders. If swimming isn't your thing, then hiring a boat to go along the coast is a must for the adventurers.

Cefalu

Located in Sicily, Cefalu is the example of old-town elegance. Featuring stone streets, a sandy beach, and local skill shops, you're in for a true Italian experience. This seaside town is a must-visit because it is a microcosm(缩影)of everything that makes Sicily so attractive as a destination. Whether you want to enjoy the Italian sun on the beach, go on a historic exploration, or want a city-style break, the little town has it all.

21. What is special about Alberobello among the towns?
- A. It owns many shops.                      B. People can visit caves in it.
C. There are white houses there.        D. Visitors can take a ride for its scenery.
22. Where will you go if you want to see the coast caves?
- A. Cefalu.                                      B. Positano.
C. Alberobello.                              D. Polignano a Mare.
23. What do Positano, Polignano a Mare and Cefalu have in common?
- A. All of them are seaside towns.        B. They are old towns on the hill.
C. Visitors can enjoy the Italian sun there.    D. There are beautiful houses in the towns.

B

At an early age, Penny suffered from brain cancer. But Penny refused to live in darkness. In fact, she chose to spread light to everyone around her.

Penny created a series of small gatherings called Adventure Camps for the kids in the neighborhood. It was Penny's way of enhancing connections among her neighbors. For those who couldn't attend, she made funny videos and shared her artwork on the social media. She loved to use her creativity to make ordinary things beautiful.

When it was time for another surgery —she had 15 in all —Penny would go about it with failure. No complaining, no crying, she just got through it and got back to living. Her mother recalled, "Somebody said Penny was an actress and the world was her stage. She was a representative of joy."

Her teachers remembered her as a hardworking girl everyone wanted to be around. She was happy and beautiful and gifted in art. And she used those qualities to lift others. Her father remembered, "She taught us how to treat other people."

Sometimes a very special person comes into this life to remind all of us what we should really do. We should make time to produce beauty and to share it. Penny's artwork made people happy. Her videos made people suffering hard things focus on good things. Her friendship brought a sense of hope to everyone who wanted to be close to her.

Penny passed away at the age of 16. "She made a choice to live her life with joy and optimism," said her father. That optimism continued to burn bright. Her family launched Penny's Flight, a foundation committed to inspiring others to live life as she did. The foundation raised money for cancer research and also celebrated life by sharing the message: Spread your wings. Shine your light.

高三英语试题 第 3 页(共 8 页)

24. How did Penny live her life after knowing her cancer?

- A. She was negative due to suffering from her disease.
- B. She was optimistic to influence people around her.
- C. She made videos and created artwork to kill her time.
- D. She refused to interact with the kids in the neighborhood.

25. What do we infer from paragraphs 3 and 4?

- A. People around Penny thought highly of her.
- B. Penny had fifteen successful operations.
- C. Penny never complained about her disease.
- D. Penny was a gifted actress and artist.

26. Why did Penny's family found Penny's Flight?

- A. To bring people a sense of hope.
- B. To make people focus on good things.
- C. To remind people what they should do.
- D. To inspire people to live with optimism.

27. Which of the following can best describe Penny?

- A. Talented and patient.
- B. Strong and friendly.
- C. Joyful and positive.
- D. Organised and funny.

C

Tall, long-necked giraffes are famous for their spots. The spots are believed to help the animals hide from their enemies. The skin beneath the spots may also help giraffes stay at the right temperature. Just like no two humans have the same fingerprints, each giraffe has its own special pattern of spots.

Unless, of course, it doesn't have any spots. Recently a baby giraffe was born at Brights Zoo in Limestone, Tennessee with no spots at all. Instead, its fur is a light brown. The giraffe is a reticulated(网纹) giraffe, which is one of the four different kinds of giraffes. It was born perfectly healthy. It just doesn't have any spots.

David Bright, who runs the zoo, said, "This is beyond rare. The last time this happened was 1972 in Japan." Currently, the young giraffe is believed to be the only spotless giraffe in the world. The young giraffe is a girl. Giraffes are born quite large. This one isn't quite a month old, and she's already about 1.8 meters tall. Mr. Bright says she's very sweet, and has a relaxed personality. A giraffe's pattern of spots is created when the animal is still growing inside its mother. That means that this giraffe will never have spots.

Mr. Bright says that the new giraffe might not have survived if she had been born in the wild. "Being solid colored, she may not be able to hide quite as well," said Mr. Bright. He also thought it was likely that the giraffe would be a "key target for poachers" because she's so unusual.

Reticulated giraffes are already struggling. In 2018, they were officially listed as "threatened". Thirty-five years ago, there were 36,000 reticulated giraffes. Now, those numbers have been cut by more than 50%. Only about 16,000 reticulated giraffes remain. Brights Zoo is hoping to use the young spotless giraffe to bring attention to efforts to protect giraffes. Mr. Bright says the zoo hopes to raise money for groups like Save Giraffes Now and the Giraffe Conservation Foundation.

28. What do we know about the spots of giraffes?

- A. They help protect giraffes.
- B. They are the same pattern.
- C. They adjust giraffes' temperature.
- D. They are less famous than their long necks.

29. What is special about the baby giraffe born at Brights Zoo?

- A. It is larger when being born.
- B. It is sweet and relaxed.
- C. Its fur is a light brown without spots.
- D. Its spots disappeared after being born.

30. What does the underlined word mean in paragraph 4?

高三英语试题 第 4 页(共 8 页)

- A. Curious adventurers.                      B. Professional photographers.
C. Illegal hunters.                            D. Strong competitors.

31. How will Brights Zoo help protect giraffes?

- A. Improving the living ability of giraffes.    B. Collecting money for protecting giraffes.
C. Increasing the reproducing rate of giraffes.    D. Removing giraffes from the threatened list.

D

Cruise and Waymo are two companies that have been developing self-driving taxis, sometimes called “robotaxis” (robot + taxi). Until recently, the cars have had a human in the driver's seat, ready to take over if there was a problem. But the newest self-driving cars don't have anyone in the driver's seat. They are programmed to do everything on their own, including obeying the rules of the road, following speed limits, and avoiding people and other cars.

In early August, Waymo and Cruise were given full permission to operate their robotaxis. The companies were allowed to run as many driverless cars as they wanted, 24 hours a day. And the companies weren't required to have safety drivers in their cars. The move was a big step for self-driving cars, and many people were excited about the change. The new rules also allowed the companies to charge for every ride, which meant that the robotaxis could finally start to earn money.

But almost immediately, there were problems. A Cruise car crashed into a fire truck, sending a person to the hospital. Later, a Cruise car stopped working in the middle of a crossroad, causing a traffic jam. As a result, Cruise was told to take half of its robotaxis off the roads.

In one recent example, a self-driving car got stuck in wet concrete because it didn't know that wet concrete was different from a road. In another case, a robotaxi killed a dog. The self-driving system knew the dog was there, but didn't know how to avoid it. One group that is upset about self-driving cars has found an unusual way to protest: putting traffic cones(圆锥体) on the robotaxis. The cone confuses the car's driving system and leaves them unable to move.

In spite of the problems, both Waymo and Cruise are planning to expand their self-driving car service to other cities. Cruise has plans to bring their robotaxis to at least 15 cities. Waymo says its driverless system will soon be able to work “in any city, on any kind of vehicle”. Though the quality of self-driving cars is improving, it's likely to be a while before most people view them as safe.

32. What was the latest change to the robotaxis recently?

- A. They were able to really make money.
B. They could obey the traffic rules by itself.
C. They could run 24 hours on the road a day.
D. They didn't have a human driver any more.

33. What problem did robotaxis have on the roads?

- A. They killed a person in an accident.
B. They couldn't avoid the traffic cones.
C. They sometimes broke down on the roads.
D. They couldn't recognise the concrete road.

34. How do most people think robotaxis now?

- A. It is very convenient to take robotaxis.
B. The safety of robotaxis is still a problem.
C. Robotaxis should be expanded in the cities.
D. The driverless system of robotaxis is perfect.

35. What's the best title for the passage?

高三英语试题 第 5 页(共 8 页)

- A. Robotaxis Will Expand to More Cities
- B. Robotaxis Has a Perfect Self-driving System
- C. Robotaxis Move Forward, but Face Problems
- D. Robotaxis Cause Many Accidents on the Roads

第二节(共 5 小题;每小题 2.5 分,满分 12.5 分)

根据短文内容,从短文后的选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

What to do after asking your friends R U OK?

We all have lots of big feelings. Some days, we feel fantastic and like everything is going our way. 36 Those are the times when we could really use the support of a kind friend. How can we help if we notice a friend isn't feeling quite themselves? We can take time to ask, "Are you OK?" and really listen to what our friends have to say. Remember "ALEC" with these four easy conversation steps:

A—Ask

Maybe your friend is acting a bit different to how they usually would. Maybe they are quieter or not joining in games they usually enjoy. 37 After you do, the next important thing is to really listen to what they have to say.

L—Listen

Let your friends tell you how they feel. 38 Don't worry about having all the answers, it's not your job to fix things, and just having someone to listen to them can really help.

E—Encourage action

Help your friend think of a trusted adult they can talk to. Sometimes a listening ear might be all our friends need. Other times their feelings or problems are just too big for friends to manage on their own. The next step of an "R U OK?" conversation is to encourage action. 39

C—Check in

40 The final step is to check back in to see how they are doing in the days and weeks that follow. This might be asking them how they're feeling, sending a text message, or even just sitting and spending time together so they know they have a friend who really cares.

- A. All feelings and emotions are completely normal.
- B. If you're not quite sure how to ask, that's OK too.
- C. Other days we may feel a bit sad, lonely, or defeated.
- D. A few days later, ask your friend if they are feeling better.
- E. That sounds like a good time to ask them, "Are you OK?".
- F. You could suggest they talk to a teacher or another trusted adult.
- G. Give them time to speak and explain to you how they are feeling.

第二节 读后续写(满分 25 分)

阅读下面材料, 根据其内容和所给段落开头语续写两段, 使之构成一篇完整的短文。

Nowadays people look on YouTube, watch the World Cup and see that I am now a superstar, but they don't know the journey. They don't know about my living room walls turning from white to black. They don't know about my father working under a little roof. They don't know about my mother riding an old yellow bicycle through the rain and the cold and several dangerous areas every day when I was a little boy.

Initially, the walls of our house were supposed to be white. But I never remember them being white. At first, they were grey, then turning black. My father was a coal worker. He made charcoal in our house. Have you ever seen charcoal being made? The little bags you buy in the store for barbeque, they come from somewhere, and honestly, it's a very dirty business.

I remember one day I was bagging up the charcoal with my dad, and it was really cold and raining. All we had was the tiny roof over our heads. After a few hours, I got to go to school, where it was warm. My dad stayed out there working, all day. If he didn't sell that day, maybe we wouldn't have enough to eat.

I thought to myself: At some point, everything is going to change. For this, I owe football everything.

I started football early. I played so much football that every two months, my boots would break apart. When I was seven, I must have been pretty good, because I scored 64 goals for my neighborhood team.

That year, my dad got a call from a coach saying they wanted me to play there. My dad asked, "Oh, it's too far away. Nine kilometers. How will we get him there?" My mom said, "No, no, no! Don't worry, I'll take him!"

注意:

- 1. 续写词数应为 150 左右;
- 2. 请按如下格式在答题卡的相应位置作答。

"Let's make and sell more charcoal per day to buy a used bike!" my mother said with a determined look.

My mother used the old bicycle to drive me to training every day.
